Released on Bail.

In the Supreme Court, Tuesday, inter locutory judgment was delivered in the case the Queen v. Baptiste Theriault. The court authorized that the prisoner be admitted to bail before two Victoria county justices, and fixed the amount for the prisoner at $2,000, and two more sureties aggregating $2,000, the sureties to be approved by the clerk of the peace. The condition of the bail is that Theriault appear at the September circuit court and take his trial upon the indictment already presented against him for murder. No judgment on points raised was delivered, but from the above order it is clear that Theriault will at least have a new trial.

A Painful Duty.

Judge E. L. Wetmore, formerly of Fredericton, now of the Supreme Court bench in the northwest, for the first time in his experience, pronounced the death sentence on Italians convicted of murder. When the 3,30 p. m. verdict of "guilty" was announced there was a sensation throughout the court, and the nephew of one of the prisoners, set up a pitiful howling, which immediately started women in the audience crying hysterically. When Judge Wetmore, who was deeply affected, pronounced the sentence, Luciano, the younger prisoner, fell flat upon his face. The spectators were so affected that it was Alleged Indecent Assault.

John W. Schleyer, a well known resident of this city, and engineer at Risteen's factory, was arrested at noon, Thursday, by S. Schleyer was arraigned before Police Magistrate Marsh. and remanded until 11 a. m. today, when the preliminary examination was commenced. Schleyer is a married man with a family, is about 45 years old, has always borne a good reputation, and the terrible ago, went to St. John when a very young charge against him has caused his friends great surprise. A Quiet Meeting

The city council met last night to finish up the business of the regular February meeting which was disturbed by the antics of an up town alderman, and the proceedings were quiet, orderly and decent. Mayor Beckwith was in the chair, and his presence had a restraining influence on the beligerent members, and the business was run through without much friction. The public anticipated another circus, and was well represented, but the show failed to connect and the spectators were disappointed. Ald. Duffy, however, made quite an eloquent address on the proposal to amend the city "chart," and his style of oratory so strongly resembled that of Herman Pitts. that the latter eagerly seized Peter Duffy's hand at the close of the meeting, congratulated him on his great effort, and engaged him for a place on the Pitts' ticket at the next election. Cicero and Demosthenes, Phinney and Dr. Atkinson, are not in it with Duffy and Pitts.

After the rontine business of last night's meeting had been disposed of, a petition from the Fredericton board of trade, asking the council to apply for legislation amending the law relating to the election of aldermen, was received and laid on the table. eight aldermen shall constitute the city council, one alderman to be elected for each ward, and three for the whole city, all to be voted on by the entire electorate of the city. The council did not take very kindly to the board's recommendations, but the majority evidently desire a change of some kind, and a committee was appointed to prepare a bill lar Superintendent of Education, has leased on the subject to be submitted to the next the Edgecombe brick house on King street, meeeting of the council. He played a great game, and continuously showed his heels to Courtenay till the end, when he had piled up a score nineteen to eight, winning by the handsome score of eleven points. On the other rink it fared ill for Jock Greives, who played in hard luck against Davie Willet, the strongest skip among the visitors. At one time it looked as if Jock would be completely wiped out, but he never gave up, and pulled out of a very bad hole with a majority of only seven against him. A "four end" sent his drooping spirits up. When the afternoon's play was finished, Fredericton stood four points ahead.

The evening contests were entered upon by the home team with a dash, that presaged victory. Rutter was drawn against Percy Robinson, a strong player, and Hawthorn faced Andrew Malcolm, a canny Scott, and both the Fredericton men beat their adversaries. Rutter had reached thirteen points before his opponent scored at all, he and all his men playing a very pretty game. The totals here were nineteen to twelve. It was neck and neck with Hawthorn and Malcolm, but towards the finish the Fredericton boys pulled ahead, and won with a score of fifteen to ten, Fredericton winning the match by a majority of sixteen points.
