NURMI AND MENTOR HAVE PARTED.

FITCHBURG, Mass., May 10.—Paavo Nurmi and his manager, Hugo Quist, have parted, the Finnish runner said yesterday. Asking to explain why Quist had not accompanied him to Fitchburg for his appearance, the runner said:

"We have parted. I will be in this country only two weeks more, and I will no longer need any interpreter or manager."

MAKES PREDICTION.

Hype Igoe, New York writer of note, says:—Jack Dempsey has sailed for Europe, and while abroad he is almost certain to take on some heavyweight for what he terms "target practice." Negotiations are on foot to have Jack meet Hans Bristenstrader, the best man in Germany. Paul Sampson is over there, and there is a third heavy named Rossman.

I'm making a prediction concerning Dempsey. HE'LL FIGHT IN THIS COUNTRY THIS YEAR. Don't fool yourself on that score. It stands to reason that Dempsey CAN'T retire with the Wills shadow over him. He wouldn't be worth a dime as any kind of an attraction if he let the Wills matter slip by. He'd be hounded to the end of his days, and Dempsey is smart enough to know that. His great drawing power AFTER he retires would be in the fact that he MET and DEFEATED WILLS.

He'll FIGHT WILLS. I'll stake my life on that. Now see if it doesn't come true. He'll fight once this year and he'll fight a couple of times next year. Now what do you think of that?

CRACK PICARON SCRATCHED FROM ENGLISH DERBY.

Removal of Manion Star Will Make The Big British Classic More Open Race.

LONDON, May 11.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Picaroon, A. B. Cox's good three-year-old, was scratched from the Derby to-day. Picaroon, by Bep-Clooneretta, was the champion two-year-old, and throughout the winter was favorite for the Derby, and for the two thousand guineas. He won the Graven Stakes three weeks ago, at Newmarket, since when he has had to stop fast training on account of leg trouble. Picaroon was scratched from the two thousand guineas, and as his leg has not seemed to progress as favorably as it might, he was knocked down to a 66 to 1 Derby candidate.

His removal will make this year's great classic a more open race, for the Manton crack is admittedly superior to some of the prominent contenders.

YOUNG STRIBLING SURPRISED FANS.

Georgian Fought Harder Than Ever Before and Retained Speed and Cleverness Against Rojas.

"Ma's" boy, Willie (Young) Stribling, always popular in Boston, handed the Bean Town fans a real shock last Thursday night when he flattened the tough Chilean, Romero Rojas, in four rounds. The young Georgian was favored to outpoint his opponent by a considerable margin, but very few fans expected a knockout.

Rojas, who had been knocked out only once before, and then by Floyd Johnson, when the Iowa was at his best, was expected to stand up to any attack Stribling might present, but the Western invader stepped into the Chilean from the start and astonished the fans with the way he polished off the man who had survived the attack of some of the hardest hitters in the heavyweight class.

Stribling, conceding 12 3-4 pounds to his opponent, pushed harder than ever before and still retained his speed and cleverness. According to Boston sport writers, the young Georgian is destined to carve his name in heavyweight fighting circles. Boston promoters are now trying to match Stribling with Jim Maloney, sensational heavy star.

Woman Assassinates

"Prince of the Macedonians" in a Box at a Theatre in Vienna After Inviting Him and His Wife to the Performance.

Vienna, May 11.—Six shots from a revolver, fired by Anna Karlinicu at a man named Alautovic or Panizza at the Burg Theatre here, Friday night, during a performance of Henrik Ibsen's "Peer Gynt," were not heard by the audience, owing to the noise being made on the stage. It was only when a woman's screams continued, and she was seen leaning across the edge of the box with blood streaming from her face, that the audience became aware that a tragedy had been enacted.

A Bulgarian vendetta of many years' standing thus reached its climax during the performance of the Norwegian dramatist's masterpiece, under circumstances and with a background no dramatist could emulate.

The assassin, a beautiful, slender, pale woman of 28 years, elegantly dressed, was arrested immediately, offering no resistance. She had succeeded in killing Rodora Panizza, alias Alautovic, the surviving leader of the Macedonian Federalists, several of whom—Daskalov, Tchaulev, Alexandrov and Yankov—have been killed in the course of the last year. After the assassination of the great Alexandrov, Panizza was regarded as the "Prince of the Macedonians."

Madame Karlinicu has been in Vienna several months, and she is believed to be a secret agent of the Bulgarian Government. Panizza, with his wife, arrived in Vienna three weeks ago, to attend the wedding of his sister.

Madame Karlinicu approached the couple and they became friends. She bought a box at the theatre and invited the couple, with Panizza's sister and her husband, to attend the performance. Madame Karlinicu sat between Panizza and his wife, and as the climax came in the play she rose and fired six shots, killing Panizza and wounding all the others in the party. After her arrest she said that as Panizza was always surrounded by a body-guard, and had she made a suspicious move in the street, in a restaurant, or elsewhere, Panizza's friends would have killed her, she chose the theatre instead.

Loaded revolvers were found on Panizza's body and also in the possession of his wounded wife and brother-in-law. The Karlinicu woman told the police she carried her revolver concealed under her silk underwear.

Mme. Karlinicu is of Macedonian origin. She told the police she killed Panizza because he had murdered "two good Macedonians." It is believed Panizza was the assassin of the renowned Macedonian leader, Boris Saksalov, twenty years ago.

Panizza was the last surviving leader of the Federalists, who want a United Macedonia within a Balkan Federation, comprising both Jugo Slavia and Bulgaria. They are opposed both by the Jugo Slave and Bulgarian Governments. His death is equally welcome to both Governments.

"I'm glad he's dead. My life does not matter," she said. She is said to be ill of tuberculosis and kidney disease.
