SanFrancisco, Feb. 20 .- The mail and the cabin passengers of the steamer China were landed yesterday after-noon. The Japanese Gazette of Feb. contains an account of the convicion and sentence to death, and late commutation to imprisonment for life of Edith May Hallowell Carew for the murder of her husband. The paper says:

"Never has so solemn and impressive a scene been enacted in a consular court in Yokohama as that which on Monday afternoon closed the last pub-lic act of the Carew tragedy, so far as concerns the unfortunate lady now convicted of murder. The intensity of feeling that manifested itself at outset was allayed somewhat by the calm, stately tone of the judge delivered with terrible lucidity the crushing arguments of his charge.
"The jury was out 45 minutes, and when the verdict of guilty was given the silence that ensued was terrible.

The face of the accused woman became overspread with a ghastly dull blue tint; the lines of her lips changed to a chalky white; her eyes assumed the look of an animal stricken to death; her hands clutched convulsive-ly at the dock.

"Asked whether she had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced upon her, she replied in a voice whose husky duliness contrasted with her wonted tones, 'No,' and fell back exhausted in her chair. The judge then, with great emotion, pro-nounced the death sentence, stating that the sentence could not be carried out unless the court were instructed by Sir Ernest Satow, her Majesty's representative in Japan. The con-demned woman was then taken to "A few days later the British consul Yokohama received a dispatch from the British Minister stating that, in view of the imperial proclamation of the Emperor of Japan, dated Jan. 31, granting to all Japanese subjects under sentence on that day a remission of punishment, it appears proper that a similar measure of grace should be extended to the criminal in this case. The Minister accordingly decided not to direct that the sentence of death be carried into execution, and in view of the powers conferred upon him by the order in council of 1865 and other-wise, directed that in lieu of suffering capital punishment, Mrs. Carew shall be imprisoned, with hard labor, for life. The arrest, trial and conviction of Mrs. Carew was the most sensational chain of evidence in a criminal way that ever occurred in Yoko-
