It was evident that Dr. Johnston was mystified at the wonderful withlike of his patient.

had been agreed upon by which the Boulangists would lead the attack while the Orleanists would provide the necessary funds. The aim was to bring on a crisicand force President Carnot to resign before the general elections when the adversaries of the Republic hoped to sweep the course. The gravest rumors are afloat in regard to President Carnot. Several of the debuties who have been most earnest in pushing the Panama investigation make no scoret of declaring that they will not rest until President Carnot is forced to resign. The strength of the case against the President deponds upon the credibility of Bainut, the ex-Minister of Public Works. Carnot's friends claim that no faith whatever should be attached to Baihut's disclosures, that he is malignant against Carnot for not having protected him from prosecution, and that he wishes to drag the President down with him. On the other hand it is pointed out the remember of Carnot that Baihut's charges he wishes to drag the President down with him. On the other hand it is pointed out by enemies of Carnot that Baihnt's charges agree with the facts as known, and that Charles de Lesseps would probaby corroborate Baihut if he were permitted to raveal all that he could reveal. Meantime President Carnot preserves a serene temper and seems indifferent to the asseults made upon him.

CHICAGO, Ill., Jan. 13.—The Crete accommodation on the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railroad, leaving Dearborn station at 7:20 this evening was tolescoped at 55th street by a Chicago and Erie through train to New York. The accommodation train consisted of three coaches filled with suburban residents on the way to their homes. Eighteen people were severely injured in the wreck, and scarcely any one of the 150 or more passengers escaped some bruises or minor injures.

To add to the horror of the scene the center coach of the accommodation train caught fire from the overturned stove, while three passengers—two women and one man—were caught in the wreckage close to the flames, and were taken away from their perilous position by the heroic efforts of their fellow-passengers.

In the adjoining Governments the people are suffering similar hardships, which must increase in soverity as the winter advances. In Veneva, Novosil and Toola City the physicians say the poorer people feel the high prices of food hardly less than the scarcity is felt in the country. The death rate has doubled in all three within the last three months.

New Honors for Sara.

New Honors for Sara. Paris, Jan. 13.—Mme. Sara Earnhardt, if she lives long enough, will probably re-ceive la croix. In the meanwhile, says the Paris correspondent of the London Globe, Paris correspondent of the London Schok, she is being marked out for another honor. The resolution of the Women's Suffrage League to bring her forward as a candidate in the next general election has aflorded good food for gossip. It is not yet known whether she will accept the offer, but there is no reason why she should not. As all are aware, she prides herself on being something more than an actress. She is already a painter, a sculptor, an author, and has a mind of her own. Why, then, should she not be a politician? Her appearance in the Chamber would be the crowning point of her career, for the opportunity to display her talent, both in comedy and tragedy would never be wanting there. Her success would be certain, and many an orator of the tribune might be able to take a lesson from her acting. On all grounds, therefore, it is to be hoped that she will stand and be elected. No male deputy would be so ungallant as to deny her this distinction, seeing that she would in reality be an ornament to the House. Her extensive knowledge of human nature, too, would enable her to throw light on subjects which sorely need it; take, for instance, the Panama checks. Here her experience in the manipulation of fortunes would be most useful. Again, in delicate Paris correspondent of the Sancther honor, she is being marked out for another honor.
The resolution of the Women's Suffrage terday Herr Liebnicht, the leader of the Social Democrats, questioned the Government regarding the conditions of the working classes in Germany. Dr. Von Betticher, Secretary of the Imperial Home Office and representative of the Chancellor, declared that nothing contained in communications received by the Home Office from various states of the empire, showed that unusual distress was prevalent among German working people. The meetings of unemployed workmen that had been held and were still being held at the principal centers were for the most part political in character and had no connection with the labor question.

a hundred ways. All these demands have resulted successfully. We have now representation by population, local affairs are under our own management—I believe you think they are not being managed badly. (Hear, hear.) I am now speaking of Canadian Liberalism in the past. We have other questions before us to consider.

CANADIAN LIBERALISM means now what it always meant. There is no doubt that in its spirit, Canadian Liberalism does not mean and never meant annexation, nor does it mean or will mean anarchy, or change for the mere sake of change. But Canadian Liberalism has always meant economical government, pure administration and free trade for all the world so far as the interests of revenue will permit and the interest of all classes of Canadians. (Applause.) The spirit of Liberalism in this country is the spirit of the old and as well which animated a Pym, a Hampden, a Fox, a Burke, a Russell, a Cobben, a Bright, and that now animates the great and glorious Gladstone—(loud applause)—and his supporters, English, Scotch and Irish. God bless them. (Applause.) It in the spirit that in Canadia animated Bidwell, Baldwin, Dorion, Holton, Brown, Alex, Mackenzie and now animates the honored leader of the Liberal party in Dominion affairs, and which animates likewise those who support him as the representatives of the people and advocates of reform. (Applause.) On some other locasions I have referred to some questions to which previous speakers have alluded. That appreciation or Bertith Connection have alluded. That appreciation or BRITISH CONNECTION that I have often expressed is founded upon my conviction that, as we are at present, British connection is our strength, is our hope of that glorious future which some of the previous speakers have mentioned, and the terms with which I entirely sympathize. But British connection cannot last forever. (Hear, hear.) No one in the old land or in this land imagines that British connection can be permanent. There must be some change. Some would have imperial federation, but most men, both in this land and there, regard imperial federation, but most men, both in this land and there, regard imperial federation. Yet, while this sentiment might lead them to desire union with the empire, no one has yet suggested or devised a scheme constitute of the control of t PITTBURG, Pa., Jan. 13.—Amy Fawcett, aged 18 years, and her little sister were drowned in the Monongahela River, near the Point bridge at 11 o'clock to-day. THE CONSULAR SEAL SYSTEM Discussed by the United States Cabinet-

Discussed by the United States Cabinot—A Divergence of Views.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The Cabinet meeting discussed at some length the question of suspending the operation of the consular seal system on Canadian railroads. The Attorney-General gave his views as to the power of the president in the premises, and it is understood held to the conclusion formerly advanced by him—that the President could not suspend its operation, that power being reposed in Congress.

There were others who differed with him, the argument being advanced that goods from Japan and China which come in under the consular seal system were clearly not from contiguous foreign countries and therefore not entitled to the privilege. It was also pointed out that these goods contry were treated as foreign importations.

The immigration subject was also discussed.
