Where Two Generations Sleep At Rest

MacVicar Cemetery, Photographed by Miss Nellie Forsyth, Eberts,

IN THE midst of a farm less than seven miles north from the city of Chatham, on the winding Thames, there rises abruptly from the expanse of fields, monotonously level as far as the eye can reach, a pine-clad knoll-three acres in extent.

This is the quaint MacVicar Cemetery, also known as the Scottish Graveyard. In this hallowed spot at least two generations sleep Here no sound is heard, save the weird wail drawn from the pines by the passing breeze, or the voice of the farmer as his hasty step brush the dew away to meet the sun upon the upland lawn. Here Gray might have mused and conceived his deathless elegy.

Educational Needs of Community to Necessitate Erection of New Building.

Special to London Advertises WOODSTOCK, April 28 .- The stu dents at the Collegiate Institute have developed the radio fever, and through their manual training in structor, J. S. Mercer, made application to the board of education for a receiving radio set to be placed on the manual training building.

The board has granted the request, and a set is to be installed at once, and it will not be long before the students will be enjoying the latest habit of "listening in" on concerts, lectures, and the latest sporting and other news broadcasted from far and

The installation of a radio set is not the only problem worrying the members of the board just now. Since the Easter holidays the increased number of junior pupils attending the public schools has been so great that it has been found necessary to institute a half-holiday in the junior cooms in order to find the necessary

Despite the fact that two additional classes have been installed in the educational memorial hall, the board will have to soon face the problem of building another school.

A little while ago the board turndown the request from the rural sections for a lunch room at the Collegiate Institute. Now the matter is being urged by a number of the woity, who threaten to appeal to the county council if the lunchroom is

-the wisdom of Mohammed

BREAD for the body or Bread for the soul--both are essential.

Even Mohammed, the prophet, could not feed his soul alone and live, so he asked also for the simplest food to sustain and nourish his body. The wise philosopher made no error in placing at the head of all needs that most wholesome and universal of foods-Bread.

No other food but Bread contains all the elements needed to repair and sustain the body. No other contains so large a proportion of nutriment—with nothing to irritate or tax digestion. Even back in the days of Mohammed this was recognized.

NEAL'S WHITE BREAD GOOD
