

CONTINENTI LABORE

Askin Hawks Are Live Group.

The Hawks are one of many live groups in Askin Street Methodist Church, and with their motto of "Continenti labore omnia superabimus" are out to put across just what it stands for.

The Hawks were organized and started the C. S. E. T. program in the fall of 1920, and since that time have been forging ahead with the most wonderful success in their religious, physical, educational and social life, and what does this mean? It means that C. S. E. T. is doing for the Hawks what it should be doing for every C. S. E. T. group.

The success of the Hawks cannot be traced to any one individual, but it has been only by the united effort of every member, and by the co-operation given by the church and Sunday school that they are made an outstanding group in London.

The officers of the Tuxis Club are Pretor, Harold Todd; scribe, Reg. Werner; comptor, Charles Maddiford, and of the trail rangers' camp: Chief ranger, Arnold Webb; tally, Elgin Speiran; coche, Charlie Wilson.

This organization, though composed for the most part of younger fellows, is showing some of the older groups how to play basketball. They also have been singularly successful in holding Sunday morning services for the "Ki-Y" Club.

INVINCIBLES INITIATE

Weekly Meeting Brings New Member.

At the weekly meeting of the Invincible Club last Thursday evening, Rev. Mr. Watts, who was a guest at the meeting, was initiated into the club as an honorary member.

Sponsor Bert Bell, Mentor Wilf Boyce, Pretor Andy (Anderson), Scribe Bud Ralph and Comptor George Cannon performed the initiation ordeal, after which Mr. Watts made a short speech.

The new name, "Incass," has been chosen by the club and was officially passed and will be adopted after the basketball series is finished.

Next Thursday an open debate will be held. The subject to be discussed will be, "Resolved that the white race has conferred more blessings than ills upon the other races."

DUNDAS CENTRE SOCIAL

Young People Enjoy Sunday Evening.

On Friday evening, March 17, a weekly meeting of the 8th London Troop was held at Dundas Center. The meeting was opened with prayer. This was followed by various scouting inquiries. Classes were held in first aid and signalling. Scout Alan Foot passed the artist proficiency badge. In the competition for neatness in uniform and equipment, Patrol Leader Burrows is in the lead at present, but there are some others who are not far behind, so a close run is expected. Other various work was indulged in. After playing games the meeting was dismissed and the scouts left for home.

WEINERS ENTERTAINED

Are Guests At House Party.

The members of the Weiner Club were guests of Miss Mary Tichbourne at a very pleasing party held at her home on Richmond street on the evening of March 22. Games were played while others of the guests danced.

One game, which proved exceedingly interesting, was the "Donkey Game."

Each guest received a piece of colored paper, in the shape of a tail, and also a pin. These tails had numbers on them and each guest was blind-folded in turn and was required to pin the paper tail in the proper place, on the donkey which was pinned on a sheet of paper and hung on the wall.

Everyone had a different idea of the location of the tail and roars of laughter were in order. The party broke up with everybody perfectly happy.

MANY PASS MUSICIANS'
TEST OF SCOUTS' LEADERS

Burrows and McCallum Successful in Getting Their Badges.

The patrol leaders of the 8th London Group, Boy Scouts, met at the residence of the scoutmaster for the weekly officers' meeting. The scoutmaster presided over the meeting. Important business was brought to the front immediately. Plans for a proposed means of raising money to expand the treasury of the troop were discussed. The scout banquet to be held soon was spoken of. Patrol Leaders Burrows and McCallum passed their musician's tests for those proficiency badges. After the meeting was ended the officers left for their clubroom. The scouts present were: District Scoutmaster Cristall, Scoutmaster Metcalf, Troop Leader Rodda, Instructor B. Bell and Patrol Leaders Blackwell, Phipps, Burrows and McCallum.

MR. OLLEY SPEAKS ON A SCOUT'S USEFULNESS

Latter Day Saints Troop Hear Very Instructive Lecture.

On Monday, March 20, the 29th London Troop of Scouts met at the headquarters, the Latter Day Saints' Church. Scoutmaster Blanchard was in charge of the program.

Mr. Olley, well-known lecturer, gave a very much appreciated address to the fellows. He stressed the uses a boy should put his time to, scoutcraft being the best thing he knew for boys.

The meeting was not as large as would have been liked, owing to sickness in the troop.

WEINER BOX SOCIAL

St. Patrick's Party Well Enjoyed.

The Weiner Club of Talbot Street Baptist Church held a successful box social and St. Patrick's party combined at the home of Lawrence Spence, 10 Blackfriars street, on the evening of March 17.

Each fellow was requested to bring his sister, or some other fellow's sister, and a box of eats.

During the afternoon of March 17 a box was left at Somervilles office in care of Mr. Hudgell, the mentor of the Weiner Club. This "box" was to be given to the couple having the best decorated box.

After several very interesting games the time for judging the boxes arrived. Mrs. Spence, the host's mother, was the judge. Secretary "Bullets" Schott and his "sister" received first prize.

When the mysterious box was opened it was found that it contained a "booby" doll.

After lunch more interesting games were played.

The party broke up at an early hour.

TRAIL RANGERS' SUPPER

Interesting Discourse On Bird Life.

The regular meeting of the Dundas Centre Trail Rangers was held Wednesday, March 22. The Rangers met for supper at 6:15, and after a luscious spread, a short but snappy sing-song was led by the "grand chief."

The meeting was then opened with the customary ceremony and business meeting followed.

Mr. Saunders, the speaker of the evening, was then called upon. He conducted an examination by which the boys might win their bird-life badges, after which he gave a brief talk, demonstrated the calls of several birds and exhibited a few of his many specimens. The papers of all those who wrote the examination were then collected by the mentors and the result will be announced in a later issue of the Boys' Own Tiser.

The boys then adjourned to their group rooms at 1011-1013 Dundas street for their devotional period.

THIRD LONDON'S DOINGS

Hold Successful Weekly Hike.

On Saturday last the Third London Troop had its usual Saturday afternoon hike.

The Wolves started out and left various signs, and meaning messages were hidden somewhere in the vicinity of the signs. At the end of the trail the scouting ground was reached and a big fire was at once kindled and billies put on to boil.

Half an hour later the Beavers, with shouts of glee, descended on the Wolves, brandishing all the notes that had been hidden. Soon the smell of sausages, steak and other enticing eats were wafted on the breeze. Tea was made and the eats were soon on the way to the usual places.

When nothing was left but the paper, which the eats had been wrapped in, various games, including a new flag raising game, were indulged in.

At seven o'clock a move for home was made. On the last mile, several boys did the "Scout's Pace" test, for the second class badge.

We are proud to announce that Patrol Leader Paice, of the Wolves, is now our first second class scout. We look forward to having several more in a few weeks.

Recently the Ram Patrol, feeling more voracious than sheepish, decided to call themselves the Wolves.

GOOD WORK, MR. PLEWMAN.

We have in front of us a report of the Ontario Boy's Work Board for the past year. This board is a part of the Ontario Religious Education Council of the Evangelical Churches and the Y. M. C. A. in the Province of Ontario. Mr. Chas. Plewman, the executive secretary, in his annual report states that there are 902 organized groups of boys in Ontario, composed of 15,000 boys. The number of communities affected are about 250.

It is pleasing to note that there are [Special to The Boys' Tiser.] give so much of their valuable time to the boys.

MR. David Allan, physical director at the "Y," is on the high road to recovery. We are sure everyone will be pleased to hear this. Mr. Allan has been suffering from appendicitis for some time and recently went under an operation to have the organ removed.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

As the short winter days commence to be supplanted by the longer and brighter summer ones, and as the evenings become lighter and more spring-like, reminding us that spring has come and summer is not far distant, and beckoning us into the great open and out-of-doors, we are reminded once more of the much-argued and ever-prevailing question at this mid-season period, namely, "Daylight Saving."

So numerous and oftentimes inappropriate are the arguments in favor and against this subject, that it is extremely difficult in many cases to determine just what the exponents of a certain phase of this question are endeavoring to make clear. As previously acknowledged, it is doubtless an undisputed fact that the vast majority of the citizens are in a non-committal sort of a way unconcerned with this question, which in their estimation has been previously threshed out and passed up as unsuitable for the city of London. Nevertheless, they appreciate the advantages it contains, and its disadvantages are also realized.

The whole dispute reverts back to the question of business and social distinction. Last year the Labor party, which, if we are correctly informed, is decidedly opposed to it, was, in the estimation of many, directly responsible for its defeat. This party holds a strong foothold at present, as evidenced by the election of their candidate to our provincial legislature.

On the other hand, those who like to take advantage of the longer evening afforded by this system, either in their garden or in some form of healthful outdoor recreation, appreciate to the greatest extent the extra hour of daylight resulting. In our estimation this system of utilizing the daylight to a greater extent should either be adopted as a Dominion-wide principle or not be attempted by the respective cities, as they decide. It makes it very confusing in commercial circles, where it is absolutely essential that railroad time be recognized, when this city has adopted it and the next stop on the line has not.

The city of Montreal, the largest commercial metropolis of Eastern Canada, has again adopted the daylight saving plan, and has completed arrangements to have it go into effect on the 15th of next month. At present no steps have been taken in our fair city to have the plan adopted this year, when it is essential that the utmost production of vegetables and fruit be realized, as this city as well as the rest of the Dominion is passing through a very crucial stage. Unemployment is the predominating question at issue. Home production is one method of increasing our staple food supply, and also of affording work for the men in the evenings.

However, the whole question reverts to one main point: that is, is the extra hour of daylight afforded to us in the evening as beneficial, and is it utilized as much as it is in the morning under our present time system? In our estimation it is an undisputed fact that the evening hour benefits the citizens in general more than the hour in the morning, which is only appreciated by a few.

The United States of America has approximately ten million automobiles. An American paper in discussing this says: "We have one auto for every ten people." We hope they will take some spare axles and springs along, if they all want to go to the lake shore at one time.

There are five men in the United States with incomes of over five million dollars, according to the internal revenue department of the United States treasury. The department states that two of these plutocrats hail from Michigan and three from the "Empire State" (New York). The two Fords, Henry and Edsel, are likely the Wolverines who take the "pudding," and John D. Rockefeller and his son lead the New York aspirants. But how about the third New Yorker? Editors seem to be puzzling about this very much. Why worry? It isn't us.

The Literary Digest calls our Prince "Eddie" "The prince of publicity, Britain's best loved ambassador to all the world." Where are the "knockers" who say our throne is tottering?

Lloyd George states, "We in Canada no longer belong to the British Empire, but are a part of the great British Commonwealth of free nations." George can say it as well as do it.

Willie R. Hearst seems to have the habit of cropping up whenever any bouquets are being handed to the empire. This time he states through his New York American "that during the arms conference we got everything the United States had but the kitchen stove, and we are coming back after this, in order to cook up another war." Cheer up, Willie, old boy. Perhaps it is too bad that England has granted Ireland a free state. We hope, however, you will soon find something else to get "righteously" indignant about how the empire is being run.
