Family Zoo Tourists Too

Pennsylvania Man Wouldn't Think of Leaving Five Pets at Home.

As a rule, tourists leave their cats and dogs to the tender care of neighbors when they start out on the broad highways to see the country. However, a motorist from Youngstown, Penn., proves to be an exception to the rule.

This man arrived in London yesterday with a collie dog seated on each running-board and three cats with the family in the back seat.

"I couldn't bear to leave them all at home," he explained. "We expect to be gone for a month. They are enjoying the trip just as much as we are. With the dogs and cats we simply have to use tourist camps, because the hotels don't like to have animals around. And you can't blame them."

DR. KROHN DECLARES RUSSELL SCOTT SANE

Defence Claims Prisoner Suffering Delusions as Result of Confinement.

Associated Press Despatch.
Chicago, Aug. 1.—The state will match alienist for alienist for the attorneys for Russell Scott, erstwhile Canadian financier, when he undergoes a sanity test Monday to determine whether he goes to the gallows.

Specialists for both sides have submitted him to lengthy examinations. Scott has resisted the tests by the prosecution's experts. He refused yesterday to submit to examination and attempted to strike William Krohn, when he touched his kneecaps and skull.

Dr. Krohn, who testified for the state in the trial of Nathan Leopold, Jun., and Richard Loeb, said Scott is sane. The defence contends that he has become insane and suffers from delusions as a result of his confinement in jail and the ordeals of two escapes from the gallows within a few hours of the time set for his execution.

OLD BLOCK IS VALUED AT $80,000

City's Gross Outlay On Spencer Block Only Totals $65,000.

CASH AVAILABLE

Value of Old City Hall Buildings Could Be Applied On the New.

Interest in the proposed new hotel for federal square has veered for the moment to speculation as to what will become of the Spencer block, now housing the city hall, in view of the transfer of the civic buildings to the "Lloyd George" hotel site on Richmond street.

The city secured possession of the property thirteen years ago for the sum of $45,000 and later spent about $20,000 on putting the building in shape for occupation as a city hall. Still later when the building on the northeast corner of Dundas and Wellington streets was torn down to make way for the fine new public utilities office and hydro shop building the city got back the $20,000 from the commission in payment for the site.

Thus the city still retains the major portion of the original property purchased, and in the event of the hotel being built across the street, should be able to sell the part remaining at a price anywhere between $80,000 and $100,000, which sum would, of course, be applied on the debt accumulating for the city hall.

Information to hand concerning the New York firm interested in the hotel plan here indicates that it is the same company which built the famous Booke-Cadillac hotel in Detroit, one of the largest and best equipped hotels in the country to the south.

Representatives of the firm are expected to arrive here for discussion as to the details of the proposed hotel to the council some time next week.

The structure, which is used for pouring cement for the gigantic canal walls, engulfed Lynch and his son, and their bodies have not yet been recovered.

All the injured men were at work on the form when a shackle gave way below and the huge steel mass crumpled from its own weight in the center like a piece of tin. It was in this debris that the Lynchs and others were caught. Rescue efforts were first devoted to getting out the injured men who were rushed to the Homer construction hospital.

The contract was in charge of the Peter Lyall Construction Company. Names of the injured at the Homer hospital could not be given at this hour.
