

Summary

The seven key areas represent a beginning of what is required to manage the introduction of technology. Over time, the areas will be modified as technology changes and we learn more about its management. The goal of the Department will however remain the same; to make technology a tool for people through good management practices.