

to assess its results and work out details on the program's operation. The meetings are attended by representatives of the Mexican and Canadian governments and representatives of Canadian employers of farm workers.