

ADDRESS IN REPLY TO THE SPEECH
FROM THE THRONE—Con

Verville, A. (Maisonneuve)—276.

Should have been some reference to labour in the Speech, 276. The change means the success of the trusts over the masses of the people; misrepresentation in the campaign, 277. The sugar trust; people did not realize what reciprocity meant; the steel trust, 278. The North Atlantic Trading Company, Sifton when poor, favoured reciprocity, 279. Reciprocity preferable to protection; Discontent all over the world, 280. Will favour any investigations into mergers, 281.

Webster, John (Brockville)—372..

Amazed to find so many intelligent men talking so much trash; tribute of respect to the Premier, 372-3. Tribute of respect to the Speaker. Have seen much time wasted in discussing the Naval Bill, 374. A monument to the inability of the opposition to manage the affairs of the country in the National Transcontinental railway, 375. The Newmarket canal, the Georgian Bay canal, the Grand Trunk Pacific railway, 376. To-day this Dominion of ours is the star and gem of the empire; Hon. Clifford Sifton's speech, 377. He joined hands with the Conservatives in endeavouring to secure our natural resources for this country, 378. Advertisements in the 'Country Gentleman,' 379. The dairying industry: cheese, the 'Bate Brand,' the horse industry, 380. Pleased that the Premier promised to encourage the farmer; sheep, 381. The resources of Ontario, agricultural wealth, 382. Comparative figures, international trade, 383. Transportation one of the most serious problems we shall have to deal with, 384. Inconceivable greatness of this country; Loyalty of Liberals and Conservatives, 385. Reasons for loss of confidence in the late government; Mr. Rogers a coming man, 386. Reasons why we should consider the same old policy, 387. The people of this country sent a message to President Taft, 388.

Weichel, W. G. (North Waterloo)—401.

How it strikes a new comer; passion and prejudice. Mr. W. L. M. King at the convention; time to call a halt, 401. Would like to ask Mr. King if he thought they were British or German subjects. Mr. King defeated properly, 402. The Germans of North Waterloo, Canadians and above all, British subjects, 403.

White, Hon. W. T. (Finance Minister)—440.

Refers to some personal references, 440. An unequivocal denial of these allegations; As free and unfettered as any member; reciprocity the feature of the debate, 441. Reciprocity rejected, not from passion but on economic and national reasons, 442. The country a protective country. Not prepared for so radical a change; lack of assured permanency, 443. Feared they might not be able to extricate themselves; the price of wheat and the tariff wall, 444. Sir Wilfrid on the Transcontinental. Quotes the
