BUSINESS OF THE HOUSE

Mr. Baker (Nepean-Carleton): Madam Speaker, I rise on a point of order. The President of the Privy Council is not here right now but his parliamentary secretary is, so I draw his attention to my point of order. I am a little concerned about my friend's reference to an understanding, as he put it, that there would be one speaker per party speaking on Bill S-2 when the bill comes before the House. I did not quite catch in the translation, what the President of the Privy Council said, so I went out to check it and I found that indeed he had stated that there was an understanding that there would be one speaker per party on Bill S-2. I just want to make it clear, so we do not have any misunderstandings, that the understanding of the President of the Privy Council does not accord with mine, although it is my understanding that the debate on that bill will be very short. I do not believe we ever discussed it on the basis referred to by the minister. I am making this point while the parliamentary secretary is here so that we will not have any misunderstanding of our intentions on this matter.

Mr. Collenette: Yes, Madam Speaker, I concur in the sentiments expressed by the hon. member for Nepean-Carleton. In the discussions which we have had, we spoke about a very short debate on Bill S-2. I do not believe there was any specific agreement to limiting the speeches to one speaker per party, but we hope to get the bill through very quickly tomorrow.
