

Minister having accorded the medal, entrusted its execution to the engraver Winslow who, no doubt, as a numismatist as many of the medalists of those days were, sought his inspiration from among his Roman coins, and chose the design displayed on that of the Fufia gens as the most appropriate.

And, thus, in a later study of this coin, we have been able to trace the source of the inspiration, and to fix definitely the date of and the occasion for which one of our well known Canadian medals was struck.
