

SMITH.—The Natural Truth of Christianity, being Extracts from "The Select Discourses" by JOHN SMITH, M.A. Edited by Rev. WM. M. METCALFE, with INTRODUCTION by MATTHEW ARNOLD, D.C.L. Crown 8vo, 5s.

"The main value of the Select Discourses is, I repeat, religious, not literary. Their grand merit is that they insist on the profound natural truth of Christianity, and thus base it upon a ground which will not crumble under our feet. Signal and rare indeed is the merit, in a theological instructor, of presenting Christianity to us in this fashion. Christianity is true; but in general the whole plan for grounding and buttressing it chosen by our theological instructors is false, and since it is false, it must fail us sooner or later."—Matthew Arnold.

METCALFE.—The Reasonableness of Christianity: Studies in Christian Doctrine by the Rev.
WM. M. METCALFE. Crown 8vo, cloth, 5s.

MILROY.—A Scottish Communion. By the Rev. WM. MILROY, B.A. Demy 8vo, cloth, 4s. 6d.

"In A Scottish Communion, persons outside the Presbyterian Churches, both at home and abroad, as well as future antiquarians and ecclesiastical historians, will find a fair representation of the form in which the Sacrament has been administered in Scotland for at least two hundred years. . . . The prayers, addresses, and sermons are all highly creditable to the author, and they have the great merit of bearing very directly on the grand event the Lord's Supper was meant to commemorate. . . . If they have any fault at all, it is neither the lack of intellectual power nor any aberration from the strictest standard of orthodoxy."—Scotsman.

"This volume will be valued by those confined by sickness to the 'dwellings of Jacob;' and to the emigrant, the traveller, or the sojourner in distant lands, these communion services will recall happy and hallowed memories of scenes dear to the heart of every Scottish man."—Glasgow Advertiser.

FLEMING.—The Life and Times of the Rev. ALEXANDER FLEMING, D.D., of Neilston. Edited by his Nephew, the Rev. JOHN FLEMING, M.A., Paisley.

This important Work will contain much of interest in connection with the controversies which disturbed the Church of Scotland from 1804 to 1844, and especially regarding the discussions raised in connection with Church Accommodation and the Relief of the Poor in the County of Renfrew during that period. Demy 8vo, about 500 pp.—In the Press.