The College Boarding House

Has recently undergone a thorough renovation, and everything has been done to increase the confort of the resident pupils. It is under the superintendence of the resident master, who is at the same time, an experienced physician. The discipline and general conduct of the boarding house will be minutely supervised by the Principal, whose care it will be to look after the well-being of the boarders in every way.

The new Study is a spacious, lofty, well-ventilated room, supplied with every requisite. The new Dining Hall is of equally ample dimensions. The erection of an entirely new building for these two apartments has afforded greater space for the Dormitories, which have been likewise completely remodelled and very much improved. The house is furnished with several Bath-rooms, and the boys are required to use the Baths weekly.

The many improvements made in the arrangement of the building, have been found to add very materially to the comfort of the Boarders. A large paved Ball Court, an extensive Gymnasium, fitted up with the most approved modern appliances, and other facilities for out-door exercise and amusement, within the College bounds, remove the necessity, while at the same time they tend to prevent the wish, of frequent visits to the town.

During study hours, the lessons for College are prepared in the presence of the Resident Master.

A small but well-selected Library in the Building supplies recreation for the mind in the intervals of study or play. The Boarders are required to attend Morning and Evening Prayer in the Study, when a chapter from the Holy Scriptures is read aloud by one of the boys,—all reading in rotation. They are also formed into Classes for Sunday Lessons, and required to attend therewith either the Principal or the Resident Master every Sunday Morning before Church.

The number of pupils in each dormitory is regulated by the Medical Attendant to the Establishment. In the domestic classification of the Pupils, special reference is had to poculiarities of disposition, both with a view to their moral training, and in furtherance of the general discipline of the School.

Whilst every precaution is taken, by means of regular physical exercise, thorough ventilation, and wholesome diet, to preserve the health of the pupils, particular attention is paid to those who may be suffering from illness. In connexion with this important subject, the following precautionary measures have been adopted, with a view both to procure the recovery of those afflicted with illness, and to preserve the other inmates of the House from infection or contagion.

When any Pupil is taken ill, he is at once removed to the Sick-room; and a complete separation is effected between him and the other Pupils, until the precise nature of the illness has been ascertained.

In cases of serious illness, additional Medical Attendance may be called in by the Resident Master, or by the Principal.

Seats in their respective places of worship are provided for the Resident Pupils at the expense of the College, and due care is taken that they attend regularly with the Resident Master, or under other careful supervision.

Reports of the conduct of Boarders, their application during study hours, their use of the Library, and their attendance at Church and at Sunday lessons, are regularly furnished to parents at the end of each term, or oftener if desired.

For the convenience of Boarders living at a considerable distance, it has been arranged that they may remain in the building during the Christmas vacation of two weeks; but a special charge of Two Pounds will be made in each case.

The Boarding House will continue to be conducted strictly as an integral part of the Institution, its disbursements paid out of, and its returns paid into, the general funds. In this way it is thought that the domestic economy will be best shielded from the suspicion of interested parsimony, and the comfort and health of the Boarders in this respect secured.

The charges are as low as is compatible with the liberal style in which the catablishment is conducted,—profit not being the object, but the supplying of a need felt by the country at large, namely, a well-managed Boarding Hoase, in which, while the boys enjoy all the advantages of the Educational system of U. C. College, their parents may feel confident that the physical and moral culture of their sons is a subject of serious attention. The fee of $45 includes washing, and also the charge for a seat in church.

Every Boarder is required to bring with him bed and bedding, and a suitable number of towels. The bed can be readily obtained in the City, of the size requisite for the bedstead, with which each dormitory is already supplied. The bed ought to be six feet long by three and a half broad.

A copy of the Boarding House rules, containing all the necessary information, will be sent on application to the Principal or to the Resident Master.

ADDRESS,

GEORGE R. R. COCKBURN, M. A.

Principal, U. C. College.
