

PLATE 30. EOCENE.

MACROCYCLIS SPATHOSA Meek & Hayden. (Page 40.)

- FIG. 1. Upper view, natural size.
FIG. 2. Lateral view of the same example.
FIG. 3. Under view of the same, all natural size. After Meek.

HELIX ? VETERNA M. & H. (Page 48.)

- FIGS. 4 and 5. Copies of Meek's outline figures.

PHYSA PLEiomATIS White. (Page 44.)

- FIG. 6. Lateral view of type specimen.
FIG. 7. Opposite view of a larger example, a little distorted, probably belonging to this species.
FIG. 8. Fragment of a very large example, believed to belong to this species.
(All natural size.)

PHYSA BRIDGERENSIS Meek. (Page 44.)

- FIG. 9. Lateral view, natural size.
FIG. 10. Opposite view of a more robust example.

VIVIPARUS PALUDINIFORMIS Hall. (Page 62.)

- FIG. 11. Lateral view, natural size.
FIG. 12. Opposite view of the same.

VIVIPARUS WYOMINGENSIS M. (Page 62.)

- FIG. 13. Lateral view, natural size.
FIG. 14. Opposite view of the same.