

He will also carefully attend to the division of his Company into classes for drill purposes in accordance with the order bearing upon that matter.

He will in no account dismiss any man from his company without the authority of the Commanding Officer.

Sec. 8. The subalterns will in every possible way assist their Captain. Each subaltern will have charge of squads equal to one third the strength of the Company and will be responsible to their Captain for every thing connected with the same. They will superintend the issuing of arms, clothing and stores to all the Company, and the return of the same into store. They will inspect the arms, uniforms, &c. of their squads, and report half yearly to their Captains who will forward the same by the hands of the Adjutant, to the Officer in command. They will keep their squad rolls revised and correctly posted, so that the men if required may be paraded at an hour's notice.

Sec. 9. These will perform all the usual duties pertaining to their respective positions, precisely as they are observed in the regular service. Appointments of these important Officers rests with the Lt.-Col. to whom names will be recommended by the several Captains, who are forbidden to name any man for appointment or promotion unless qualified by education and military proficiency for the rank.

The principle of election will not be permitted. Other things being equal, Company promotions will go by seniority.

Sec. 10. The Adjutant will be answerable for the due keeping and correction from time to time of the Regimental Roll Book, and the Officers Roll, the former as specified in order 2, and the latter to contain recorded the names, in full, rank, seniority, age, calling and address of all Officers and non Com.-Officers of the Regiment; for the due keeping of the Regimental

Non Commissioned Officers.

Adjutant.