

tive being appointed by executives of States, 80; opposes eligibility of executive for second term, 284; seconds motion restricting President's power of appointment, 464; objects to mode of election of President, 509; thinks eventual election of President should be in legislature, 511; thinks President should not have pardoning power over treason, 571; favors small Senate, 34; will not give indefinite powers to national legislature, 36; approves seven years' for Senate term, 95; favors two years for service in first branch of legislature, 144; opposes State compensation for legislature, 147; suggests rotation in Senate, 165; favors commitment of question of representation, 204, 225; on committee on representation, 215; wishes legislature to arrange basis of representation, 243; moves reconsideration of question of representation, 248; opposes police power of legislature, 265; opposes fixing time for meeting of legislature, 349; thinks vacancies in Senate may be filled by executive, 363; moves to postpone question of vote in Senate, 364, 365; thinks vote in Senate should be postponed, 365; opposes fourteen years' citizenship for Senate, 368; agrees to nine years' citizenship for Senate, 370; moves legislature compel attendance, 378; approves expulsion of members of legislature, 378; thinks one member may call for yeas and nays, 379; proposes four years' citizenship for first branch of legislature, 384; agrees to allow eligibility of members of legislature to army or navy, 401; favors ineligibility of members of legislature to offices, 505; doubts if legislature should judge privileges of members, 511; opposes Vice President for president of Senate, 527; would exclude Senate from pardoning power, 571; moves that jurisdiction of national judiciary should extend to cases involving revenue and impeachment, 97; agreed to, 97; favors appointment of judges by Senate, 276; favors inferior judicial tribunals, 279; favors appointment of judges by executive with Senate, 301; favors fixed compensation for judges, 474; moves to reconsider question of money bills, 363; favors money bills in first branch of legislature, 383; opposes amendment of money bills by Senate, 388; insists on restricting money bills to first branch of legislature, 393; moves to extend negative to resolutions, 409; moves to consider clause for national government, 27, 28; opposes consent of legislature to be necessary to amend constitution, 90; consideration postponed, 90; opposes requiring oaths from members of State governments to observe constitution, 90; upholds national plan, 109; accepts supreme government instead of national, 132; proposes sermon on 4th of July, 182; thinks new States should not be discriminated against, 213; urges compromise, 216; opposes reduction of representation of New Hampshire, 228; moves census as basis for representation, 230; favors census, 233; explains adjournment proposal, 262; favors guarantee of republican constitution, 280; moves that States must have republican government, 281; opposes ratification by legislatures, 305; defines treason, 413; moves power to define piracies, etc., 416; favors power to punish piracies, 416; favors British definition of treason, 432; favors commitment of question of slave trade, 447; thinks provision to fulfill engagements of old government necessary, 450; favors national control of militia, 453; moves provision for State debts, 460; moves validity of debts, 466; moves mutual acceptance of States of public acts, 482; on committee on mutual recognition of public acts by States, 483; finds odious features in constitution, 486; proposes nine States may ratify constitution, 495; thinks State conventions should amend constitution, 500; thinks powers too loosely defined, 503; wants second convention, 541, 544, 575; states objections to constitution, 543; moves to strike out servitude, 559; favors power to grant charters of incorporation, 564; regards armies as dangerous in time of peace, 565; states why he will not sign constitution, 580, 581; does not sign, 583; extract of letter from James Madison, 590.

Ratifying constitution by conventions, discussed, 50, 460; by plurality of States, proposed, 60; by nine