

London Advertiser.FOUNDED IN 1863.
TWO EDITIONS DAILY - WEEKLY.
TELEPHONE CALLS.Business Office 107
Editorial Department 134
Job Department 175
The London Advertiser Company,
Limited, 191-193 Dundas street, London, Ont.

LONDON, THURSDAY, OCT. 11, 1906.

THE CONFERENCE OF PREMIERS

Sir Wilfrid Laurier showed the temper of the true reformer in his address at the banquet tendered the prime ministers of the country by the Canadian Club of Ottawa. The constitution of Canada, he said, was not perfect, but it had done its work well. It was not logical or symmetrical, but it had been made practical. It had given us forty years of harmony amongst the different elements composing the Canadian people, and this harmony was more sincere and manifest today than at any anterior period. The present gathering, added Sir Wilfrid, was a reminder of the imperfections of the constitution, but it could be improved if it had the sympathy of the Canadian people.

This is more statesmanlike, and more in the spirit of British political philosophy, than the unqualified denunciation of the constitution in some quarters, and the demand that it be razed to the ground, and a new one built on its ruins. The present conference will probably be useful in adjusting the B. N. A. Act still more smoothly to the necessities of a federal system. There are some lingering points of friction between the federal and provincial jurisdictions, which may be removed by mutual agreement and concession. For instance, the conflict of authority in the matter of fisheries, has interfered with the drafting and enforcement of effective regulations. Confusion is also arising constantly over the chartering of railways and other corporations. The possession of both provincial and Dominion charters by the one corporation is often a device for evading federal or provincial laws, and there should be some more precise definition of the convenient formula, "For the general advantage of Canada." In some respects a greater centralization may be desirable in the public interest, and it may be that the provincial governments will surrender some disputed points in return for more liberal financial treatment. It will be the fault of some of the delegates if the conference does not result in a better understanding between the provinces and the Dominion.

IRISH LEGISLATION FORESHADOWED.

There is little doubt that a measure to confer some powers of self-government upon Ireland will be introduced by the British Government at the ensuing session of parliament.

The success of the measure in operation will depend upon the spirit in which it is received by the Nationalists, even if the Government should force it through parliament without their consent. The recent speeches of Mr. John Redmond in Ireland, and of Mr. T. P. O'Connor in America, indicate that the Irish party will accept it as an installment of home rule, or a vantage ground from which to continue the fight for that principle. The bill is being framed by Mr. Bryce, Secretary of State for Ireland, who supported Mr. Gladstone's Irish legislation, but it will have to go before the Commons with the sanction of the whole cabinet, which includes several strong opponents of home rule in the Gladstonian sense, among them Mr. Asquith and Sir Edward Gray. To command a majority in the present House of Commons the new measure must fall very far short of Mr. Gladstone's proposals, but there is ample room for reform in the administration of Irish affairs without raising the question of home rule at this juncture. The Unionist Government made a large concession to the Irish people in the matter of local administration, and many influential Unionists in Ireland, of the land-owning class, have declared for the devolution of certain powers now exercised by the Imperial Government upon an Irish administrative council.

"Devolution" is the term which will be probably applied, to the Government's measure. It will, no doubt, create an administrative body with strictly defined powers covering a range of purely local and internal subjects, and responsible in some degree to the majority of the Irish people. The Nationalists will, no doubt, make allowance for the fact that the Government can only go so far toward meeting their wishes as the House of Lords will permit.

THE KING AND THE TALL HAT.

King Edward is a benefactor of his people. He is an especial favorite of the tradesfolks, who find in him a friend in need very often. Just when the fashion in an article of apparel seems to be changing that its manufacture is in danger of being stopped, the British King takes to wearing it, and immediately the popular demand sets in. It was so in the case of the "Christy stiff" hat, and history bids fair to repeat itself with regard to the silk hat. Twenty years ago the silk hat was universally worn in the "best circles" in Great Britain. But one fine day the then Prince of Wales took to wearing a round felt hat, and almost immediately he had millions of imitators. The parliamentarians and public officials made a brave struggle to stem the current in favor of the round felt headgear, but our own Edward Blake came on the scene in the early nineties with his characteristic soft slouch hat, and almost took away the breath of the sticklers for sartorial propriety. Then came the Socialist labor members, Kier Hardie at their head, with his cranium covered by an ordinary cloth cap. Since then there has been a constant tendency not to recognize "style" in head coverings, and the chimney-pot hat, not being very easily disposed of when members are practically fighting for seats, of which in a full house there are always too few, it has been largely given up. The King, however, has come to the rescue. He appeared at the Doncaster races in a brand new silk hat, and there is everywhere rejoicing among the makers. They say, indeed, that the industry, though recently at a low ebb, is by no means dying out, and that as a consequence of His Majesty's example it is likely soon to regain its old-time status. Moreover, the claim is made that it is economical, as it lasts three times as long as a hard felt, and can be made to look as good as new for a very small annual expenditure. We in Canada would scarcely agree with the expert in fashion, however, who claims that "the silk hat is comfortable-cool in summer and warm in winter, and distinctly the healthiest hat one can wear." The savage chief in the Fiji Islands regards it as the sole article needful for his royal wardrobe, but there has been no clamor for chimney-pot hats on the part of our countrymen in the far north, the Esquimaux. They demand something softer and more clinging.

All indications point to an early summer. Indian summer.

So far Sir Wilfrid Laurier has not been succeeded as a witness in the London election inquiry.

In some districts in the Province the administration of the license law has become scandalously lax. Was it for this Mr. Whitney guillotined all the old inspectors?

The evidence of Hon. George W. Ross before the insurance commission shows that he became a director of the Union Trust Company after the land transactions, in which Mr. Foster was involved, were completed. Mr. Ross was wholly unaware of the nature of the deals, and had nothing to do with any questionable business.

The pharisaical prize has been won by W. H. Bennett, M. P. He made a long speech in the House of Commons on June 1 last, denouncing members of Parliament who used their position and influence as such to enrich themselves at the public's expense. The insurance commission has brought to light the fact that Mr. Bennett was one of the clique of land-grabbing M. P.s, who three years ago used their position and influence to put a fortune in their pockets.

At the annual meeting of the American Veterinary Medical Association at New Haven, Conn., a resolution was passed warmly approving of the appointment by the Canadian Government of Dr. J. G. Rutherford, Veterinary Director-General of Canada, to the position of live stock commissioner for the Dominion. The work undertaken by Dr. Rutherford in recent years at the instance of the Canadian Government for the combating and controlling of contagious diseases among animals, was highly commended as worthy of emulation by the federal and state authorities in the United States. Coming from so eminent a body of men, this appreciation of the special work undertaken by the Dominion Minister of Agriculture for the welfare of our farmers, must be highly satisfactory to Hon. Sydney Fisher.

The policy of the Campbell-Bannerman Government, in antagonizing Chinese immigration into South Africa, is apparently proving a success. The immigration of coolies has been largely stopped, and the Chinamen now on the Rand are making arrangements to get out as soon as possible. A cablegram from Johannesburg, states that the steamship Crowley has just taken away from the country over 1,700 repatriated coolies. Of these no fewer than 483 are being sent home on account of physical infirmity or disease, and 467 undesirable have also been sent away, all at the expense of the miners. Of the remainder 448 are returning under section 14, of the labor contract, having repaid the cost of their importation and repatriation, and 303 are being returned at the expense of the Imperial Government, under the repatriation proclamation. The mines of South Africa are sufficiently rich to yield their owners a profit without resorting to the semi-slavery, which marked the employment of these Chinamen. The new Imperial Government deserves credit for setting its face against the system.

THE NEW SYSTEM.

[New York Life.]
Haroun Al Roosevelt one day read a Book wherein the Author said: "Why shouldn't 'kiss' and all the rest be spelled fonetic like 'posset'?" In mercy's name why shouldn't 'Remove the needless k from (knee), Pull out the orthographic snarl From wurz like (gnat) and (gnoome) and (gnaw)?"

JEROME ON SNORERS.

[Chicago Tribune.]
"At a banquet," said an editor, "I once heard Jerome K. Jerome make a speech on snoring. I remember, that it ended with these words: 'To cure snoring it is advised that a piece of soap be dropped into the mouth of the snorer, and the soap will lubricate the pharynx and other Latin parts of the throat. This remedy must be applied with caution; otherwise the snorer will arise and lubricate the floor with the person who dropped in the soap.'"

TOUGH STUFF.

[Philadelphia Bulletin.]
The Rev. Frederick B. Bridgman, the noted and successful missionary to the Zulus, was talking in Philadelphia about missionary work.
"I am very hopeful of it," he said, "I may be a little too hopeful, because I have had such good success. It is better, though, to be too hopeful than too doubting."
"Much depends upon the character of the people one works among, and I can sympathize a little with the missionary who returned home from China in a despondent mood."
"A Chinese convert stole this missionary's watch and then came back to him the next morning to learn how to wind it up."

THE LOST BALL.

[Smart Set.]
Standing one day on the golf links, I was weary and ill at ease; And I bailed and fozzled idly Over the whirring and teeming, And I knew not what I was dreaming, Or where I was rubbing them. But I swiped that ball of a sudden, With the force of two-score men, It sped through the crimson twilight Like a shot from a ten-inch gun; And it passed from my fevered vision To the realm of the vanished sun; It chased over the bunker, 'Till it caromed behind a hill; It went like a thing infernal— I suppose it is going still.

It shied each perplexing style With infinite nerve and ease; And above right on through the landscape, As if it were loath to cease. I have sought—but I seek it vainly— That ball of the serious pace. That went from the sole of my niblick And entered into space.

It may be some blooming cadette Can sooner or later explain; It may be that only in heaven I shall find that ball again.

THE MAIL'S DELAMIA.

[Brockville Recorder.]
It is observed that, while the Mail and Empire is quite sure of the depravity of Hon. Mr. Hyman in the allegation of bribery in his election at London, it is discreetly silent as to the very questionable position of Hon. Geo. E. Foster, George Fowler, E. Bennett, et al., as revealed in the evidence before the insurance commission in connection with the Foresters. The Mail is always tenderly careful of the feelings of its friends.

NOT BIGOTRY.

[Indianapolis Star.]
As a prisoner was brought before Judge Sherman for sentencing, the clerk happened to be absent. Judge Sherman asked the officer in charge of the prisoner what the offense was with which he was charged.
"Bigotry, your honor. He's been married to three women."
"Why, officer, that's not bigotry," said the judge, "that's trigonometry."

NO HAPPY MEMOIR.

[Toronto Telegram.]
Canada's glorious climate always keeps everybody busy buying ice to cool them or coal to warm them.

AUTUMN DRESSES.

[Bayard Taylor.]
When the maple turns to crimson, And the sassafras to gold; When the gentians in the shadow, And the aster in the fold; When the moon is lapped in vapor, And the night is frosty cold.

When the chestnut burs are opened, And the acorns drop like rain; And the drowsy air is startled With the humming like the rain— With the humming like the rain, With the whistle of the quail.

Through the rustling woods I wander, Through the jewels of the year, From the yellow uplands calling, Seeking her who dwells afar, She is near me in the autumn, She, the beautiful, is near.

Through the smoke of burning summer, When the weary waters still, I can see her in the valley, I can see her on the hill, In the splendor of the wildlands, In the whisper of the rill.

For the shores of earth and heaven Meet and mingle in the blue; She can wander down the glory To the places that she knew— Where the happy lovers wandered In the days when life was true.

So I think when days are sweetest And the world is wholly fair, She may sometimes steal upon me Through the dimness of the air, With the cross upon her bosom And the amaranth in her hair.

Once to meet her, ah! to meet her, And to hold her gently fast, Till I blessed her, till she blessed me— That were happiness at last. That were bliss upon our meetings In the autumn of the past.

SECRETIVENESS OF THE JAPANESE.

[World's Work.]
No higher tribute can be paid to a foreigner by a Japanese than his belief in his power to keep silence; that power is one of the most tremendous sources of the nation's strength. Much marvel has been elicited by the inviolate safety during the war of strategic secrets, the common possession of thousands of people at once. There were a few traitors here and there in the beginning of the war; there were none when it was ended. They were discovered and convicted by their own comrades, and swift and terrible was the execution of justice upon them. Only in the service to which they belonged were these painful incidents known; they were described when the war was over.

GATHERING OF ANGLICAN CLERGY

Continued from page

ments, and by his breadth of mind, largeness of heart and unfailing courtesy of manner, endeared himself to all denominations, and greatly promoted the spirit of unity in the city of Montreal. Thus he won for himself not only the respect of all classes of the community, but also a very real and deeply seated affection.

The committee desires to express its sincere sympathy with the members of the late archbishop's family in their bereavement, and trusts that they may find consolation and Christian joy in the contemplation of a noble life, begun, continued, and ended in God.

The committee desires further to express their deep sense of the great loss sustained by the whole church in the Dominion by the death of the Venerable John Langtry, Archdeacon of York, a fearless champion of the faith, a devoted parish priest, a highly valued spiritual adviser, a large-hearted and genial friend, his memory will live long in the church which it was at once his highest privilege and his chief joy to serve. It is his earnest prayer that the God of all consolation will minister to the comfort of those who are so closely bound to him, and in whose lives his removal leaves a blank that can never be filled.

At the meeting of the bishops, which is being held in this city today, the election of a successor to the late Archbishop Bond, Primate of All Canada, will be informally discussed.

The election of the archbishop is in the hands of the bishops and archbishops of Canada, ten in number. They are Bishop Williams of Quebec, Bishop Dumoulin of the Diocese of Niagara, Bishop Sweetman of Toronto, Bishop Thorpe of Algoma, Bishop Mills of Ontario, Bishop Hamilton of Ottawa, Bishop Carmichael of Montreal, Bishop Hunter-Dunn of Quebec, Bishop Worrell of Nova Scotia, and Bishop Klug of Fredericton. The bishops will meet at the call of the senior bishop. In this instance Bishop Sweetman, of Toronto, is senior.

Winnipeg is the dividing line between the two archdioceses of Canada. The eastern archbishopric is called "Canada," and the western is called "Rupert's Land," and the late Archbishop Bond was primate of all Canada.

Points of Discussion.

Some discussion is being occasioned in the matter of the appointment of a successor to the late archbishop. In the cases of the late Archbishop of Quebec, and of the late Archbishop of Montreal, it happened that both were senior bishops, and if the election should be governed by this precedent the nominee would be Bishop Sweetman, of Toronto.

No law, not even an unwritten rule, exists, stating that the senior bishop shall be elected archbishop, and in the cases cited it was merely a coincidence; so that in view of all the facts nothing definite is known as to the choice that will be made. The Primate of the east provides a bishop has not yet been elected to this high office, and there is a possibility that an eastern man may get the honors.

Possible Candidates.

Among the names most prominently mentioned are Bishops Carmichael, Mills and Dumoulin, all well known to Londoners.

Bishop Dumoulin was ordained deacon and priest by the late Bishop Cronyn, and was curate of St. John's, London Township, afterward going to Galt and from there to Montreal. From Montreal he went to Niagara, and from there back to Montreal, afterward holding prominent appointments in the Montreal, Toronto and Niagara dioceses. In the year 1898 he was elected Bishop of Niagara.

Bishop Carmichael was also ordained by Bishop Cronyn in 1880, and had charge of the mission at Clinton for some time. He afterward removed from the Diocese of Ontario to the Diocese of Montreal, and was elected Bishop of Montreal in 1892. He was elected Bishop of Montreal in 1892, and was elected Bishop of Montreal in 1892.

Immediately after the Bishop of Canada, he has been elected Primate of All Canada must be chosen. And, besides the ten bishops already mentioned, all the bishops of Rupert's Land will meet with them, and thus the primate will be elected by the Synod of Canada. The Archbishop of Rupert's Land, was born in Kildman, Manitoba, in 1822, the descendant of a Scotch settler, and was one of the Scotch settlers brought to the Red River by Lord Selkirk in 1818.

He was educated at Mr. Pritchard's Academy and St. Paul's parish school, and later entered St. George's College school. He was ordained to the priesthood by Archbishop Machray in 1850. He was created a canon of the Cathedral in 1852. His rise was rapid, and it was with the commendation of the church in all Canada that he was appointed to succeed the late Archbishop Machray at his death.

He has held the office of grand master of the Manitoba Grand Lodge.

To give the bishops at present in this city a chance to see the late Archbishop Bond has been postponed until Friday.

The late Bishop Sullivan Bishops Carmichael and Dumoulin, and the late Bishop Baldwin were all from the Diocese of Huron.

When the maple turns to crimson, And the sassafras to gold; When the gentians in the shadow, And the aster in the fold; When the moon is lapped in vapor, And the night is frosty cold.

When the chestnut burs are opened, And the acorns drop like rain; And the drowsy air is startled With the humming like the rain— With the humming like the rain, With the whistle of the quail.

Through the rustling woods I wander, Through the jewels of the year, From the yellow uplands calling, Seeking her who dwells afar, She is near me in the autumn, She, the beautiful, is near.

Through the smoke of burning summer, When the weary waters still, I can see her in the valley, I can see her on the hill, In the splendor of the wildlands, In the whisper of the rill.

For the shores of earth and heaven Meet and mingle in the blue; She can wander down the glory To the places that she knew— Where the happy lovers wandered In the days when life was true.

So I think when days are sweetest And the world is wholly fair, She may sometimes steal upon me Through the dimness of the air, With the cross upon her bosom And the amaranth in her hair.

Once to meet her, ah! to meet her, And to hold her gently fast, Till I blessed her, till she blessed me— That were happiness at last. That were bliss upon our meetings In the autumn of the past.

Through the smoke of burning summer, When the weary waters still, I can see her in the valley, I can see her on the hill, In the splendor of the wildlands, In the whisper of the rill.

For the shores of earth and heaven Meet and mingle in the blue; She can wander down the glory To the places that she knew— Where the happy lovers wandered In the days when life was true.

So I think when days are sweetest And the world is wholly fair, She may sometimes steal upon me Through the dimness of the air, With the cross upon her bosom And the amaranth in her hair.

Once to meet her, ah! to meet her, And to hold her gently fast, Till I blessed her, till she blessed me— That were happiness at last. That were bliss upon our meetings In the autumn of the past.

Through the smoke of burning summer, When the weary waters still, I can see her in the valley, I can see her on the hill, In the splendor of the wildlands, In the whisper of the rill.

For the shores of earth and heaven Meet and mingle in the blue; She can wander down the glory To the places that she knew— Where the happy lovers wandered In the days when life was true.

So I think when days are sweetest And the world is wholly fair, She may sometimes steal upon me Through the dimness of the air, With the cross upon her bosom And the amaranth in her hair.

Once to meet her, ah! to meet her, And to hold her gently fast, Till I blessed her, till she blessed me— That were happiness at last. That were bliss upon our meetings In the autumn of the past.

Through the smoke of burning summer, When the weary waters still, I can see her in the valley, I can see her on the hill, In the splendor of the wildlands, In the whisper of the rill.

For the shores of earth and heaven Meet and mingle in the blue; She can wander down the glory To the places that she knew— Where the happy lovers wandered In the days when life was true.

So I think when days are sweetest And the world is wholly fair, She may sometimes steal upon me Through the dimness of the air, With the cross upon her bosom And the amaranth in her hair.

J.H. CHAPMAN & CO
BARGAIN FRIDAY'S
SPECIAL VALUES

Also a number of special bargains not advertised. Look at our Friday's offerings before buying.

FRIDAY SALE OF WAISTS

Owing to a special purchase of Ladies' Waists, we can have a sale tomorrow at 98c. Cashmeres, lusters, voiles and flannels, in all colors black, white, cream, navy, cardinal, green and fancy stripes. These waists are worth $1.50, $2.00 and most up-to-date in style. Most of them are neatly trimmed. Splendid for everyday wear. See display in window and judge for yourself. 98c Choice.

Your Winter Outfit

Right now is the very best time to give this matter serious consideration. Friday bargains make buying easy.

Ladies' and Misses' Coats

One table of broken numbers of Ladies' and Misses' Winter Coats, one of a number or size, all are thoroughly good winter coats, 42 inches long. Made of fancy tweed mixtures, velvet and cloth collars, full sleeves and turn back cuffs. Special $8.50 Friday and Saturday.

Suits for Fall Wearing

Ladies' Tailor-Made Suits, made of fancy mixed tweeds and navy blue chevrons, tight-fitting and Norfolk coats. Regular prices $18.00 and $20.00, on sale Friday and Saturday $13.50

Children's Coats

This season's Ulsters and Paletots for girls; made of fancy tweeds, and coats. The best styles we've ever shown. Prices $3.50 to $6.00

Fur-Lined Capes

Ladies' Fur-lined Capes, 36 inches long, plain and fancy black shells, also navy, cardinal and fawn, trimmed with high ribbed collar. Worth $18 to $20, on sale Friday and Saturday $13.50

Silk Petticoats

Odd lines of Black and Colored. Silk Petticoats: $7.50 and $5.00 kinds for $4.25

Men's Clothing Specials

Reduction in Men's Raincoats

All our Raincoats for men are reduced in price, but the two specials we mention are extra reductions: $12.00 Coats for $9.95 $10.00 Coats for $8.50

Men's Waterproofs

The others were cloth, these are rubber coats, in gray shades, with velvet collar, all sizes, were $2.50, on sale Friday and Saturday $1.95

Fall Overcoats

15 only, Men's and Youths' Light Fall Overcoats, made from whited and fancy tweeds. Regular price $3.50, on sale Friday and Saturday $5.95

Union Carpet

385 yards, extra heavy Union Carpet, full yard wide, reversible, in dark green, fawn, brown and red grounds, excellent for bedroom use. Regular 45c and 50c grades. On sale Friday and Saturday, per yard $37.1-2c

Wool Carpet

Someone may want a wool carpet tomorrow. We have one roll of our regular 75c all-wool guaranteed wool carpet, on sale tomorrow and Saturday, at per yard $50c

Brussel Carpet

Excellent variety of colorings and designs in English Brussels Carpets, lengths up to 42-1/2 yards, and 6-1/2 feet wide. Some have matched borders. Odds and ends of our regular $1.10, $1.15 and $1.25 grades. Made and laid at $1.01

Cardigan Jackets

We have imported a full line of Men's Brown and Black Wool Cardigan Jackets for men, that can't be equalled for value. Now is the time to buy these garments. Our prices are 75c, 85c, $1.15, $1.25, up to $2.75

Men's Underwear

Men's Plain and Ribbed Wool Undershirts and Drawers, splendidly made, in all sizes. Bought to sell for $1.15 a suit. Our Bargain price $1.00

Men's All-Wool Plain Knit Undershirts and Drawers, saten finished, well made, unusual value per suit $1.00

Men's Elastic Rib and Lambs-wool Undershirts and Drawers, two grades that are unmatched at $1.50 a suit, on sale Friday and Saturday $1.25

THE CANADIAN BARCALO MFG. CO

WELLAND, ONT. 523ywt-12

Remnants and Dress Goods Specials

200 Remnant ends of Black and Colored Fall Dress Goods, resulting from fall cutting of new goods. This is the first remnant sale of the season. Lengths from 1-3/4 to 6 yards, including splendid lengths for girls' coats, ladies' dresses and skirts. Good bargains.

Scotch Plaids

Sixteen different plaids, dark and light colorings, just what mothers want to buy for girls' winter dresses, special value, per yard 25c

Venetians---Tweeds

See this big line of Venetians and Tweeds in the correct fall effects, unusual value Friday and Saturday, per yard 50c

One line of Black Dress Goods, in newest weaves, worth 50c yard, Friday and Saturday 35c

Cream Delains

Satin Stripe Cream Delains for waists, very pretty, 30 inch wide. Friday and Saturday, Special 28c

Table Linen

150 yards Half-Bleached Table Linen, 72 inches wide, pure linen Regular 75c a yard, on sale Friday and Saturday 59c

200 yards Half-Bleached Table Linen, pure linen, worth 50c and 60c a yard, on sale Friday and Saturday 44c

Feather Pillows

covered with best art ticking, size 18x27, regular price per pair, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00 and $2.25

Towels

20 dozen All Linen Huck Towels, size 19x37, regular 18c each, on sale Friday and Saturday 15c

16-Inch Pure Linen Crash Toweling, on sale Friday and Saturday, 16 yards for $1, or what you want, at, per yard 61-2c

Gray Yarn

Four ply Scotch Fingering Yarn, light and dark gray, regular price 85c a pound, special at 73c

Ladies' Underwear

Ladies' Natural Wool Drawers, ankle length, good weight, all sizes, very special at 95c

German Cashmere Vests, with short sleeves, 7c

Ladies' White Ribbed Vests, and Drawers, white and natural, unusual value, per garment 50c

Dollar Corsets

Phonac Corsets, long hip, with front and side hose supporters; also our special Corset, with the military hip, two values worth mentioning, at $1.00

Golf Coats

are increasing in popularity, all colors, nice garments $1.95

Fleeced Hose

Every woman who wishes a warm pair of hose should see these heavy fleeced Cotton Hose, seamless feet, spliced heel and toe. We are selling great quantities, at per pair 20c

Children's Hose

Children's Ribbed Cashmere Hose, 2x1 rib, double knees and heels, all sizes, on sale Friday and Saturday, per pair 25c

Glove Samples

Another lot of samples of Wool Gloves, good bargains for early seekers 10c to 50c

<