

CITY EMPLOYEES PARADE NEW YORK

Twelve Thousand People, Including Firemen and Police Form Huge Civic Procession.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Twelve thousand city employees went out today to give New York an object lesson in municipal government. The procession was a street parade six miles long made up of men and vehicles from nineteen city departments.

The police and fire departments in the past have paraded annually, but today's procession was the first in which the various municipal departments united.

The fire department headed the line with 1,455 men and twenty-two pieces of apparatus (all that could be spared with safety), three floats and ten trucks; and the police brought up the rear 7,224 strong with 35 vehicles. The divisions between comprised the other municipal workers, many in uniform, and all accompanied by the implements and vehicles of their work. There were 550 vehicles in all, and forty-three bands.

The route of the parade was up Fifth avenue from Washington square to Fifty-ninth street, then up Broadway to Eighty-sixth street. In front of the public library at Forty-second street was a huge reviewing stand for Mayor Gaynor, and the city officials and their guests.

Next to the police, the largest division was the street cleaning department with 1,770 white uniformed sweepers, and dockmen, and 351 dump carts and sweeping machines. The department of parks added variety with cages of animals from the Central park zoo, headed by a trick elephant. The aqueduct police, who keep order among the 35,000 foreigners working along the 125 miles of the tunnel that will bring New York its new water supply from the Catskills, sent 300 men, about half of them mounted.

The various departments vied with one another in devising floats describing their branches of city service. The ambulance service sent twenty ambulances. The department of corrections had two wagons containing samples of goods made in the city prisons. The bureau of weights and measures showed a float exhibiting defective scales.

The parade was in charge of Commissioner Joseph Johnson of the fire department.

Union Men Object to Ambassador Page

Allied Trades Council of Greater New York Notify the London Council of Their Objections.

LONDON, May 17.—The resolution of protest against the nomination of Walter H. Page as United States ambassador to Great Britain, was introduced by W. Coffey, a member of the executive committee of the London Trades Council, on the strength of a letter written on paper bearing the letterhead of the Allied Trades Council of Greater New York, and signed "Charles L. Conway, secretary of the National Brotherhood of Bookbinders."

After describing Walter H. Page as a member of the firm of Doubleday, Page & Co., the letter says:

"This concern is bitterly opposed to organized labor. The only department that forced recognition from the union standpoint was the bookbinders, but they are now on strike, being forced out as the policy of the firm is to replace men with boys."

The letter also says that the International Typographical Union, Local No. 6, continues the firm on the "unfair" list, and that the men who had been secured to take the strikers' places rebelled and struck without the aid of any organization.

The letter concludes by asking all "the organized labor of the United Kingdom to assist in giving this matter the widest publicity and also to file a protest to our government on its selection and a protest to your own government for its acceptance of this man."

The National Brotherhood of Bookbinders is an "outlaw organization," expelled two years ago from the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders, according to Peter J. Brady, secretary of the Allied Printing Trades Council of Greater New York. It has been repudiated, he says, by the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Brady announced today that he proposed to write letters to President Wilson and Ambassador Page, explaining that Conway's communication was unauthorized either by the Printing Trades Council or by the International Brotherhood of Bookbinders, and that he would also inform the London Trades Council.

"Whatever may be the conditions at the Doubleday Page plant in regard to union labor," Mr. Brady said, "we have no desire to embarrass the administration by any such tactics as those employed by Conway. If we had any desire to protest against the appointment of Mr. Page, we would have addressed our protest to President Wilson in an official manner."

"The use by Conway of the letterhead of the Allied Printing Trades Council was entirely unauthorized, as was the use of the name of the International Typographical Union, Local No. 6, which has no connection with his organization."

Help welcome Premier Borden, Monday.

Picking the Thrillers. Dr. Orr has completed his drag-net operations in Europe for attractions for the grand standers at the next Canadian National Exhibition, and is now in New York gathering in more attractions. When he landed in Gotham on Friday night J. G. Kent, the president, and John Eventell, the treasurer, were on the pier to welcome him. The three officials of the great and only fair lost no time in motoring to the vaudeville agencies to pick up a few thrillers.

Veterans' Church Parade. His Majesty's Imperial Army and Navy Veterans will hold their annual church parade to-night at St. James' Cathedral. The members will muster on Albert street near the city hall at 6.15 p.m. All veterans welcome to attend. War medals to be worn. Major W. A. Collins, president.
