E. W. PATTERSON,

29 CITY ROAD. 29 CITY ROAD

That the past week has been a very busy one in a social way, needs no telling, for, as anticipated, the exhibition brought many visitors to the city and relatives from town and country have thus had an opportunity to exchange greetings and indulge in little pleasures, which opportunities in many cases are but few and far between.

The opening of the fair by its excellency the lieutenant governor had, of course, its influence, in a social way, and St. John society circles were well represented at Saturday evening's ceremonies. Once the hurry and bustle of fair time is over, society will doubtless settle down for the events of the winter.

It is whispered that plans are being formulated for several functions of unusual interest, of which we will hear later.

Quite a number of families have come to the city for the winter, and summer resorts are beginning to present a deserted appearance. Some, of course, will remain in the country till well on in the fall.
