THE STORMY PETREL. English Songs and other Poems, by E Cornwall.

Contentr. To USAND miles from lund are we, ing about on the rooting sea; is billow to bounding billow east; flecey snow on the stormy blast; sails are scattered abroad, like weeds, storng masts shake, like quivering reeds, mighty cables, and iron chains. hull, which all earthly strength disdains, y strain and they crack; and hearts like s in natural hard proud strength disown.

I neir natural naro proud strengt databate Up and down! up and down! From the base of the waxe to the billow's crown And anyiet the flashing and leadery toam The Stormy Petrel that any be. A home, if such a point the wide wide sea, For hex who gives, in the forzen air, On only seeking her rocky lair To warm her young, and to teach them to sprin, At once o'er the waves on their stormy wing !

r the deep ! O'er the deep ! or the what, and the shark, and the sword-if ying the blast and the driving rain. Petret leting her tale-min van ; the mariner curset the warning bird o bringeth him news of the storm unheard ' thus does the prophet, of good or ill, thate from the creatures the serveth still he ne'er faiters :-So. Petre! ! spring a more o'er the waves on thy stormy wing !

It seldom happens that we are much influence by those much older than ourselves. It is the senior of from two to ten years that most seduce and enthrais us. He has the same pursuits, view, objects, pleasures, but more art and experience is them all. He goes with us in the path we are ordained to tread, but from which the elder genera too desires to warn us off. There is very bitt advector where there is no great symmithy. fluence where there is no great sympathy. Bulwer."
