Living on the Equator

Without a mosquito bar a white person would be unable to live on the equator, writes Ida Vera Simonton in the Decorative.

No matter how hot and stifling the night—and no other place can be so stifling as the equatorial African night during the long rainy season in the midst of the jungle—one must sleep under a closely tucked mosquito bar—not the ventilated kind civilization knows, but one of closely woven stuff, through which no air circulates. When the mosquito bar was let down it took in almost the entire room, but it proved especially useful in sickness and convalescence. It permitted existence free from insect bites. As malaria is the white man's most insidious foe, and comes from the bite of the mosquito, every precaution must be taken against it. Three things are absolutely necessary in Africa; a mosquito bar, a water filter and quinine.

The bed was made by a native carpenter. The frame was of wood, the slats of bamboo ribs, fitted closely together with the pith side uppermost. They didn't give a bit and were an excellent dancing floor for the dried plantain leaves which made the mattress. The leaves were confined beneath ticking tacked to the four sides of the bed, but they matted easily, and every night it was continuous leaf-turning for me. The bamboo was slippery, and insomnia kept me and the leaves on the move, so that most of the time I slept on a hard surface of dead sweet-smelling grass.

Can you settle a man's lash for him if he is a vegetarian?

PRACTICAL EVENING WRAP OF MOIRE

Nothing more practical than moire silk could be selected for the evening wrap destined for traveling "to and from" in public conveyance. Gray and golden tints are preferable colors and ones which may be worn with almost any color gown. This garment, which gives the effect of a cloak.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

Do you ever make single snap judgments? Maybe, before you mentally answer, you would like to have me give you a vague idea of what it means.

"No, I don't like him. He wears suspenders and I never in this world could like a man who wears suspenders." "Well, he certainly must be a piker if he smokes a cigar with the bandon."

"Why, my dear, he's impossible! I saw him the other day in an elevator and he kept his hat on!"

"Oh, my, he can't really be anybody at all. Why his cards were printed!"

"Perhaps you don't recognize any of your people's prejudices, those that surely you recognize the general in tone."

And don't you think such judgments are very unjust? Little things, to be sure, show a person's lack of breeding, but I don't think the lack of any one point in breeding justifies the wholesale condemnation that we often give. Staves above which way the wind blows, but if one staff points east while all the rest point north, that doesn't show the wind is east even if the east pointing staff does happen to be a particularly large one from your point of view.

One of the very finest women I know, brilliant and talented and thoroughly a lady in every sense of the word, does not keep her nails in good order.

Nice looking nails are the hall mark of a well-bred woman, and yet I certainly do not think anyone would be justified in saying this woman was not a lady and a very high bred lady at that.

Now don't think I am attempting to justify carelessness about one's nails, or the public use of the toothpick, or any of the other foibles that I have mentioned.

I am not.

I am simply trying to show that no one offense of that sort is sufficient to form the basis of a judgment.

Such judgments are a reflection on those of that sort is sufficient to form the basis of a judgment.

In a book of memoirs that was published recently a great lady tells of how Dr. Disraeli proposed to her and what you think was her chief impression of him—that he was impossible because he had such a bad breath.

Now, of course, it was very much to Disraeli's discredit that he should so offend good taste, but listen to the commentator's opinion of the two—the judge and the condemned.

"There is realism for you. The man who made an ancient queen into an Empress, who subdued and led the ancient aristocracy of England, climbing from a Jewish home and a lawyer's office to the greatest of empires—there he stands before us, belittled, shamed and made almost absurd and abhorrent by this cruel and undervalued female observer, as simply a man with a foul breath. It is a stupendous picture of him—AND OF HER."

Which goes to show how single snap judgments are apt to impress those who hear them.

One grated coconut equal amount sugar, a triffe of butter. Roll into balls and bake a light brown.

CHOCOLATE PUDDING

Make a one-egg cake and frost with a cooked chocolate frosting. Serve with warm whipped cream.

LONG STANDING SCIATICA

Completely Cured by One Box of Father Morrisey's No. 7 Tablets.

Sciatica is hard enough to endure, and harder still to cure, in many cases, with ordinary remedies. Caused like rheumatism, by impurities in the blood, in this case set up by a long standing sciatic nerve, it is difficult to get at with external application.

Mr. Charles McEwen, of Chatham, N.B., writes: "I have suffered from Sciatica or Rheumatism of joints for many years. I have used many medicines, but nothing has helped me until I started on Father Morrisey's No. 7 Tablets. After trying several doctors and spending large sums of money without avail, I was completely cured of Sciatica after using only one box of Father Morrisey's No. 7 Tablets. No matter how long you have suffered from Sciatica or Rheumatism of joints, or muscles—no matter how much medicine or liniment you have used without result—try Father Morrisey's No. 7 before you give up. It has restored health to many who were almost hopeless."

BOY SCOUTS ORGANIZED

Provincial Council and Local Association to be Formed—Nominating Committee Chosen

At a meeting in Keith's Assembly rooms Saturday afternoon it was decided to form a provincial council of Boy Scouts and proceed as soon as possible with the establishment of local troops and patrols. Capt. Birdwhistle, of Ottawa, was present and explained the movement. Mr. Z. Agar was in the chair, in the absence of the mayor, and W. H. Moor, boy's secretary of the Y. M. C. A., was chosen secretary. Mr. Agar explained that they were not present to assume the responsibility of starting the Boy Scout movement, but to take the initiative. Capt. Birdwhistle said that councils had been formed throughout the west and dealt upon the necessity of choosing men of standing as members of the provincial council. The officers, he said, would consist of president, vice-president, honorary secretary and scout master. He said that when the first company was formed the scout master gave instruction out of General Baden-Powell's book. On motion of Rev. A. A. Graham, seconded by Rev. G. A. Kuhnig, it was decided to form a provincial council, and on motion of J. N. Harvey that the chairman appoint a committee to nominate members for the provincial and local associations was also carried.

The following nominating committee has been appointed by Mr. Z. Agar to select names for the provincial council of the boy scouts as well as for the local association: D. H. Haver, Mayor Frank, Dr. H. S. Bridges, W. H. Moore, Major Thos. Kiekham, C. B. Allen, Ald. J. B. M. Baxter, T. H. Estabrook, James F. Robertson and J. N. Harvey. These, with Mr. Agar, who is also a member of the committee, will meet in the board of trade rooms Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Among those present at the meeting were Rev. A. A. Graham, Rev. G. E. Scovell, Rev. W. R. Robinson, Rev. J. W. B. Stewart, Rev. Gordon Dickie, Rev. David Lang, Rev. G. A. Kuhnig, Major Thos. Kiekham, Col. J. B. M. Baxter, J. N. Harvey, A. M. Belding, R. B. Walker, M. E. Agar, Capt. Birdwhistle, J. Simon Armstrong, Col. Buchanan, A. W. Robb, W. H. Moor, J. W. V. Lawlor and T. S. Hill.

Capt. Birdwhistle suggested that the committee might report to a meeting Oct. 5 and 6, as he would be in the city then.

RONALD FOWLER DEAD IN INDIANA

The many friends of Josiah Fowler will be sorry to hear of the death of his youngest son, Ronald, of Newcastle (Ind.), which occurred at Newcastle (Ind.) Saturday after an illness of only four weeks with typhoid fever. Mr. Fowler's daughter, Aline, is at present very seriously ill with typhoid in the same place. Mr. Fowler was in Newcastle with his son at the time of his death and is bringing the body home for burial. It is probable it will arrive in the city Tuesday, when the arrangements for the funeral will be announced. About a year ago Mr. Fowler started the National Spring Company in Newcastle and installed his son as superintendent. He was there personally to see that the affairs of the company were properly started and the business conducted with bright prospects of success when the young man was stricken with typhoid fever. He was getting better and it was hoped he might soon be convalescent when he suffered a relapse.

It will be remembered that about four years ago his sister, Miss Greta, died from the effects of typhoid fever here. The young man was well known in St. John. He was a graduate of the high school and was about twenty-two years of age. He had been in the west some time before his death. Besides his father, he was survived by two sisters, one of whom is at present ill in Newcastle (Ind.), and Mrs. K. B. Forbes, of Richibucto, city, and one brother, Blanchard, of St. John.

LOFTY AMERICAN ENVOYS

An entry in President Polk's Diary published by the Chicago Historical Society, records his indignation at the airs of two American envoys returned from abroad, who, accompanied by Buchanan called at the White House. "They were very respectful," he wrote, "that they called to pay their respects." But he goes on: "After the ordinary salutations they engaged in conversation between themselves about the fine arts, and about the distinguished persons they had seen abroad. They seemed to be well satisfied with themselves, and it was very clear that they had a good opinion of themselves. Their conduct was scarcely respectful to me, though I suppose they did not mean to be disrespectful. After getting their department was highly incensed. They said not a word in reference to their respective missions, or public affairs abroad, and were so busily engaged in their conversation with each other that they gave me no opportunity to make a single enquiry. . . . I remarked to Buchanan that he had been absent from the city for a long time, and to have their heads turned."

You'll Sleep More Soundly If You Keep Healthy With Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills

The man or woman with a good appetite, sound digestion, and bowels working right, is never troubled much with sleeplessness. It is when the bowels become constipated and the liver and kidneys sluggish that the trouble begins.

Lazy liver and constipated bowels, which bring on biliousness, indigestion, headache, making sound, refreshing night's sleep impossible, the active kidneys allow the blood to become impure with uric acid, which causes rheumatism, with all its distressing tortures.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, taken regularly, induce sweet and refreshing sleep by keeping all these organs active and regular. The headaches disappear, the digestion becomes good again, the blood is purified and perfect health returns.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills have been a favorite household remedy in Canada for over half a century, and they are in daily use throughout the world. Being purely vegetable they are safe for young and old. Made by W. H. Comstock Co., Ltd., Brockville, Ont., and sold by all dealers at 25c. a box.

BOODY OF PATRICK O'NEILL RECOVERED

Was Inmate of Provincial Hospital and Committed Suicide Some Time Ago by Jumping From Suspension Bridge

The body of Patrick O'Neill, the inmate of the provincial asylum who on June 25 last ended his life by jumping over the Suspension bridge into the rushing falls, was found yesterday floating in the river at a point opposite the Dartington pulp and paper mills. The discovery was made by a man named Irvine, who happened to be sailing up the river at the time. After procuring assistance and having the body, which was in a badly decomposed state, removed from the river, he notified Dr. Kenney. The coroner gave instructions to have the remains removed to Beatty's undertaking rooms, where they are at present.

So terribly disfigured were the remains that it took some time before they were finally identified. It was at first thought that they were the remains of the unfortunate sailor who lost his life a short time ago in the harbor by falling off the deck of the schooner Lucia Porter. That the body is that of O'Neill there is not the slightest doubt, as positive identification was made by the provincial hospital authorities last evening. Dr. Kenney said last night that he would enquire a jury this morning and hold an inquest.

The story of O'Neill's suicide is well remembered, he having ended his life about 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in full view of several people. The deceased, who was a native of Rosignou county, had been an inmate of the provincial hospital for about five years. He was considered a harmless patient and was given much liberty. He is survived by one son, who resides in Rosignou county, and who was notified of the discovery last evening.

About ten thousand people yesterday visited the chapel car of the Catholic Church Extension Society, which was at the Union depot all day. The interior of the car, which is a very large one, was neatly fitted in the form of a miniature chapel, with pews, altar, pictures, candles, and almost everything which is to be found in the interior of the Catholic church. The car was in charge of Rev. Dr. Roche, who had brought it from Oregon to Montreal. The car is used in giving missions in sparsely settled parts of the country both to Catholics and non-Catholics.

H. Jason Jones, of Barbados, is at the Royal. He says that trade conditions in the southern islands are excellent, and the country is prosperous.
