

DEAD.
Holding a new and regnant sceptre,
The palest lily of the year,
She gave all glances that o'er swept her
A sudden smile, a sudden fear.
The smile to think the daylight shed
Upon so fair a thing terrestrial;
The tear because so soon she fled
On starry paths to the celestial.
—[Harper's Magazine.]

The greatest cataract in the world is the Falls of Niagara, where the water from the great upper lakes forms a river of three quarters of a mile in width, and then, being suddenly contracted, plunges over the rocks into two columns to the depth of one hundred and seventy feet.

The greatest cave in the world is the Mammoth Cave in Kentucky, where any one can make a voyage on the waters of a subterranean river, and catch fish without eyes.

The largest lake in the world is Lake Superior, which is truly an inland sea, being four hundred and thirty miles long and one thousand feet deep.

The mother of an unmanageable Irish boy thus excused him to the police: "Sure Dennis isn't a bad boy at all, but he is troubled with a roach of mind to the brain."

A poet has sent a poem to a local paper, in which he alludes to the dew as "the perspiration of the moon."
