Live News of The Moving Picture World

IS MILLION DOLLAR MYSTERY SOLVED?

The Finding of the Cabinet Containing the Fortune Has Great Significance.

The night is still, save for the twittering of a robin and the hoot of an owl, silence reigns supreme. Imbedded among the rocks that incline toward a brook, the old well stands plainly visible in the moonlight. The branches of the large elm tree that grows majestically near by, are quietly parted, a long pointed hand reaches out, bearing a large sized house cabinet on the cover of which can plainly be seen the setting and electrical effects that it has found a new hiding place. As mysteriously as he came, so the owner of the uncanny hand departs, with the result that the solution of the Million Dollar Mystery seems further away than ever. Far off in the Atlantic one of the crew of the good ship the Alice B. stares silently at the great moon in the heavens and wonders how that box, he was fortunate or unfortunate enough to lose from the anchor of the ship, just prior to the departure from the last port was taken from his keeping, and in a large costly apartment of a Fifth Avenue mansion the Countess Olga with the members of the Four Hundred, are seated around a table their thoughts on the mysterious disappearance of that same box from their keeping, and trying in vain to solve a burning problem. In the Hargrave's home the butler watches Florence and Norton until at an opportune moment he can play the latter, and the follower of the Million Dollar Mystery is inclined to wonder, what will happen next. The manner in which the box was found, and the incidents that led up to its being placed in the well will be pictured in the twelfth chapter of the Thanhouser serial, "The Elusive Treasure Box" at the Unique next Tuesday.

Next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the Lyric will present the European novelty illusion act of Previtt and Merrill. Artistic posing is included in their program, and the entire act is dressed in special stage fixtures. The bill of pictures for the latter part of the week will consist of "A Song at Twilight," a Majestic home drama, and a Keystone farce, "The Great Toe Mystery."

PICTURE PLAYERS GIVE TO CHARITY

Mutual Stars seen in Wild West Show in Staten Island.

James Durkin's company of Thanhouser-Mutual players recently gave a wild west show in Staten Island, a touch of western life. Durkin has been engaged in the touring riding and shooting as they would to a corncob fire.

But after the scenes had been made and the company was preparing to go home these same folk got together and prevailed upon Durkin to hold a wild west show. So he and Morris Foster, Harry Hall and David C. Thompson set up a programme, held a show and turned the receipts over to a local charity.

It probably is the first time that motion picture actors engaged in making a movie have intentionally amused a large colony, charged admission for the amusement, and the receipts donated the proceeds to a local institution.

A real wireless telephone plant is introduced in "The Wireless Voice," a two reel Bellamy drama, now being produced by Fred A. Kelsey at the Mutual studios in Los Angeles. The complete workings of a wireless telephone outfit are realistically shown in this production, together with a gripping love story in which Irene Hunt, Frank Bennett and Vester Perry are the principals. "The Wireless Voice" will be released by the Reliance as part of the Mutual programme.

UNIQUE AND LYRIC BILLS NEXT WEEK

Budget of Holiday Numbers for the Charlotte Street Theatres.

Holiday specials will rule in the Thanksgiving Day program at the Lyric the first of the week. The vaudeville bill will be supplied by Myers and Ford in singing and talking specialties with Jimmie Cowper in black face fun. In the picture department, the Weekly News with a two-part drama, "Shorty in Mexico," will hold feature position.

The holiday bill of fare at the Unique will include the twelfth chapter of the Million Dollar Mystery, "The Elusive Treasure Box," which is claimed to be a budget of surprises. Comedy gals will be found in the two part Keystone fun maker, "The Alarm," and a pretty study of nature will be offered in "The North American Timber Trade."

Next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the Lyric will present the European novelty illusion act of Previtt and Merrill. Artistic posing is included in their program, and the entire act is dressed in special stage fixtures. The bill of pictures for the latter part of the week will consist of "A Song at Twilight," a Majestic home drama, and a Keystone farce, "The Great Toe Mystery."

Next Friday and Saturday in the showing of the two part Kay Baderly, and "The Elusive Treasure Box," scenes showing how does are pounded in the larger cities will be presented making this feature a combination of education and amusement as the story itself is a decidedly interesting one.

"Mariel," said the old gentleman sharply, "that young man you had in the drawing room last night is dull of comprehension. All I had to do was to say to him, 'The other chap remained too late, and they would take the hint and depart. Did this one say anything when I coughed last night?' 'Yes,' replied his beautiful daughter. 'He said the next time he called he was going to bring you some cough drops.'"

PATRIOTIC HITS AT THE LYRIC

"It's a Long Way to Tipperary" with all the up-to-date lighting effects.

A decidedly pretty novelty and a distinct departure from anything seen in local amusement circles for some time is being presented at the Lyric Theatre in today's program. This is a special rendition of the popular British marching song, "It's a Long Way to Tipperary." The song is nicely handled by Miss Hinckley of the vaudeville team of Kendall and Hinckley, whose sweet voice is heard to excellent advantage in this number. The stage setting and electrical effects are most spectacular and pretty. Two large bars of lights, one red, the other blue, form an angled arch, over which is a painting of His Majesty the King set between the French and Russian flags surmounted by a large Union Jack. Beneath this is a large lion set on top of the British flag, and on either side are two lighted shamrocks.

On either side of the stage mounted half way to the ceiling are two more shamrocks in green and gold set off with tiny electric bulbs giving a very pleasing effect. The greatest enthusiasm has been aroused by the audiences at each showing of the setting and apart from the other excellent features on the program is alone worth going to see. The costume worn by Miss Hinckley also calls for much praise. It is a pretty creation of soft pink satin, overdressed with a bodice of heavy Irish lace, in which is set sparkling brilliants. This in turn is set off with a dull shade of pea green. The dress was designed for this special occasion.

Miss Hinckley also offered a pleasing diversion by singing Mabel Godfrey's latest flirtation song, "Just a Whistling." It is a bright catchy number and with the incidental whistling of the talented pianist of the Lyric makes a very dainty and odd offering. Miss Godfrey adds another triumph to her already long list in the submitting of this effort and leaves no room for doubt as to her ability as a song writer and composer.

Mr. Kendall is appearing in a black face character and is repeating the success he attained last week. Kendall and Hinckley are two of the most clever artists the Lyric has presented in some time, and the fact that city houses have ruled since the opening of their return engagement, patrons evidently appreciate the privilege accorded them by the management in being able to hear this clever vaudeville team again. They have won a high place in the minds of local theatre goers and will be welcomed back at any future time.

BACK TO NATURE.

Margaria Fischer, star of the Beauty-Mutual motion pictures, usually is seen in evening garb or fashionable morning or afternoon attire. She is so very pretty that her personality is associated with the delicate tints of life rather than its rigidity. But she has a habit of doing the unexpected and doing it so well that one suspects that, after all, it is just what one had expected.

Now her pretty pink arms are scratched and her ankles and toes are scarred because Harry Pollard, director of the Beauty-Mutual Company, has staged a one-reel picture in which Miss Fischer appears as a child of the rocky waste. Under the name of "Nedra," which gives the play its title, the charming little woman plays opposite Mr. Pollard, with Joseph Harris as an old man of the mountains.

When she returned to the calm and comparative ease of the Santa Barbara studies Miss Fischer vowed that whatever back to nature work she henceforward would do would be done in a Persian garden or on a terraced lawn or on one of those million dollar play toys that superlatively are known as country estates. No more barefoot mountain work for her!

EUROPEAN PICTURES AT GEM THEATRE

Next week's features for the Waterloo Street Theatre of intense interest.

When her sweetheart, Lieut. Gibson turned away from her upon seeing her in the garb of a cabaret dancer in a public cafe, Lucille Love became discouraged. Still she roused herself and determined to do her best to outwit her enemy Loubegue and secure possession of important documents relative to her father's interests, which he controlled. It was in trying to get these that she was arrested through an error in police orders and taken to prison. She was greatly surprised in being released through orders of Loubegue, but realizes the significance of his move later. This is in brief a partial synopsis of the fourteenth chapter of "Lucille Love" to be shown at the Gem Theatre on Monday and Tuesday next, heading a big holiday programme. There is only one further instalment of this splendid series, so that all who have been following the chapters should endeavor to see the last two.

A few fleeting glimpses of affairs in troubled Europe are presented in the Selig-Hearst News pictorial for Wednesday and Thursday, among the features to be shown being "Belgian Refugees enjoying British Hospitality," "Germans Entering Brussels," German Artillery in Belgian Capital, and other interesting scenes. For the same show there is a thrilling two-part drama of the Canadian Nor' West "The Wilderness Trail" presented with a talented cast, and showing the exciting adventures of the French-Canadian pioneers in that vast prairie. A captivating story of the sacrifice made by a woman in love is told most cleverly in a two-part Essanay feature "The Chasm" to be presented on Friday and Saturday. It is a dramatic love story with a novel theme, in which the shallowness of the man's love is compared to the worth of the woman's.

PARISH INSTITUTE FOR TEACHERS FORMED AT SACKVILLE

Special to The Standard.
Sackville, N. B., Oct. 9.—One of the most successful institutes ever held in Westmorland County was concluded this afternoon when the greater number of visiting teachers returned to their homes. The morning session was taken up with a very interesting paper which was read and prepared by Miss E. Robinson, editor of the Educational Review, after which Inspector O'Brien addressed the meeting.

The afternoon session was not as well attended as might be desired, as many teachers wished to reach their homes in the evening. The session was a most profitable one as many interesting talks were given by visiting teachers. The program called for a divided institute, but owing to the absence of some of the teachers this course was not pursued. The election of officers for the ensuing year was dispensed with and at the conclusion a Sackville Parish Institute was formed with the hope that the teachers will set together more frequently and have a freer exchange of ideas.

Prices 75c, 50c and 25c
