It was in the handwriting of O'Connor Silgo and ran as follows: "Whereas we are certified that the unexpected insurrection did arise in defence of our good faith and holy Mother, the Catholic Roman Church, and of his Majesty's prerogative Royal, both which being stately intended by the Protestants of England and Ireland to be abolished, therefore I, Teig O'Connor Silgo, Colonel of the Irish Regiment for the County of Sligo, do hereby command all the inhabitants of the parish of Calry, as you are naturally obliged to obey the Roman Church, to pay or cause to be paid unto Father Connor O'Hart, Pastour of the said parish, all such duties and other duties as he can find out were impayed unto the former Minister of the said parish, and in falling hereof I promise to assist him as I best can, as witness my hand this 17th of January."

THE LATEST DYNAMITE HOAX. It was known that a certain smart U. S. young man had studied chemistry for six months; had ordered a scouted hand-bag and mailed for England. It was subsequently ascertained that he had made several visits to a clock and watch maker before leaving. The cable was used to cause his arrest on arrival, and a trio of metaphysicians were summoned to open the bag, which, in view of probabilities, were regarded as patriotic heroes of the highest order. The official verdict reported 28 samples of Johnston's Fluid, 10,000 circulars, a shirt collar, and a box of tooth-picks.—Eulit Budget.

HOSSFORD'S ACID PHOSPHATE IS IMPAIRED NERVE FUNCTION. Dr. C. A. FERNALD, Boston, Mass., says: "I have used it in cases of impaired nerve function, with beneficial results, especially in cases where the system is affected by the toxic action of tobacco."

A CASE MUCH TALKED OF. The case of Mr. John Morrison, of St. Ann's, N. S., who was afflicted with a serious dropsical disease of the kidneys. The best medical aid having failed, his life was despaired of. Two bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters cured him. His statement is vouched for by J. D. McLeod, J. P., who knew of his condition. The cure is considered marvellous in his town.

THE FALSE PROPHET. He who prophesies falsely of the weather, leaves off his flannels and overshoes, and catches cold, is indeed unwise. If you follow this false prophet, your reason lies in taking Haggard's Pectoral Balm. It is the best cough cure and the safest throat and lung remedy known to medical science.

SOBE THROAT. This common and painful affection may be readily cured by the prompt application of Haggard's Yellow Oil, taking it internally at the same time according to directions. In croup, asthma, colds, swollen glands, rheumatism and other painful diseases it is equally efficacious.

MUCH IN A LITTLE. Many proprietary medicines, if they cure at all, require such a large quantity to produce effect that it makes them very uncertain and expensive remedies. Not so with Burdock Blood Bitters. It is highly concentrated, and for all diseases of blood, liver and kidneys, one or two bottles will cure more than gallons of the weak mixtures usually sold. Send for facts and figures.

FOR COUGHS AND COLDS. Use ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM. Relief is warranted or money refunded. See advertisement.

DYNAMITE AGAIN? No blowing up when a well known politician says that Fruit Bitters, with Liver Pills, cured him of Liver Complaint. Druggists sell at 75c.

THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION. LONDON, April 10.—Mr. John Pender, M. P., to-day called Mr. Ernest Wiman, New York, in response to his request that the associated Atlantic cable companies would pass free of charge the social messages of the distinguished delegates attending the meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science, to be held in Montreal during the coming summer. The meeting at Montreal is looked forward to with much interest, as being the first meeting of the association held outside of Europe.

A BRILLIANT WEDDING. MARRIAGE IN PARIS OF PRINCE PONIAKOWSKI TO MISS GODDARD. PARIS, April 8.—The marriage of Prince Carlo Poniatowski to Miss Maud Ely Goddard yesterday was the great social event of the week. The Protestant ceremony was solemnized in the American Episcopal Church, Rue Bayard. The Catholic ceremony occurred immediately afterward, in the church of St. Pierre de Chailot. The witnesses for the bride were Minister Morton and Colonel Ritchie, and for the bridegroom Count de Montequite and Count Walewski. At the church of St. Pierre, in consequence of the Lenten season, and of the fact that the marriage was a mixed one, the blessing of the ring and the matrimonial service were conducted in the sacristy. The parish priest, who assisted as a witness according to the decrees of the Council of Trent, pronounced the blessing, after which the ring was placed on the bride's finger, and a gold coin, symbolic of the transfer of all his worldly endowments to his wife, was handed to the bride. The Mass was then celebrated at the high altar, and Mlle. Pepin Malvezzi, one of the most promising pupils of the famous Marchesi, sang the "Ave Maria" and "O Salutaris." The Mass was composed by the late Prince Joseph Poniatowski, the Maestro and grandfather of the bridegroom. THE TOILET OF THE BRIDE consisted of a dress of raised velvet freize upon white satin ground, a petticoat richly worked with seed pearls, a bouquet of orange blossoms at the side of the skirt and another cluster looping up the train of the petticoat. She wore a necklace of a triple row of pearls fastened with a diamond snap without pendant, the gift of the bridegroom, a tulle veil, and a bridal wreath of orange blossoms. Among the presents were a diamond necklace from the mother of Prince Poniatowski, a corbeille, composed of white and blue forget-me-nots forming upon the lid of a coronet of panicles, a diamond necklace with interlaced diamond chain. THE HAPPY COUPLE left Paris by the mail train at a quarter to eight p.m., en route, after a short stay in England, for the United States. The name of Poniatowski is one of the most popular in Paris. Besides the glorious annals of the family in Poland, three generations of Poniatowskis have been identified with the military feats of France, and have scored most brilliant social triumphs.

A TRAGIC EVENT. A FATHER'S DESPAIR AND SELF-INFLICTED DEATH — HIS SON'S FINAL RESCUE—TOO LATE TO SAVE HIS PARENT. The graphic occurrence that is described below is one of the most remarkable episodes in the domestic history of America. It is absolute truth which can be verified. The inhabitants of the pleasant town of Cortland, N.Y., were shocked one morning by the announcement that Mr. Olmstead Binge, one of their most prominent citizens, had committed suicide. The news spread rapidly and aroused the entire neighborhood where Mr. Binge was so well and favorably known. At first it seemed impossible that any one so quiet and domestic could do so rash a deed, and the enquiry was heard on every side as to the cause. The facts as developed on investigation, proved to be as follows: Mr. Binge was domestic in his tastes and took the greatest enjoyment in the society of his children and pride in their development. And indeed he had good reason to be proud, for they gave promise of long lives of success and usefulness. But an evil day came. His youngest son, William, began to show signs of an early decay. He felt unusually tired each day, and would sometimes sleep the entire afternoon if permitted to do so. His head pained him, not acutely, but with a dull, heavy feeling. There was a sinking sensation in the pit of his stomach. He lost all relish for food and much of his interest for things about him. He tried manfully to overcome these feelings, but they seemed stronger than his will. He began to lose flesh rapidly. The father became alarmed and consulted physicians as to the cause of his son's illness, but they were unable to explain. Finally severe sores broke out on his arms and he was taken to Buffalo, where a painful operation was performed, resulting in the loss of much blood, but affording little relief. The young man retreated home and a council of physicians was called. After an exhaustive examination they declared there was no hope of final recovery and that he must die within a very few days. To describe the agony which this announcement caused the father would be impossible. His mind failed to grasp its full meaning at first; then finally seemed to comprehend it, but the load was too great. In an agony of frenzy he seized a knife and took his own life, preferring death rather than to survive his idolized son. At that time William Binge was too weak to know what was transpiring. His face had turned black his breath ceased entirely at times and his friends waited for his death believing that the fiend Bright's disease of the kidneys, from which he was suffering, could not be removed. In this supreme moment William's sister came forward and declared she would make a final attempt to save her brother. The doctors interposed, assuring her it was useless and that she would only hasten the end by the means she proposed to employ. But she was firm, and putting all back approached her brother's side and administered a remedy which she fortunately had on hand. Within an hour he seemed more easy, and before the day was over showed signs of decided improvement. These favorable signs continued, and to-day William B. Binge is well, having been virtually raised from the dead through the marvellous power of Warner's Safe Cure, as can be readily verified by any citizen of Cortland. Any one who reflects upon the facts above described must have a feeling of sadness. The father, dead by his own hand, supposing his son's recovery to be impossible; the son restored to health to mourn the loss of his father and the agonized relatives with a memory of sadness to forever darken their lives. Had Olmstead Binge known that his son could recover he would to-day be alive and happy, but the facts which turned his brain and caused him to commit suicide were such as any one would accept as true. However sad this case may be, the truth remains that thousands of people are at this moment in as great actual peril as William Binge and in as great danger of causing misery if not death to their friends. Liver and kidney diseases are become the most common and most dangerous of any or all modern complaints. They are the most deceptive in their beginnings and horrible in their final stages. They are far more deceptive than Consumption, and can rarely be detected even by skillful physicians unless a microscopic analysis be resorted to, and few doctors understand how to do this. Their slightest approach, or possibility of approach should strike terror to the one who is threatened as well as to all his or her friends. These diseases have no distinct symptoms, but come in the form of lassitude, loss of appetite, aching muscles and joints, dull headaches, pains in the back, stomach and chest, some stomach, recurring signs of cold, irregular pulsations of the heart and frequent dizziness. If neglected these symptoms are certain to run into chronic kidney and liver or Bright's disease, from which there is sure to be a great amount of agony and only one means of escape, which is by the use of Warner's Safe Cure. The importance of taking this great remedy upon the slightest appearance of any of the above symptoms cannot be too strongly impressed upon the minds of all readers who desire to escape death and pain and prolong life with all its pleasures and blessings.

A NIAGARA FALLS TRAGEDY. NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 10.—Thomas Vedder and N. B. Pierson drove on Goat Island about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. As they had not returned at a late hour last night search was made for them, and about two o'clock this morning Mr. Pierson's body was found at Luna Island. His head and part of his body were in the water, and 10 feet from him Vedder's clothes were found lying on the ice. An examination of Pierson's body showed that he had been shot through the head, the ball entering behind the right ear and coming out on the forehead just over the left eye. The horse and buggy was found tied to a tree on Goat Island, but no trace of Vedder could be discovered. It is supposed the two men, who are brothers-in-law, had an altercation on the island and in a passion Vedder shot Pierson and to escape justice committed suicide by jumping into the rapids. As his body has no doubt gone over the American falls there is no possibility of finding it until the ice breaks away. Pierson and Vedder were respectable citizens of Suspension Bridge, N.Y., and well known all through the country, the latter being a wholesale grocer. The sad affair has cast a gloom all over the country and no true verdict of the affair can be given. Pierson's body is now lying at an undertaker's awaiting the coroner's inquest.

IMPENDING ORISIS IN CUBA. LONDON, April 10.—The Times Madrid despatch says: "Many signs of a serious economical crisis in Cuba are daily increasing. The continuous fall in the price of sugar is bringing ruin and disaster, and the radical measures of relief are adopted the Cubans will be driven to disastrous courses."
