

Police occupy campus . . .Berkeley revolting again

BERKELEY (CPS/CUP)—Quick, repressive action by University of California (Berkeley) administration officials seems to have forestalled violent student revolt for the moment.

Student action may pick up this week as student leaders called a general strike for Monday. The strike call comes in the wake of major protests that resulted in over 200 arrests. Over 3,000 students voted for the strike at a general meeting Monday.

Thursday the campus was virtually occupied by 800 Berkeley police called by the administration to prevent further student occupation of university buildings.

The students are demanding:

—credit for "social Analysis 139X", the experimental course on racism in which Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver is lecturing.

—that the university regents rescind their Sept. 20 resolution, which denied credit for any course in which outside lecturers appeared more than once (aimed at Cleaver) and called for censorship of campus dramatic productions.

—an end to university racism and implementation of demands by the American Federation of Teachers (AFT) for non-discriminatory hiring practices and admissions.

—amnesty, including no university discipline and a dropping of court charges, for the 120 students and one professor arrested at Tuesday's non-violent sit-in at Sproul Hall and for the 76 persons arrested early Thursday morning after holding Moses Hall for 16 hours.

The key to the effectiveness may be that AFT, which includes about half the campus' 800 teaching assistants. Most of them participated in a class boycott Thursday and Friday according to the union's president, and will meet Monday evening to consider going on strike.

The chances for amnesty seem slim. Roger Heyns, chancellor of the Berkeley campus, has placed all those who barricaded themselves inside Moses Hall on interim suspension, and will recommend to the student faculty committee on student conduct that they be kicked out of school. Heyns has made no recommendation for action against the persons who sat in at Sproul Hall.

He also said all appropriate steps would be taken against each person arrested to recover the full amount of property damages and expenses suffered by the university.

Further militant action and arrests seem unlikely.

The most militant of the students, those who took over Moses Hall, are almost all still in jail with bail set at $1,650. The more moderate leaders who sat in at Sproul Hall are all out of jail, most of them having been fined $125 and given suspended sentences of 30 days.

Although a few students, mainly from Students for a Democratic Society, are urging further take-overs, the majority of those involved in the movement (some 4,000) are devoting themselves to the strike. Students participating in a hastily called boycott Thursday and Friday either didn't go to classes or held discussions in class about the issues involved. They plan a full strike beginning Monday in which they will not attend classes at all until their demands are met.

DICK GREGORY—noted American civil rights leader and comedian will be visiting our campus November 18 as the first Forums Committee presentation this year.
