Canada's poetry in healthy state of flux-Smith

This year, Dal has a poet in residence in the person of A. J. M. Smith, a noted Canadian poet and critic who has left his duties at Michigan State University in order to visit our campus for a year. This is Dr. Smith's first lengthy sojourn in the Maritimes.

A native of Montreal, Dr. Smith spent his undergraduate days at McGill before going on to further study at the University of Edinburgh in Scotland. Since 1929, he has been a teacher, sharing his knowledge and talents with many students. Although he has worked almost exclusively in American universities, most of his verse has been published in Canada.

Dr. Smith feels that Canadian poetry is now in a healthy and exciting state of flux. Such dynamic men as Irving Layton, Leonard Cohen, Alfred Purdy and Earle Birney, as well as many younger poets who are not yet well-known, are adding greatly to Canadian

It was as editor of the supplement to the McGill Daily that Dr. Smith began to write and publish poetry and criticism. During this period there was very little encouragement for Canadian poets, especially young ones.

Some of Dr. Smith's better known works are NEWS OF THE PHOENIX and A SORT OF ECSTASY. He is also the editor of THE OXFORD BOOK OF CANADIAN VERSE. A new project is the soon to be published BOOK OF MODERN CANADIAN VERSE, which includes work by both English and French Canadians, in their respec-

The duties of a poet in residence are indefinite. Very generally, they include meeting students, critizing their work, and giving readings of his poetry, to say nothing of the lecture time spent instilling an appreciation of the Augustan Poets in undergraduates saturated with Romanticism.

Recent activities include a visit to his old alma mater, McGill, for poetry reading, and another reading for the Nova Scotia Poetry Society in Halifax, where his work is much appreciated.

Dr. Smith's advice to students who write poetry is to soak in poetry and living. Participate as fully as possible, particularly in left-wing activities. However, never forget that poetry is serious and difficult work.

(Ed. note) Would-be poets who want to start soaking will find Dr. Smith's works available in the Library.)

Mme. Varro's concert enjoyable but lacked IN LATEST DAL REVIEW support it deserved

Last week's symphony concert featured Marie Aimee Varro, the well known pianist now residing in Halifax. Herbusband, Dr. Treil, is a member of the French department here at Dalhousie. Mme. Varro had thrilled audiences throughout Europe since her student days with the noted Emil von Sauer, a former pupil of Liszt.

Mme. Varro performed Beethoven's fifth piano concerto "The Emperor". In general it was an enjoyable performance but again one comes back to the same old cry -- the Symphony did not always give the guest artist the support deserved.

The piano interpretation was interesting; the pianissimo sections were superb. However, the orchestra and soloist did not always coincide and consequently the over-all effect was lost. However it is terribly difficult to perform this concerto without some criticism, since one can hear it so often played flawlessly on records and on the radio. Yet is was a thrill to hear this live con-

The Symphony itself performed two other selections. The first was Haydn's incidental music to IL DISTRATTO. The orchestra had not really awakened to the fact that it was their turn to play -for the piece lacked the "vim" and "vigour" that it generally ires. However the wind section, as usual, held the work to-

Gounod's symphony in D major was the last selection of the evening. Here the symphony played with color and life and ended off the evening excellently. The strings were well blended, the French horns showed amazing ability -- the wind section was again a tower of strength!

The February 1st concert featured Israeli cellist Talmon Hertz in a performance of Saint-Saen's cello concerto No. 1. The program included the first Canadian performance of Symphony No. 2 C major by Franz Benvald, recently discovered 19th Century

Dalhousie co-ed Joan Robb went to Africa last summer with a contingent of Canadian students, visited 22 countries and acquired some valuable insight into the progress of the continent's developing nations This is part 2

Students build youth camp near Monrovia For Operation Crossroads Africa, the participating students, in part by US/AID, established rapport among our-overwhelmingly kind to us, from pick, shovel, carry concrete Independence Day ball (the participating students, in part by interested individuals selves and with the workers, the beginning of our visit to the blocks, and pour concrete -- got invitations to THE divided into small groups.

Our group, Liberia II, numdians, five Americans, and three Liberians. When we met at ministration and recreation. Rutgers, before going to Africa, the only contact we had previously had was by mail - and briefly. After two months of living toeach other's security in strange surroundings, of learning to acto say good-bye.

Crossroads groups are purposely heterogeneous; ours consisted of one of Catholic background, one of Jewish, one of Baptist, one of Presbyterian, one of Brethren, one of Lutheran, and one a daughter of United Church missionaries to Korea (me). One was Negro, six white. Academic interests ranged through English, philosophy, so- slow and rather discouraging, as ing some of the labor. Materials ing signs of tan, and, gradually in Monrovia, and in part out of the limited funds of the Y. The building, a 40' by 60', by 13' bered ten altogether: two Cana- concrete block affair, would serve for the time being for ad-

We started by collecting rocks Liberian people as a whole were that the girls DID swing the to go into the foundation -- a back-breaking, monotonous job gether night and day, of being in the tropical sun to which we were still unaccustomed. After more digging on the foundacept both the faults and assets tion, we discovered that we had of everyone, it was very difficult to work on the road: the combination of the seasonal rains and the muddy soil had made it impassible to the vehicles bringing our needed supplies. We spent several days draining mud-holes, filling them in with rocks, and laying "corduroy roads" out of poles which the men and the Liberian workers cut out of the Progress in the beginning was ciology, economics, African stu- we could see little evidence of dies, business, and mechanical our long and wearing hours of labor. We were getting into con-Our project was the construc- dition, however, by carrying pans tion of the first building of a of rocks, sand, gravel, and con-YMCA camp, about 45 miles crete on our heads, digging with northeast of Monrovia. This was heavy tools, bending, lifting, even a project of their Y's Men's by walking the ten minutes' hike Club, and Crossroads was pro- up from the car every day to viding the impetus by volunteer- the worksite. We were also show-tried, and that we really did in general. want to be friends. In fact, the

They were really quite friend- end, village people and city of- much to the wonderment of the ly, and soon lost their air of ficials alike; I think all in our sixteen local workers who were quiet amusement and suspicion group found an increased faith hired to work with us on the as they realized that we were in humanity. We learned a little job, for while Liberian women there to work in earnest, that we more about living with people do work hard, this was strictly men's work. They thought we I pause to emphasize the fact were crazy to leave our utopian society in North America in the first place, and when we tried to explain that we were university students and had PAID, were not BEING PAID, to come here and learn first-hand about Africa, they were quite impressed -although I'm sure they never completely understood. Several of the workers became good friends, and used to visit our house in the evenings or on Sundays when we were not out

> July 26 is Independence Day in Liberia. (The country was founded by settlers of the Amer- ities, stores and markets, a hydro ican Colonisation Society, freed plant, just everything. slaves who went back to West Africa to set up their own nation on the principles which guided tapper who has charge of 40 the founding of the United States.) trees goes out and cuts a 1/1 We took a holiday of four days inch strip diagonally down the from each other and the work. which collects it. Later in the We each stayed in different Liberian homes, though we got together to go to the parade and oration, to shop, to go to the shipping.

got invitations to THE officia ball -- "President and Mrs William V.S. Tubman request the honor of your presence. . .. -- but needless to say had not tucked formal gowns into our jammed, 60-pound suitcases).

We also had excursions in Daisy (she had already been resurrected from retirement for our service, and we drove her right back to the scrap heap), among them a trip to the Firestone rubber plantation. Rubber is one of the main products of Liberia and Firestone's 12,000,000 tree plantation is the largest single plantation in the world. The place is a fascinating complex, an entirely self-contained community. There are about 50,000 employees and dependents living on the plantation, and they have provided for them housing, schooling, medical care, recreational facil-

We saw how, each morning, to go to the city and see the bark of each tree to allow the celebrations, and also to get away white latex to flow into the cup day all the latex is collected and taken to a plant where it is

ACCENT ON HISTORY

Literature, history and social sciences are featured in the latest issue of the Dalhousie Review, a quarterly containing articles of interest to Nova Scotians and published by Dalhousie University

In addition to a short story, verse and book reviews the publication also includes the following feature articles: Australia, Asia and World Security, by Sir Kenneth Bailey; The Founding of Universities in Nova Scotia, by Gerald T. Rimmington; A Scottish Dominie in Early Nova Scotia, by Grace Tomkinson; George Bernard Shaw and the Atonement, by R.D. McKinley; The Lawless Clan: The Armstrongs, by James E. Rutledge.

Inquiries for single copies or annual subscriptions of the Review can be made by contacting Mrs. V. Wilson, Room 133, Arts and Administration (telephone 429-1420, local 620).

Physics prof. explores religion questions he considers relevant

Third in a series of informal to a discussion of this type--what relationship between science and them?

Dr. Ravi Ravindra, professor saying that any knowledge outside of physics at Dal, led the discus-

He gave a brief intorduction to the hypothetical question of religion versus science and the dialogue proceeded from there to a general discussion of science and religious dialogues was held is science, what is religion, and January 31. The subject was the what is the relationship between He quoted Bertrand Russell as the realm of science is incomprehensible. He also discussed the view taken by Albert Camus that all scientific knowledge is of profound indifference to theology. The speech was interrupted at this point because there were varying opinions as to what science is -- whether it is all knowledge or just knowledge concerned with a "subject-object" relationship. It was finally more or less agreed that there is something beyond the realm of science Council members were given international problems." Each political spectrum from left to of which man can be aware. Avoiding the term "mysticism", Police action may be taken by Ravindra called this experience is not rational that does not mean

he will jump off a bridge, his rational knowledge may interfere with his visionary experience, He explained that our mind can only express objects in the form of space and time and as long a we are bound in our language and symbols, we will only express religion in these terms.

Ravindra's views were argued by Wayne Hanky, President of King's and graduate student in Classics. He said that this experience could be due to psychological factors, to a chemical imbalance, or could be the work of the devil. If the former two posutulations are true, then religious experience could only be defined in scientific terms. He added that if no knowledge is gained from this type of experience, then it is impossible to act on it. Also, there He added that although religion is no evidence that everyone is

Centennial Gallery opens

37 local artists featured

Gallery was opened on February took place at 8:30 p.m. in the new

Nova Scotia's Centennial Art the Federal Government.

The paintings, drawings and 1 by the Lieutenant Governor, sculptures on display are those Honourable Henry Pool MacKeen that were recently selected by before two hundred invited artists Lawren Harris and Alexander Colville for this first of two The ribbon cutting ceremony Centennial Art Exhibitions.

The thirty-seven pictures and gallery which is located at the one work of sculpture on display Halifax Citadel, Number 2 Pow- were selected from one hundred der Room. Special guests at the and ten entries all original and opening included Premier R.L. recent works of Nova Scotia ar-Stanfield; Minister of National tists.

on the Canadian Union of Students he said.

gress held at Halifax last Fall. need a national voice.

commented on the resolutions

He said some of the resolutions

'world-citizen' student.

Allan J. MacEachen representing in the gallery during the month of from 10 April to 14 May a collections.

zens of the world, concerned with delegation represented the entire tion of work from the Museum of May the Nova Scotia College of

The CUS branch at Dalhousie is

Dunlop questions CUS policy

Art Students Exhibiton. The Second Centenary Exhibi- is free to all students. tion will be on show from 1 June February following which they on tour to centres within Nova seminar of Second Century Week film's maker on the grounds will go on tour throughout the Scotia. During the period of Au-Province. During June and July gust 1 to October 30 the Nationthere will be a second Centenary al Art Gallery Exhibition will be would best represent Dalhousie an in bed with two men was Exhibition which, following its on display. There are also plans and contribute the most when they obscene. showing here, will also go on tour. being made for a National Forces return. While the Centenary Exhibi- Exhibition with tentative dates for tions are on tour a number of the first half of September. From different exhibits will be on dis- November to the end of the year play at the gallery. From March the permanent Centenary Collec-1 - 19 Childrens' Micmac Art tion will be on display. This col-Glooscap Art and Posters, from lection will be made up of pictures lish, was chosen for the Literary to the MFB had been signed by, Health and Welfare, Honourable These works of art will remain Nova Scotia Society of Artists, from the First and Second Cen- Arts was chosen for the Film rector John Hofsess.

an opportunity to hear a few words university decides its own policy, right.

at Monday evening's meeting. Quebec's equivalent to CUS, the Librarian in the future against man's sensitivity to something takes the latter view. those who have overdue books and Dunlop said that the future of have received notices. made at the National CUS con- CUS was valid because students

President, John Young said he was in complete sympathy with He asked what issues would be this and "would help the Liwere pretty "far-fetched" and raised by our student council now brarian phone the police." He were representative at the Activ- that the SUB is settled and student said its necessary in order to University Film Board president ist-Syndicalyst trend of the council elections are in the offing. preserve order.

The question said Dunlop was right to request the "centre" in ver D'S must be in by February ned at a six-hour student council "are we going to stick to the nar- their views said Dunlop. At the 7. Each applicant must have two meeting Friday. row student framework or be citi- recent conference last fall the nominations. Application forms can be picked up at the Council by former McMaster student John Fine Art, and from 15 May to 31 Banquet and Ball has been set for ronto Morality Squad demanded March 4th, at the Lord Nelson to see the film while it was Hotel. This ball, last of the year at a Toronto processing labora-

Appointments of delegates to to 31 July at which time it will go the political, literary and film might lay charges against the Bunny Dunlop, Arts, were chosen. Linda Gillingwater, M.A. Eng- that 50 per cent of bills directed

Ban student film, Black Zero

Peter Rowe was axed and a Applications for Gold and Sil- controversial student movie ban- of which is still in the bank.

The film, Black Zero, directed Hofsess received somewhat no-The date for the Student Union torious recognition when the Totory two weeks ago.

The morality squad said it were made by council members. that an eight-minute segment

However, no further action was Out of ten candidates for the taken until Council met to discuss political seminar Sandy Mac- the McMaster Film Board and Donald, Nursing Science, and its much publicized production. It was discovered that more

21 March to 9 April works by the which the gallery will purchase seminar and John Chatterton, or adressed to, Black Zero di-

Furthermore, the film had in-

HAMILTON (CUP) - McMaster curred a debt of $1,000 although authority in any student organizathe MFB's total budget for the tion. year was less than $300, most

> Rowe, however, was not fired for allowing Hofsess to exceed the budget, but for violating a council by-law which prohibits non-students from having signing

Since council has forbidden that

Black Zero be shown until all bills are paid, Daryl Duke, producer of CBC's Sunday has been forced to cancel the planned Sunday-night showing of the film

Phantom phoner swindles $200

Delegates were chosen who showing a partially-draped wom- been defrauded of $200 by unknown person or persons posing as representative of their college or faculty offices, U of T Police

An unidentified person telephoned each student, saying he was calling from his faculty dean's office, Chief J. B. West said. The caller asked the students for information concerning his bank account saying he needed the information to clarify the student's records or for the student to obtain a loan, Mr. West said. The caller then went to the student's bank and made out withdrawal slips on his account. Toronto Metro police are still pressing the investigation for Chatterton: at the cinema...

... Golding's Lord of the Flies Keen feeling for the "poetic" in this conservative film season -- consistently they have and says it with finality. shown different and sometimes avant-garde films. Not always because they wanted to, perhaps, as Ibelieve they have often ordered a run-of-the-mill standard and at the last minute, been forced to substitute a film of more than passing interest and complexity.

Lord of the Flies may be conservative, but it is conservative with a keen feeling for the poetic in standard film procedures. Take the use of the fadeout, for example, as a bridge between

I saw Lord of the Flies, from a maudlin, over-heightened sense the novel by William Golding, at of drama. In this film it comes It comes as a sigh from the di-The other night's excursion rector -- a sequence is finished, was one of the more conservative dead; the unobtrusive but effecplunges, Tech. has made into the tive fade says that a cycle in film exhibition business this last the film's organic rhythm is over,

This meaning for the fadeout is brought about quite simply. All it needs is a sense of taste on the director's part, by which he can make the fade just the right length, and fit it into just the right place, so that it closes the action as firmly as a coffin lid, without sentimentally saying, "O Woe, look what's coming next for these poor wretches." It is in this way that the film is conservative without being just hackwork.

scenes -- usually it accompanies English schoolboys who are being like "that's mine, you can't take the Beast is a mythical taking on served up at the Dalhousie Film bers will prevent films from be- geois morality, and giving the evacuated from a nuclear war. it' are meaningless, and finally Their plane crashes and they are foreign. the Tech. Film Society the other quite calmly, and makes its point marooned far from any war, on night. I have seen few better with greater sureness of purpose. The kids start a religion based on appearing a mythical Beast story, incidentally, is told very that one of the "littluns" sees expressively by means of still somewhere. When one of the boys, photographs and music, although the maximum effectiveness is Simon, finds out that the Beast even so not fully milked from this is only an airplane pilot's corpse chosen by vote. The lucky candi- course of a spontaneous appeasedate comes from the larger of ment ritual that he interrupts. the two groups of boys from the They think he is the Beast, and plane and is opposed by the sen- make up a theory that the Beast self dependent on the group's phy- ed. And so Simon, in espousing sical size and not on any well- common sense, comes to be equmeaning theories the budding bu- ated with all external "non-phyreaucract-leader may express, sical" things. burgeons into war. The primary fact of the island is that these Simon is very touching. He alboys must live by bread alone, most becomes a Christ-figure, a visionary epileptic called left over from the war, the group When they land, the leader is kill him ("by mistake") in the ior member of the smaller group. can come down to them in dis-This elementary division, it- guise, but cannot be finally kill-

The sequence where they kill The story concerns a group of and so any extra-physical bonds, as his taking on the identity of himself of the sins of the world. To make the point explicit a choir sings Kyrie Eleison as Simon's corpse floats out to sea.

I see the main meaning of the film in the symmetry of relationships shown in it. Ralph, the "good leader," estranged from the delights of companionship, hunted down almost to death, is in an equal and opposite state of delusion to the hunters whom he estranges by listening to "the voice of reason."

This film is not a philippic against warmongers, but a sensitive poem about the sad loss of others than it does to my pseudoprofound "New Left" intellectual environment.

Society with the sort of dish be reached, where fewer mem- spinster aunt's world of bour- a ticket.

To present an hour or more of their good fortune. need hardly be discussed.

unbiased vision. It speaks more to film fare cannot be provided altogether. my everyday encounters with without estranging the audience let the audience go hang. Bad worth discussing anyway. Suffice mals swear everlasting together-One may easily contrast the elsewhere. And there is no danger arrogant bastard of a musician tra pit of Modern Society; all this heady fare of the Tech. Film that a minimum threshold will be who goes around smashing the and more, yours for a sigh and Society. It is the professed be- ing shown at all: after all, the more impressionable members lief of the Dalhousie Film So- small Tech. Society shows inter- of the audience a shocking thril ciety not to give the audience esting programs (albeit some- as a result. His is the story of anything -- and this is on the times only because they are spiritual redemption in the grand level! -- that may tire their at- forced to at the last minute) and style, in the person of an insipid tention span during the evening. it should be possible to simulate Blondie who worries about him, films that might require too much The latest film shown at Dal., tears. thought or concentration on the is as uninteresting as most of its part of the audience will cut down predecessors. Look Back in people's mental prowess too far. there is no reason to subject us and I don't believe even that - the story, as the film is hardly scene, where the two little aniand tasteless films can be seen it to say that it is all about an ness before the crashing orches-

My remarks about the sensithe popularity of the Society, as Anger had played the big circuits tive and imaginative use of more a surfeit of stimulation will tax a couple of times already and conservative film styles might well serve here in reverse. Those Just how fallacious this theory is to it again. It might have had tight Hollywood closeups of the more appeal if the original script various couples embracing; those (it came from the play by John so cuttling insults, neatly timed to The point is that if half-decent Osborne) had been dispensed with precede a slammed door; that so melodramatic steam from the I won't sketch out the details of trains in the Reconciliation