

C158770

- 3 -

international air transport policy can be demonstrated as being best calculated to serve not only the immediate national interests of Canada but also our over-riding interest in the establishment of an international order which is intended to prevent the outbreak of another world war.

March 30th, 1943.