

tyre was burst. The traffickers were torn away and the front mudguard offside was damaged.

- Q. You say you proceeded up to where the staff car was on the road?
A. Yes, sir.
- Q. Were there any officers there when you arrived?
A. No, sir.
- Q. You saw a staff car?
A. Yes, sir.
- Q. Was there much blood and brains scattered around the car at all?
A. Yes, sir. On the front nearside door and ventilator and a bit on the front right side of the car.
- Q. There was blood in the back seat too?
A. I didn't notice, sir.
- Q. There was glass in the back seat of the car?
A. I would not like to say.
- Q. In any event, the driver of that car would be well splattered with blood?
A. I would imagine so sir.
- Q. How do you account for the fact that the body was found on the right hand side of the road, on the sidewalk?
A. I cannot say, sir.
- Q. Damage to the ford staff car is in the front, on the right front fender, where the headlight is. On the right hand side of the apron of the fender on the front by the front light.
A. The front nearside of the vehicle was damaged, sir.
- Q. So, if a soldier's, whose body was lying on the sidewalk, was hit at approximately the left front corner of the chevrollet car, and the staff car were to swerve slightly, that would throw his body on to the sidewalk, would it not?
A. I presume so, sir.
- Q. You didn't find anything like a watch at the scene of the accident?
A. I didn't sir.
- Q. The night was very dark?
A. A dark night.
- Q. It had been raining?
A. Correct sir.
