

ANGLO-FRENCH TREATY WAS THE CREATION OF SIR WILFRID LAURIER

Canadian Premier's Influence With French President
Led to the Alliance Which Changed the Face of World Politics—So Said Mr. Brodeur in Responding to His Welcome Home Yesterday.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 6.—Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, who has just arrived from Paris, where, in connection with Mr. Fielding, he was successful in negotiating a new commercial treaty between France and Canada, was given a big reception at his home at St. Hilaire, Reville, County, this afternoon.

A number of special trains brought out a large number of people from Montreal, and thousands of Mr. Brodeur's constituents came from different parts of the country. It is estimated that over 5,000 took part in the welcome home to the minister. Mr. Brodeur came up from Quebec on the government steamer Lady Grey, which made stops at Three Rivers and Sorel, where addresses were presented to the minister and where he was greeted by big crowds. On his arrival at St. Hilaire the minister was officially welcomed by the mayors of the village and parish, each of whom presented him with an address.

Replying to the addresses, Mr. Brodeur declared that when the new treaty between France and Canada was presented to parliament it would be found that it was one of the greatest importance to the trade of the Dominion. Mr. Brodeur, referring to the entente cordiale between Great Britain and France, claimed that it was the creation of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who, he said, when visiting President Loubet, referred to the friendship which existed between the two races in Canada, and the French president had acknowledged that this had inspired him with the idea of an alliance between France and Great Britain. Mr. Brodeur declared that the alliance would never have been possible but for the personal influence of King Edward, thus establishing the Canadian ministers had been able to negotiate the treaty with France.

A number of speeches were made eulogizing the minister.

Mrs. Anthony J. Drexel and her daughter, Margaretta, the rumor of whose engagement to the Prince of Teck has been revived.

FINE SERMON BY REV. MR. JOLLY

Rev. Bryant Pierce Jolly, of Joliet, Illinois, preached in Carmarthen street Methodist church last evening. His sermon was replete with illustrations which disclosed a great fund of knowledge. Before beginning his discourse, Mr. Jolly spoke in warm terms of the Canadian people. He stated that this was his first engagement in Eastern Canada, but last autumn he had spent two months and a half in Western Canada and he had been very kindly treated.

The Canadian people he said made an ideal congregation, as they were half way between the Yankee and the English. The text was found in 1st John, 5th chapter and last part of the 4th verse "This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith."

"In every community people are found who talk of being self-made men, having risen through their own efforts," the speaker contended, "that if a man is to rise he must do so through faith in Christ. Our knowledge would be small indeed if it was not for the faith we repose in those who have christened the past events."

In speaking of what faith does for man, the speaker said that the oak was greater than the flower because its connections were greater. John D. Rockefeller is rich because he had faith in the Standard Oil proposition and faith in himself to launch the project.

The successful business man succeeds only because he has faith in his business and faith in himself. Education itself consists in having faith to believe that what has been done can be done again. Faith enters into every phase of life.

If we speak of ourselves closely we find two persons in one. The old man and the new—the former ever calling us back, the latter, the spiritual, beckoning us on. The one requires faith of the other, a struggle to follow and win. In the Christian spirit. Our companions, a perverted public opinion, and a glaring, gilded saloon, are influences ever tending to keep us back. The flood gates of evil are always open to sweep us on in this downward course.

Rev. Mr. Jolly closed with a peroration on eternity that warranted the many tributes the press have paid him on his ability as a speaker. Tonight he will speak in Carmarthen street Methodist church on the "Jolly Side of Life" and will doubtless draw a large crowd.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Oct. 6.—The whereabouts of Edward Currie, of Douglas, who has been missing for a week past, have not yet been located. A great many are under the impression that he was drowned in the river opposite the city and all day today grapping parties have been at work and dynamite used in order to bring the body to the surface. The results, however, have been futile. The explosion of dynamite during the afternoon considerably excited the town and the vibration was felt for a considerable distance. Many thought the shocks were earthquakes and several stories are told of the shaking up in residences. Two auto parties arrived from Saint John last evening and after spending the night at the Queen, left on the return trip this morning. The persons included H. D. Forbes, Capt. John Ferris, K. J. MacRae, J. Royden Thomson, P. W. Thomson, F. H. White, R. Skinner, W. McSorley.

WHITNEY AND BARTLETT WERE BOTH NOMINATED AMID WILD SCENES

Massachusetts State Democrats Couldn't Agree and
Two Separate Tickets Were Chosen Simultaneously—Whitney's Followers Say Bartlett Men
Crowded Them Out of Hall

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Oct. 5.—Two separate tickets were nominated by the Democrats of Massachusetts in convention in the Court Square Theatre today while pandemonium reigned. One was headed by General Charles W. Bartlett, of Newton, and the other by Henry M. Whitney, of Boston. The State Ballot Law Commission will be invoked by the Whitney followers to settle the question as to which ticket shall be recognized as regular.

Mr. Thayer announced later in the afternoon that he declined to be a candidate for lieutenant-governor on the Bartlett ticket.

The Bartlett faction adopted a platform which was drawn up by George Fred Williams, and which was devoted chiefly to a denunciation of monopolies in general and of the proposed merger of the New York, New Haven and Hartford and the Boston and Maine Railroad in particular.

A platform presented by Josiah Quincy was adopted by the Whitney faction. Its principal feature was its advocacy of reciprocity and condemnation of the Dingley tariff.

Having gained control of the convention on the state ticket last night, the Bartlett faction, by getting to the convention hall early and in large numbers, was able to carry through its programme. When the Whitney men arrived at the hall, shortly before the meeting for the meeting of the convention, those who gained admittance found the orchestra nearly full of men wearing Bartlett ribbons. Upon announcement by the chairman of the state committee that a Bartlett leader, Daniel J. Kiley of Boston, had been chosen temporary chairman, the Whitney delegates, who were apparently in the minority in the proportion of about one to three, retired to the rear of the theatre and held a convention in the foyer. The unique spectacle was then presented of two presiding officers, one at each end of the hall.

TORONTO, Oct. 6.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston arrived in Toronto today for a two-days' visit.

In January, 1906, about seven thousand dollars of Ontario Bank stock on the books of the Ontario Bank were transferred from President G. R. Cockburn's account to the officers of the guarantee fund of the bank. A suit was entered on Saturday on behalf of the bank against Cockburn for the sum paid, with interest, and to have the stock again placed in his name.

A commission may be sent to Halifax to take evidence in the York Loan winding up proceedings. C. A. Maesten, who represents the Nova Scotia shareholders, suggested that course to the referee on Saturday, but no action was taken.

The Meaford town hall building, fifty years old, was destroyed by fire on Saturday.

A smart pickpocket stole two hundred dollars from William Brandham in the Toronto branch of the Bank of Hamilton on Saturday noon and got away with the money. Brandham had just cashed a check and was standing at the window, when he felt a man crowd him. When he missed the cash he accused the man of taking it, but the reply was a plump denial. The man agreed to stay in the bank while a policeman was brought, and when Brandham was released, the man disappeared. The bank officials are blamed for not detaining the alleged thief.

LOCAL FACTORY WILL HAVE GREAT CHANGE

The Canada Woodworking Co. are progressing rapidly in getting their stock subscribed and hope to have it all taken up in a short time and to this fall begin operations. At the last meeting of the Municipal Council it was decided to get legislative authority to grant a tax exemption to the company. The following extract from the Maritime Merchant will show the advantages which the local company will have in beginning operations at once:

"The mill and tub factory of the C. Beck Co. at Renfrew, Ont., was destroyed by fire recently, which, following quickly on the loss of the Canada Woodworking Co.'s plant, at Hampton, N. B., which, in turn, followed closely on the burning of the better tub factory of the C. Beck Co. at Sutton, P. Q., has thrown the burden of supplying woodware in Canada on one factory. These fires have had a bitter result, but they are very serious. It is considered that there can hardly fail to be a shortage, and the situation is aggravated by the delayed log drives in Canadian rivers."

theatre entertaining motions and announcing decisions, amid noise so deafening that it was only at intervals that it was possible to learn what was being done. At the conclusion of the convention the Whitney leaders claimed that many of their delegates had been unable to gain admittance to the theatre, and that the Bartlett leaders, having control of the tickets to the convention, passed their delegates through without delay.

James L. Doherty, of this city, who was named for attorney general on the state ticket, headed by Henry M. Whitney at the Democratic convention yesterday, has announced that under no conditions will he accept the nomination. Mr. Doherty said he informed the manager of the Whitney campaign some time ago that he would not be a candidate for any office on the ticket, although a sympathizer with the Whitney cause.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Oct. 6.—General Charles W. Bartlett, who heads one of the two state tickets nominated by the Democrats at the Springfield convention yesterday, is here tonight, accompanied by his campaign manager, Daniel J. O'Connell. He will remain for a few days on business connected with his law practice. General Bartlett declined tonight to make any statement on the result of the convention. "I shall postpone the making of any formal statement until I return to Boston early tomorrow. I had planned to make an answer tonight to the charges of Messrs. McNary, Sullivan, Buckley and other Bartlett supporters, but the fact that three months' campaigning and the excitement and the loss of sleep during the last month have told on me somewhat, I deem it best to take one day's rest from politics. For that reason I have laid aside all thought of making any statement tonight."

ROBENS PLACED ON TRIAL AGAIN

He is Accused of Murdering His Former Employer, a Well Known
Maine Farmer.

HOULTON, Me., Oct. 6.—The second trial of Juan Robens, the Mexican half-breed, otherwise known as Jack Roberts, for the murder of his former employer and friend, J. Edgar Dickinson, the Smyrna Mills farmer and guide, will begin tomorrow in the supreme court before Chief Justice Emery. Robens at a trial which lasted a week and the jury failed to agree. The trial attracted unusual attention because of the fact that Dickinson's wife was indicted as an accomplice and was on trial with Robens for several days when she was discharged, the case against her being dropped by the state.

Dickinson was killed instantly by a rifle bullet early on the morning of October 1, 1906, while standing in his kitchen building a fire in the stove. A bullet entered a window and passed through his head. At first it was supposed the shooting was done accidentally by a deer hunter, but in a few hours the officers determined differently and began a search for Robens, whose attentions to June, the eldest child of the family, had not been pleasing to the father. He was found in a lumber camp, placed in a wagon and after a brief hearing before a trial justice bound over to the grand jury.
