We have no knowledge that such overtures ever had been made here. The London Morning Post in an issue of last Tuesday argued that the Germans were willing for immediate peace, and would give the Entente Powers everything they desired, but only on condition that Germany be allowed a free hand in Central and South America. We understand by the editorial that this condition has been put forward, of course, discreetly, and unofficially by the German Government, and that it was rejected by the Allies. The editorial added that at any time in the last 10 years we could have had an agreement with Germany by allowing her a free hand across the Atlantic.
