FIND IMPROVED METHOD OF COMBATTING SUBMARINE MENACE

NEW YORK, May 7-(Special)-The New York World quotes W. L. Saunders, of the naval Consulting Board, as saying that practically means of combatting the submarine menace have been discovered.

HINDENBURG MUST EVACUATE

With the French Armies in the Field, May 7-Germany's retirement from France must come unless Hindenburg can stop the French drive. Today's fighting brought proof of complete realization of the necessity of such a retreat by the German commanders in the superhuman efforts which the enemy is making to save the Rheims salient. Germany's picked troops are being hurled into the breach made by the French army which Hindenburg had saved for what he hoped would be final decisive offensive, is now being sacrificed.

Entirely aside from the Franco-British offensive between the Aisne and Lens the Germans are now facing an equal menace in the Champagne. They know that the French offensive, between the Aisne and Moronvilliers, threatens to force their evacuation of the Rheims salient. There is a great out and Berri and Forts Nogent La Besse and Vitry Les Rheims constitute the keystone supporting the superstructure of the entire German front. The desperate necessity of preventing the cutting off of the salient, which would precipitate withdrawal from France, is causing the Germans to sacrifice the last of their reserves in an effort to hold back the French.

The six thousand prisoners taken up today does not indicate a shattered German morale. On the contrary, the Germans are resisting with a degree of desperation hitherto unknown. But the number of prisoners does reflect the immense bodies of troops which the Germans are throwing into the conflict.

Today standing on a height from which I could see the French steadily wiping out the Hindenburg salient, it was possible with glasses to make out long lines of motor lorries behind the German trenches, each packed with German troops and speeding to the charnel house of the German front line. Arriving there these fresh reserves were launched against the French, and they melted away unending, in the French machine gun fire the deadly accurate barrage of the famous Soixante Quinzes, the cold steel of the French bayonets or the explosion of the French grenades.

Not only has the number of the enemy troops in the past few days fighting been greater than that employed in any previous engagements, since the early days of the war, but the quality of the troops is higher. Prisoners showed were most no deprecate reserves. All those captured were of choice regiments. Saturday around Craonne, for instance, a complete division of the picked Prussian Guard was called in to action by the German commanders. It was practically annihilated in a vain attempt to retake Craonne.
