voice are very interesting. A patient comes, at times a waiter in a hotel, who has lost his at times a waiter in a hotel, who has lost his voice, and place in consequence; at others a governess, or perhaps the mother of a fam-lly, or some delicate young lady. None of them can speak above a very soft whisper; t and yet, without knowing it, they will cough y or clear their throat quite audibly. The his tory is nearly always the same. The disease did not begin with hysteria. The patent had a severe could at first, and did loss her voice. This has, however, long since been cured, g but the voiceless state persists, and would i do so till the end of time. A careful exam-hat then, by the skillful use of judicious t means, the voiceless condition, that has per-sisted for sometimes years, gradually is cured. These patients occasionally act-ually have slates to write on, and can not speak at all.

 "No, sir."
 "It got $15,000 and this parsonage, and as I have an expensive family I do not see my way clear to accept your offer."
 The spokesman looked rather sheepish, but made another easay.
 "If we had known that fact, sir, we would undoubtedly have looked rether sheepish, but mout be done, and as for providing for your family, you know the story of the ravens."
 "Now, my friends," responded the clergyman, quizzically, "I have made the Bible my study ever since I was twenty-eight. I have read to the function of the carefully and prayerfully over a hundred times. I remember the raven incident perfectly, but nowhere can I find any reference to the Lord's providing for young Hawkes."

BETTER THAN CANAAN.

The Claim Made by an Old Lady for the State of Nebraska. State of Nebraska. A great many people in Nebraska, as well as clasewhere in our country, eat corn-meal mush with milk very frequently for supper. It is a matter of universal com-plaint that few cooks get quite enough salt in the mush to suit the palates of those who are fastidious in mush-eating. There is an old story of a farmer's family whose members each determined that the supper's mush should be salt enough for once, and one day each saited it in turn without saying any thing to the others. Seven big handfuls of salt went into that kettle of mush and nobody could eat it, of ourse.

Actie of muss and notedy could can be over a course. A cortain farmer's family in Nebraska had long been troubled by the freshness of the girls made it, it was always too fresh. The grandmother, who lived with them, and was not as amiable as some people's grandmothers, scolded a good deal about this lack.

The mother was then requested to wait, and the daughter was taken to the wards upstairs and a brief course of treatment entered upon, the true nature of the disease being stonce discovered. It was so satis-factory that after a few minutes the patient thought that she feit better, and managed with difficulty to swallow a little water. This was not enough, however, so it was continued, with the eminently happy and satisfactory result that in half an hour the young lady was sitting at a table with a plateful of boiled mutton, turnips and po-tatoes before her; and her mother was called up, and in her presence the daughter, with a radiant countenance, completely fin-ished the meal.

plaster of paris. The result was a perfect oure. The secret of curing all hysteria is by decling true sympathy from the conviction of the reality of the disease, but showing none. In fits, for instance, the friends should not struggle with the sufforer, or express either alarm or interest; indeed, the fewer spectators the better, as the pa-tient is nearly always partly conscious, and any interest always increases the violence of her performances. All alcohol should invariably be avoided, as it only increases the maiady. KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

of a contractor in One very obstinate case of a contracted and bentarm defield all ef-forts to straighten it; but when at last chloroform was given it was at once per-fectly straight. As the patient came round it contracted again, and in a fow hours was as rigid as ever. She was therefore put to skeep the second time, the arm straightened, and then secured in that position with plaster of paris. The result was a perfect cure. And she started at once for the house to fetch a tin pail to get some of the welcome water, while tears of pleasure rolled down her withered old cheeks. MOURNFUL STORIES.
