

The Lost Path.

Dear, could the light come back again That never was a land, nor sea, But only in youth's dreaming brain...

Nova Scotia's 1896 Crops.

B. W. Chipman, Secretary for Agriculture, has issued the Provincial Government report of 1896, of the present state and prospects of the principal field and orchard crops...

"GIVE ME PROFIT."

THE MOTTO OF THOSE WHO RETAIL COMMON PACKAGE DYES.

There are still a few business men in Canada who care more for money profits than they do about satisfying their customers...

Jammed Fingers.

Few people have escaped jammed fingers, and as the pain caused when the finger is jammed in a door is excruciating...

Made Strong Again.

For the sake of others a Grateful Woman Praises DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

NAKAREE, (Special Sept. 7)

The wife of Mr. Wm. Cranley, a well known and highly respected farmer living near Chambers Post Office, not far from this place...

Prisoner, the jury has declared you guilty.

Oh, that's all right, judge, you're too intelligent a man to be influenced by what they say.

THE WHITE RIBBON.

Conducted by the Ladies of the W. C. T. U.

OFFICERS.

President—Mrs R. V. Jones. Vice-Presidents—Mrs Hale, Mrs R. Reid, Mrs A. Johnson.

SUBSTITUTES.

Evangelists—Mrs DeWitt, Literature—Mrs DeBlois, Press Work—Mrs Tafta.

Next meeting in Temperance Hall

Thursday, Sept. 24th, at 2.30 P.M. The meetings are always open to any who wish to become members.

Temperance in Ontario.

A despatch to the Halifax Herald under date of September 3rd says: The prohibitionists had possession of the parliament buildings this morning.

Later on, at a meeting of the legislative committee of the alliance, a resolution was adopted expressing satisfaction at Laurier's proposition and calling on the temperance people of the Dominion to prepare for the plebiscite.

Acting on the wishes of the majority of the commons, Speaker Edgar ordered the bar to be closed, and henceforth members will have to order something to eat in the restaurant whenever they want a drink.

Mrs Owen Hitchcock, Pres. of the W. C. T. U., in a recent letter to the Woman's Journal says:

"During my vacation this summer, after doing Muskoka, we decided to visit Perry Sound, and it was indeed a pleasant surprise to find one prohibition town in this fair Dominion, where the liquor traffic is outlawed.

An aged man sauntering across a Cleveland street the other day was jostled by a young schoolboy.

"Excuse me, sir," answered the pale-faced artist who addressed him.

I was cured of lame back, after suffering 15 years by MINARD'S LINIMENT.

Two Rivers, N. S., ROBERT HOSE. I was cured of Diphtheria, after doctors failed, by MINARD'S LINIMENT, Antigonish, JOHN A. FOREY.

I was cured of contraction of muscles by MINARD'S LINIMENT, Dalhousie, Mrs RACHEL SAUNDERS.

Max O'Rell, of course, is dead against all Maine liquor laws and Prohibition Bills, and he expresses his sentiments in the following characteristic anecdote:

"Ah! how I remember admiring, in the hot days of blue-ribbonism in England, that free Briton I once met who had a yellow ribbon in his button-hole."

"What's that you have on?" I said to him. "That's a yellow ribbon," he replied. "It belongs to the yellow ribbon army." "Ah, and what's the yellow ribbon army do?" I enquired. "What do we do?" he said. "Why, we eat what we like, we drink what we like, and we don't care for nobody."

Scrap for Odd Moments

Hedges—Sappy is continually falling off his wheel. Rose—What can you expect of a fellow who isn't well-balanced?

He is a great friend to the poor. So he is. He will keep any of his friends poor if they will give him half a chance.

Man wants but little here below, As some one said before, But when he gets it, don't you know, He wants a little more.

I don't see why you asked Mr. Bahr to sing and the popular girl's sister. I hated to do it, was the reply, but it was the only way to make him quit talking.

Minards Liniment is the best.

Maud—Would you marry Freddy if he asked you to? Belle (silly)—I can only answer that by saying that he wouldn't be single now were I so foolish.

Fleming won't allow his wife to get trusted. He says she hasn't any judgment.

Al's so. She showed her want of it when she married him.

Weary Watkins—Ain't you afraid of having penicillitis?

Mosley Wraggs—No. Why?

Weary Watkins—Thought maybe you were. You're lookin' so seedy.

Caller—They tell me, Mrs. Sourly, that your husband is a bull on the Board of Trade.

Mrs. Sourly—Don't know anything about that, but I do know that he's a bear at home.

Mrs. Dolan—My boy Dinny is gettin' to be a great Sunday school worker, isn't he?

Mrs. Nolan—Indeed? "Yes. As has worked 'tween us them for free excursions lately."

Minards Liniment for Rheumatism

Wallace—For the life of me, I have never been able to laugh at one of these mother-in-law jokes yet.

Perry—If you had a mother-in-law worth $85,000 as mine is, you would laugh at every joke she made.

She—You may say what you will, I think you will find that women are less wicked than men. I expect that heaven will be inhabited principally by women.

He—Very likely. The man, of course, all generally be found in the smoking-room below.

"I hope you are saving your money for the heathen," said the good deacon to the sweet-faced little boy.

"Sure. Guess that's coming's got Ayrans, wild African niggers and all sorts of heathen in it," said the sweet-faced little boy to the good deacon.

At a recent induction of an English bishop to his see, somebody noticed a Dublin graduate wearing an Oxford hood.

He pointed it out to the bishop, and said that the person stood there with a lie on his back. "Well," replied the bishop, "You are hardly call it a lie; but it is certainly a false hood."

"Since you're been cursing my daughter, young man," said the old gentleman severely, "I find my cash bill has considerably increased."

"Perhaps it is the fault of the meter, sir," suggested the young man, timidly. "Yes, it is," agreed the old gentleman. "You're the meter, and you meet her too often!"

Minards Liniment Cures LaGrippe

She stood before the glass, gazing earnestly. "Really," she said, "do believe I have a headache coming."

And yet she seemed rather pleased than otherwise.

In another moment the young man she had seen through the window had entered the room bringing his mistress with him.

An Irishman, having feet of different sizes, ordered his boots to be made accordingly. His directions were obeyed, but as he tried the smallest boot on his largest foot, he exclaimed, petulantly: "Confound that fellow! I ordered him to make one larger than the other; and, instead of that, he has made one smaller than the other."

Minards Liniment the best Hair Restorer.

"Isn't that sort of work very condescending?" asked the visitor who had been permitted to go into the room where the bank note engravers were at work.

"Absolutely not, sir," answered the pale-faced artist who addressed him. "I am personally acquainted with a man who did a job of this kind once without orders, and he was confined seven years for it, man."

An Irishman, having feet of different sizes, ordered his boots to be made accordingly. His directions were obeyed, but as he tried the smallest boot on his largest foot, he exclaimed, petulantly: "Confound that fellow! I ordered him to make one larger than the other; and, instead of that, he has made one smaller than the other."

"I was cured of lame back, after suffering 15 years by MINARD'S LINIMENT. Two Rivers, N. S., ROBERT HOSE. I was cured of Diphtheria, after doctors failed, by MINARD'S LINIMENT, Antigonish, JOHN A. FOREY. I was cured of contraction of muscles by MINARD'S LINIMENT, Dalhousie, Mrs RACHEL SAUNDERS.

Max O'Rell, of course, is dead against all Maine liquor laws and Prohibition Bills, and he expresses his sentiments in the following characteristic anecdote:

"Ah! how I remember admiring, in the hot days of blue-ribbonism in England, that free Briton I once met who had a yellow ribbon in his button-hole."

"What's that you have on?" I said to him. "That's a yellow ribbon," he replied. "It belongs to the yellow ribbon army." "Ah, and what's the yellow ribbon army do?" I enquired. "What do we do?" he said. "Why, we eat what we like, we drink what we like, and we don't care for nobody."

Max O'Rell, of course, is dead against all Maine liquor laws and Prohibition Bills, and he expresses his sentiments in the following characteristic anecdote:

"Ah! how I remember admiring, in the hot days of blue-ribbonism in England, that free Briton I once met who had a yellow ribbon in his button-hole."

"What's that you have on?" I said to him. "That's a yellow ribbon," he replied. "It belongs to the yellow ribbon army." "Ah, and what's the yellow ribbon army do?" I enquired. "What do we do?" he said. "Why, we eat what we like, we drink what we like, and we don't care for nobody."

Max O'Rell, of course, is dead against all Maine liquor laws and Prohibition Bills, and he expresses his sentiments in the following characteristic anecdote:

"Ah! how I remember admiring, in the hot days of blue-ribbonism in England, that free Briton I once met who had a yellow ribbon in his button-hole."

"What's that you have on?" I said to him. "That's a yellow ribbon," he replied. "It belongs to the yellow ribbon army." "Ah, and what's the yellow ribbon army do?" I enquired. "What do we do?" he said. "Why, we eat what we like, we drink what we like, and we don't care for nobody."

Max O'Rell, of course, is dead against all Maine liquor laws and Prohibition Bills, and he expresses his sentiments in the following characteristic anecdote:

"Ah! how I remember admiring, in the hot days of blue-ribbonism in England, that free Briton I once met who had a yellow ribbon in his button-hole."

"What's that you have on?" I said to him. "That's a yellow ribbon," he replied. "It belongs to the yellow ribbon army." "Ah, and what's the yellow ribbon army do?" I enquired. "What do we do?" he said. "Why, we eat what we like, we drink what we like, and we don't care for nobody."

Max O'Rell, of course, is dead against all Maine liquor laws and Prohibition Bills, and he expresses his sentiments in the following characteristic anecdote:

"Ah! how I remember admiring, in the hot days of blue-ribbonism in England, that free Briton I once met who had a yellow ribbon in his button-hole."

"What's that you have on?" I said to him. "That's a yellow ribbon," he replied. "It belongs to the yellow ribbon army." "Ah, and what's the yellow ribbon army do?" I enquired. "What do we do?" he said. "Why, we eat what we like, we drink what we like, and we don't care for nobody."

Max O'Rell, of course, is dead against all Maine liquor laws and Prohibition Bills, and he expresses his sentiments in the following characteristic anecdote:

"Ah! how I remember admiring, in the hot days of blue-ribbonism in England, that free Briton I once met who had a yellow ribbon in his button-hole."

"What's that you have on?" I said to him. "That's a yellow ribbon," he replied. "It belongs to the yellow ribbon army." "Ah, and what's the yellow ribbon army do?" I enquired. "What do we do?" he said. "Why, we eat what we like, we drink what we like, and we don't care for nobody."

Max O'Rell, of course, is dead against all Maine liquor laws and Prohibition Bills, and he expresses his sentiments in the following characteristic anecdote:

"Ah! how I remember admiring, in the hot days of blue-ribbonism in England, that free Briton I once met who had a yellow ribbon in his button-hole."

"What's that you have on?" I said to him. "That's a yellow ribbon," he replied. "It belongs to the yellow ribbon army." "Ah, and what's the yellow ribbon army do?" I enquired. "What do we do?" he said. "Why, we eat what we like, we drink what we like, and we don't care for nobody."

Max O'Rell, of course, is dead against all Maine liquor laws and Prohibition Bills, and he expresses his sentiments in the following characteristic anecdote:

"Ah! how I remember admiring, in the hot days of blue-ribbonism in England, that free Briton I once met who had a yellow ribbon in his button-hole."

"What's that you have on?" I said to him. "That's a yellow ribbon," he replied. "It belongs to the yellow ribbon army." "Ah, and what's the yellow ribbon army do?" I enquired. "What do we do?" he said. "Why, we eat what we like, we drink what we like, and we don't care for nobody."

Max O'Rell, of course, is dead against all Maine liquor laws and Prohibition Bills, and he expresses his sentiments in the following characteristic anecdote:

"Ah! how I remember admiring, in the hot days of blue-ribbonism in England, that free Briton I once met who had a yellow ribbon in his button-hole."

"What's that you have on?" I said to him. "That's a yellow ribbon," he replied. "It belongs to the yellow ribbon army." "Ah, and what's the yellow ribbon army do?" I enquired. "What do we do?" he said. "Why, we eat what we like, we drink what we like, and we don't care for nobody."

Max O'Rell, of course, is dead against all Maine liquor laws and Prohibition Bills, and he expresses his sentiments in the following characteristic anecdote:

"Ah! how I remember admiring, in the hot days of blue-ribbonism in England, that free Briton I once met who had a yellow ribbon in his button-hole."

"What's that you have on?" I said to him. "That's a yellow ribbon," he replied. "It belongs to the yellow ribbon army." "Ah, and what's the yellow ribbon army do?" I enquired. "What do we do?" he said. "Why, we eat what we like, we drink what we like, and we don't care for nobody."

Max O'Rell, of course, is dead against all Maine liquor laws and Prohibition Bills, and he expresses his sentiments in the following characteristic anecdote:

"Ah! how I remember admiring, in the hot days of blue-ribbonism in England, that free Briton I once met who had a yellow ribbon in his button-hole."

"What's that you have on?" I said to him. "That's a yellow ribbon," he replied. "It belongs to the yellow ribbon army." "Ah, and what's the yellow ribbon army do?" I enquired. "What do we do?" he said. "Why, we eat what we like, we drink what we like, and we don't care for nobody."

Max O'Rell, of course, is dead against all Maine liquor laws and Prohibition Bills, and he expresses his sentiments in the following characteristic anecdote:

"Ah! how I remember admiring, in the hot days of blue-ribbonism in England, that free Briton I once met who had a yellow ribbon in his button-hole."

"What's that you have on?" I said to him. "That's a yellow ribbon," he replied. "It belongs to the yellow ribbon army." "Ah, and what's the yellow ribbon army do?" I enquired. "What do we do?" he said. "Why, we eat what we like, we drink what we like, and we don't care for nobody."

Max O'Rell, of course, is dead against all Maine liquor laws and Prohibition Bills, and he expresses his sentiments in the following characteristic anecdote:

"Ah! how I remember admiring, in the hot days of blue-ribbonism in England, that free Briton I once met who had a yellow ribbon in his button-hole."

"What's that you have on?" I said to him. "That's a yellow ribbon," he replied. "It belongs to the yellow ribbon army." "Ah, and what's the yellow ribbon army do?" I enquired. "What do we do?" he said. "Why, we eat what we like, we drink what we like, and we don't care for nobody."

Max O'Rell, of course, is dead against all Maine liquor laws and Prohibition Bills, and he expresses his sentiments in the following characteristic anecdote:

"Ah! how I remember admiring, in the hot days of blue-ribbonism in England, that free Briton I once met who had a yellow ribbon in his button-hole."

"What's that you have on?" I said to him. "That's a yellow ribbon," he replied. "It belongs to the yellow ribbon army." "Ah, and what's the yellow ribbon army do?" I enquired. "What do we do?" he said. "Why, we eat what we like, we drink what we like, and we don't care for nobody."

Max O'Rell, of course, is dead against all Maine liquor laws and Prohibition Bills, and he expresses his sentiments in the following characteristic anecdote:

"Ah! how I remember admiring, in the hot days of blue-ribbonism in England, that free Briton I once met who had a yellow ribbon in his button-hole."

"What's that you have on?" I said to him. "That's a yellow ribbon," he replied. "It belongs to the yellow ribbon army." "Ah, and what's the yellow ribbon army do?" I enquired. "What do we do?" he said. "Why, we eat what we like, we drink what we like, and we don't care for nobody."

Max O'Rell, of course, is dead against all Maine liquor laws and Prohibition Bills, and he expresses his sentiments in the following characteristic anecdote:

"Ah! how I remember admiring, in the hot days of blue-ribbonism in England, that free Briton I once met who had a yellow ribbon in his button-hole."

"What's that you have on?" I said to him. "That's a yellow ribbon," he replied. "It belongs to the yellow ribbon army." "Ah, and what's the yellow ribbon army do?" I enquired. "What do we do?" he said. "Why, we eat what we like, we drink what we like, and we don't care for nobody."

Max O'Rell, of course, is dead against all Maine liquor laws and Prohibition Bills, and he expresses his sentiments in the following characteristic anecdote:

"Ah! how I remember admiring, in the hot days of blue-ribbonism in England, that free Briton I once met who had a yellow ribbon in his button-hole."

"What's that you have on?" I said to him. "That's a yellow ribbon," he replied. "It belongs to the yellow ribbon army." "Ah, and what's the yellow ribbon army do?" I enquired. "What do we do?" he said. "Why, we eat what we like, we drink what we like, and we don't care for nobody."

Max O'Rell, of course, is dead against all Maine liquor laws and Prohibition Bills, and he expresses his sentiments in the following characteristic anecdote:

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

ALWAYS CURE

AFTER TEN YEARS SUFFERING

Two Box Cure

MILVERTON, 28th JULY, 1895.

Gentlemen, for the last ten years I have been troubled with kidney disease, being so bad at intervals that I could not lie in bed at night nor stoop to the ground.

I had tried all the remedies I could find without effect, but heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills and procured a box.

I am most happy to say that for my own sake as well as for others that I am perfectly cured after using four boxes.

JOHN RILEY.

DR. H. LAWRENCE will be at his office in Shaw's building, opposite American House, every day, in future.

"BELL"

PIANOS * AND * ORGANS.

We have a large stock of the above instruments, in the latest styles, which we are selling at about one-third less than is usually asked around the country for these instruments. Don't fail to write for prices to

THE W. H. JOHNSON CO., LTD.

157 GRANVILLE ST., HALIFAX, N. S.

WE DO NOT CLAIM TO SELL

House Finish, Doors, Sashes, Blinds, etc.

more cheaply than our competitors, but we do claim to use better Stock, and give you better value.

Write for Catalogue.

HALEY BROS., & CO.,

ST. JOHN, N. B.

F. W. WOODMAN, Wolfville, is our Agent.

MONUMENTS

In Red and Grey Polished Granite and Marble.

Strictly first-class Work.

GRIFFIN & KELTIE.

323 BARRINGTON ST., HALIFAX.

THE SLATER SHOE.

33, 34, 35 per pair.

MANUFACTURERS—MONTREAL.

For sale by C. H. Borden, sole agent for Wolfville.

You don't mind raw weather

when you have your clothing or wraps interlined with Fibre Chamoi. It is the simplest and surest protection from cold and wind that you can have, costs next to nothing, is so light you don't notice its presence, adds durable stiffness and body to a garment and never fails to preserve the natural beautiful warmth of the body in all weather.

You can't afford to do without the comfort it gives.

Only 25 cents a yard.

Look for the Fibre Chamoi label on all ready-to-wear garments, and take no others.

ROBERT STANFORD,

LADIES' AND GENTLEMEN'S

Fine Tailoring.

154 and 156 HOLLIS STREET.

Halifax, N. S.

NOTICE.

Having secured the Shop recently occupied by Mr. W. Regan, I am now in a position to supply the public with all Goods in my line.

Custom Boots & Shoes.

Men's Women's and Children's Boots and Shoes made to order.

Repairing neatly and promptly done.

Thanking the public for past favors, and by close attention to business I hope to receive a fair share of patronage.

E. B. SHAW.

607 My ladies' department is under the supervision of Mr. Edna D. Dyer, late cutter with Veroback, of Paris, Nov. 29th, 1895.

DR. BARSS,

Residence at Mr Everett

W. Sawyer's; Office adjoining Acadian office.

OFFICE HOURS: 10—11, a. m.; 2—3, p. m.

Telephone at residence, No. 38.

W. J. Balcom

has secured an Auctioneer's license and is prepared to sell all kinds of Real and Personal Property at a moderate rate.

JOHN W. WALLACE,

BARRISTER-AT-LAW,

NOTARY, CONVEYANCER, ETC

Also General Agent for Fire and LIFE INSURANCE.

WOLFVILLE, N. S.

DENTISTRY.

DR H. LAWRENCE will be at his office in Shaw's building, opposite American House, every day, in future.

DR. E. N. PAYZANT

Will continue the practice of Dentistry as formerly at his residence near the station, Wolfville. Appointments can be made by letter or at residence. Special fees on lower sets of teeth.

March 20th, 1895. 29

W. W. HOWELL & CO.,

121 LOWER WATER ST.,

Halifax, N. S.

Mechanical Engineers, Machinists, Builders of Marine, Stationary and Hoisting Simple and Compound Engines, Mill and Mining Machinery, Steamship Repairs.

1896. THE 1896.

Yarmouth Steamship Co. (LIMITED)

The Shortest and Most Direct Route between Nova Scotia and the United States.

THE QUICKEST TIME, 15 to 17 hours between Yarmouth and Boston!

STEEL STEAMERS

"YARMOUTH"

"BOSTON"

UNTIL further notice, commencing June 30th, one of these steamers will leave Yarmouth for Boston every Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and