Important Public Meeting

A Public Meeting will be held in the Council Chamber, Provincial Building, on Tuesday, the 7th day of March next, commencing at 2 o'clock in the afternoon with an evening session opening at 7.30, to take into consideration the special conditions existing and that may arise in this Province by reason of the war, and the prospective possibilities when the war is ended. Without limiting the scope of subjects to be discussed, the following will be considered.

- Agriculture. Fisheries. Transportation. Emigration. Technical Education. Special Industries. New Industries.

The intention of the meeting is to provide an opportunity for free discussion of matters of public interest, with a view to a better understanding of our duties and opportunities, and fuller cooperation in all things relating to the welfare of the Province.

ARTHUR NEWBERRY, Asst. Provincial Secretary. Feby. 22, 1916 21.

the east, with Verdun in the centre, only a few miles southward. The German preparations were extensive, and the bombardment of the French positions with thousands of shells was uninterrupted. As the French had foreseen this battle, all their available guns were called into action and responded in kind to the heavy shelling of the Germans. While at some points the French were unable to resist the onslaught of the attacking forces along much of the front, according to the Paris communication, the attacks were well sustained and very heavy losses were inflicted on the Germans. Another British steamer, the Westburn, has put into port flying the German flag, and with a German prize crew aboard. This vessel has reached Santa Cruz, Tenerife. She has on board 206 prisoners, taken from various British vessels, which have been sunk by German raiders.

On the Russian and Austrian fronts there has been considerable fighting, and the Italians admit that at one point the Austrians succeeded in penetrating their lines. No late advices have been received from the Caucasus, where the Russians are continuing their pursuit of the retreating Turks.

Paris Feb. 24.—Inspired by the presence of their Emperor, and led by Crown Prince Frederick William, the German troops are engaged in one of the greatest battles of the war on the front, centering around the fortress of Verdun. Attack has succeeded against the French line after bombardments, incessant and terrific, continuing for several days. While the Germans have not been able, despite the rain of shells and furious onslaughts by the infantry, to break the French lines, nevertheless the French, on their right and left wings, have been compelled to withdraw their lines, respectively to the south of Ornes and behind the town of Samogneux, six miles north of the fortress. Only between Malancourt and the left bank of the Meuse has there been any diminution in the intensity of the artillery fire. With Brabant, Hamont and Samogneux and the wooded sections north and northeast of Reumont in their possession, the Germans from the Meuse eastward in Fromezey are forcing the fighting, seemingly regardless of the cost of life. The French guns have answered the German guns shell for shell, and the casualties on both sides are very great. The French official report describes the battlefield between the Meuse and Ornes as piled with German dead. In Champagne at several points, and in the Argonne Forest German works have been pounded by the concentrated fire of the French guns, while in Lorraine the French repulsed a German reconnoitering party which attempted to capture a French post north of St. Martin. On their end of the line, near Hullych, the British exploded a mine and occupied the crater and also bombarded German trenches near Freilinghen and Boesinghe.

London, Feb. 25.—The importance to England of the battle raging around Verdun was emphasized by Major General Sir Francis Lloyd, general officer commanding the London district, in a speech today at the opening of a military building at Wimbledon. "In the great war which is now proceeding," said General Lloyd, "every individual must give up self absolutely, and all must unite in one bond to make the war result in victory. Do you realize that a fight is now going on for a passage to Paris? The result will hang in the balance until the Teuton is driven back. I have great confidence he will be." "But if once our allies' line is pierced the way will be open to the French capital, and if that capital is reached a new complexion would be put on our lives and being. A German success on the French front would not merely mean the loss of Paris, but would endanger London. Along the front in the region of Verdun the Germans and the French continue the great struggle which began several days ago, with the Germans on the offensive, and their aim evidently the great French fortress of Verdun. Despite a heavy fall of snow the Germans to the north of Verdun have attacked with what Paris terms unprecedented violence and with large forces, French positions at several points, but, according to the French official communication, the attacks were without success. Especially has this been true of La Cote Du Poivre, about four and a half miles north of the fortress, the attainment of which would give the Germans a fine vantage point from which to operate against Verdun. The artillery on both sides along the entire battle front is keeping up an incessant bombardment of opposing positions. So intense are the detonations of the big guns that the sound of them has penetrated eastward to the left bank of the Rhine in Rhenish, Prussia. Heavy casualties are being inflicted by both sides, and the Germans claim that they have taken a goodly number of prisoners—the aggregate at last reports totalling ten thousand.

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—The Canadians are taking no part in the battle of Verdun. At the opening of the house Mr. E. M. MacDonald of Pictou asked the Minister of Militia if the Canadians were in the Verdun fighting. Sir Sam Hughes, in reply, said that according to reports which had been received by the department the attack was being made to the north and northeast of Verdun which is perhaps the most strongly fortified place in Europe with the exception of Metz. He was informed that the French had succeeded in smashing the first attempt (applause) and that the German troops now coming on were reserves composed practically of raw recruits. It appeared that in one or two places the French first line had been broken but the second line was absolutely intact. The Canadian, Sir Sam stated, was a long distance from this position. No special assault on their lines with infantry was being made but there was heavy artillery firing. Gen. MacDonnell had been wounded rather seriously in the shoulder and the side by shrapnel and General Leckie had been shot in the thigh. "These are the chances they take every day. The casualties, however, are not high, five killed and eight wounded last night. The artillery firing is very heavy over our lines and our fellows are paying them back in their own coin."

Latest intelligence from the seat of war shows that the battle of Verdun is still in progress. The slaughter is reported to be terrific. Every inch of ground is stubbornly contested; immense numbers are engaged on both sides, and it is difficult to determine which way the pendulum swings.
