Declines Foreign Intervention.

Special Evening Telegram.

CONSTANTINOPLE, To-day. In her reply to the Powers, declining any foreign intervention in matters of reform in Macedonia, the Turkish Government contends that one of the chief causes which have hindered the various attempts to ameliorate the internal situation in Macedonia is the State of insecurity, brought about by the criminal outrages of all kinds, committed by agitators. Turkey's reply thanks the European Powers for their interest, but declines intervention, being determined to carry out reforms without interference.

MILWAUKEE, To-day. Roosevelt's wound was slight, and he went to the Auditorium and began his speech after he had seen his assailant arrested. The latter is mentally upset on Roosevelt running a third time and said any man running a third time should be shot. In answer to the man's pocket was one stating that he had been visited in a dream by the spirit of Wm. McKinley who had said, "I am with you, Roosevelt. This is my murderer, avenge my death." Roosevelt felt no pain at the time the shot was fired and was not aware he was shot until he was on his way to the Auditorium. The bullet struck the manuscript of his speech and this retarded its force. His assailant was stopped from firing a second shot by Martin, one of Roosevelt's Secretaries, leaping on the man's shoulders. Capt. McArd also jumped on the man and overpowered him. A wild cry of "lynch" was heard as the man was being taken away. Roosevelt spoke to the people and told them to spare the man, who was then arrested. Roosevelt insisted on delivering his address. "I will make this speech or die, one of the other," he said. After speaking for an hour, he rushed to the hospital. An examination of the wound showed it had been made by a large bullet entering the fleshy part of the right breast. X rays will be used to locate the bullet.

PARIS, To-day. There is official confirmation that the Ottoman troops crossing the Serbian frontier, have reached the Foreign Office from the French Minister at Belgrade. The invading forces numbered about 5,000. They advanced in the neighbourhood of Rostovatz, and had a brief engagement with the Serbians. Twenty-four Serbians were killed. Turkey has accepted the summons to demobilize as a declaration of war. It is taken for granted that a few hours will bring the news of Bulgaria's incursion into the field of war without formality.

Special Evening Telegram.

ATHENS, To-day. Everything is ready on the frontier for a forward movement. There is no longer any doubt in the minds of the Greeks that war with Turkey is inevitable. The stir and bustle caused by the mobilization of the army has been followed by a complete calm. All business is stopped and the places of amusement are closed. Athens is practically empty. The only noticeable activity is that of the ambulance organization.

An Outrageous Proceeding.

A few days ago a lady went into an uptown general store to purchase a blouse. She went to a counter where there was a collection of them and was examining some when the proprietor approached her and snatched in apron which she carried under her arm. He imagined that it was a blouse and that the lady had stolen it. When he found his mistake he was covered with confusion and the lady told him what she thought of him. Not only the matter ended there for the injured woman will take the case before the court.

Fox Farming.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Mr. Editor,—Would you be good enough to allow me space in your paper to request the Game Board to issue public instructions, as to the starting and running of fox farms. Fox farming is very profitable; a pair of good blacks are worth from $7,000 to $8,000 dollars. We would like to know what the first cost would be, but above all we are anxious to know how we are to stock the farm, as the law says: "No person shall at any time take any foxes from burrows by smoking, digging or any other means whatever." How, then, can I start the farm? Is it with dead or injured ones, that I might get a trap? or must I import a pair? or is there a fox farm in the community to buy from? It looks as if someone has the "grip" on foxes, as we have heard that you must be a rich man to start a farm. Where does the poor outport man come in? If he gets a pair of black skins or silver hairs he must be satisfied with what the skin will bring, perhaps six or seven hundred dollars, while the fox farmer sees in sight say four or five thousand dollars. Another matter we around here would like you to publish and that is the details of the inquiry of the wrecked steamer Wilhelmina. We would very much like to read the testimony of the Hon. Mr. P. Cashin and the Larder Bros. Are not the two principal witnesses, the Larders, out of the country? We poor people are often obliged to saddle a good deal, but we would like to see published the finding of this inquiry and the question answered in public as to who stripped the Wilhelmina? Why was she stripped of her fittings when it was common talk that she would come off? We poor wreckers would be glad to have all wrecks strictly investigated not only ourselves examined but also those who become wreckers for the good of other health and the fun of the thing. Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor.

THE FOX INDUSTRY OF P. E. I.

Gem of the Gulf by Far the Largest

Produced in the World. Like a chapter from the Arabian Nights is the story of the silver fox industry in Prince Edward Island, with the difference that the latter is taught, open to inspection and capable of verification.

That the smallest province in the Dominion, heretofore regarded as without natural resources except the fertility of its soil and prolific life in its waters, should suddenly find itself in possession of a single source of wealth rivaling the gold mines of the Yukon, is a matter of no small moment. And this is what Prince Edward Island has found within the past few years in the fox industry.

As is the case with the gold mines the available wealth from the fox industry is as yet, an unknown quantity, unlike it, however, those who have "dugged" in the latter, with ordinary forethought and precaution have, we believe, without exception, found gold, many of them most liberally.

There is an idea prevalent that the money exchanging hands for foxes here is all Prince Edward Island money, passed from one neighbor to another in exchange for foxes, and that after all the industry brings no additional wealth to the province. This is not so. Within the past few days a gentleman from Port Elgin, N. B. bought five pairs of foxes from Tignish and Alberton parties, paying for them fifty thousand dollars; a gentleman from Moncton bought four pairs, also from parties in Tignish and Alberton at the same price, ten thousand dollars a pair; a gentleman from St. John bought two pairs in the same locality at the same price and wanted two more pairs but could not get them. John Agnew, of Alberton informs us that he has had almost daily telegrams from parties in the neighboring provinces making all kinds of offers for foxes but that there are none for sale. The island stock for the present year and much of next year's stock is already sold.

One of the banks in Prince County took in $80,000 in three days recently; all fox money and the greater part of it from outside the province. Another bank took in $60,000 in a week most of it from New Brunswick. One county branch bank in Prince County, among the fox ranches, has more cash on deposit than the local head office, and all this from the fox business. We have it on good authority that in Prince County alone half a million dollars changed hands during the past summer for foxes and that at least two thirds of it came from outside the province. We understand that his year the addition to the provincial income tax, as a result of the fox business will be about $10,000.

A business that in so short a time has arisen to such proportions is surely worth talking about, worth promoting and worth letting the world know about.

Now, as to the value placed upon silver foxes. Five thousand dollars for a little black fox seems an exorbitant price, extravagant, risky and all that. But in foxes, as in other investments, the cost is exorbitant or the reverse in proportion to the returns. We have an authentic record for a single female black fox which in seven years produced forty-five descendants which lived and were sold. These at the prices ruling today would be worth $250,000, a pretty liberal return in seven years for an investment of $10,000 for a pair.

At a meeting of fox ranches a few days ago, Hon. Charles Dalton made the statement, and submitted his books to prove it that in 1910 he shipped to the London fur market between forty and fifty skins. For these he received an average of $270 each, or $13,500. Moreover, of all the skins that brought over $100 Mr. Dalton had sixty per cent. This fact alone, with the other equally significant fact, that of all the black foxes in captivity in the world, 85 per cent. are in Prince Edward Island, goes to show that Prince Edward Island may safely be regarded as the natural
