To Keep Young.

Keep in the sunlight; nothing beautiful or sweet grows or ripens in the darkness.

Avoid fear in all its varied forms of expression; it is the greatest enemy of the human race. Avoid excesses all kinds; they are injurious.
The long life must be a temperate, regular life.

Don't live to eat, but eat to live.
Many of our ills are due to over-eating, to eating the wrong things, and to irregular eating.

Don't allow yourself to think on your birthday that you are a year older and so much nearer the end.

Never look on the dark side; take sunny views of everything; a sunny thought drives away the shadows.

Be a child; live simply and naturally, and keep clear of entangling alliances and complications of all kinds.

Cultivate the spirit of contentment; all discontent and dissatisfaction bring a thousand arrows prematurely to the face.

Form a habit of throwing off before going to bed at night all the cares and anxieties of the day—everything which can possibly cause mental wear and tear or deprive you of rest.

all this. Relief comes, and at once, while future attacks are warded off, leaving the afflicted one in a state of peace and happiness he once believed he could never enjoy. Inexpensive and sold almost everywhere.

Confusing Results That Enue From Reading Magazine and Newspaper Stories About What to Eat and What Not to Eat.

My Dear Elsa—I have such a good joke on Dick. You know, the dear boy was recently hunting in Canada, and just before he started for home I received this telegram: "Am bringing on the best cook in America. Get ready the fatted calf."

Well, dear, you know how excited I was at the prospect of acquiring such a domestic prize, for between you and me I had reached a state when anything that could cook potatoes was a blue ribbon winner. And my neighbors were almost as excited over the "find" as myself.

In a few days Dick came breezing in, and following after him in a shuffling fashion appeared a woman without a hat, attired in a bright red sweater, a yellow skirt and necktie. Closer view elicited the fact that she was a full blooded Indian squaw. I bore the shock of the discovery "manfully" for Dick's sake, merely inquiring her name.
"Gwendolyn," he replied, "and she's the finest cook in America, and, so to speak, we own her."

Trying to feel hopeful about our recently acquired possession, I introduced Gwendolyn to Nora, our second girl, and then initiated her into the mysteries of the kitchen. Next day Gwendolyn took hold in good earnest, and, feeling secure in the culinary ability of my prize, I invited several of our nearest friends in to have dinner. Time passed, and the assembled guests expectantly awaited dinner—assembled and waited. At last, with some misgivings, I sought the kitchen, and as I opened the door a most alarming volume of smoke greeted me. I returned to the dining room with the report that it might be all right, but Gwendolyn didn't seem to understand the use of coal exactly. She had built a kind of bonfire on top of the range. I refrained from looking at Dick during the recital.

Well, Elsa, dear, there was a long and ominous pause. Then the door swung open and Nora entered with the largest tureen I own in her hands. She set it down in front of Dick with a thump and a swash.

"It's for you to serve it," said she.
"It ain't soup; it ain't roast; it's Injun stew, and I'm leaving this place tomorrow."

Nora retired. It was evident she was emotionally stirred.

"Dick," I cried appealingly, "what is it?"
Dick gingerly removed the tureen cover and ladled forth a conglomerate mixture. The dinner was in the soup, literally and entirely, from oysters to cheese, while the sirloin roast appeared ignominiously cut into chunks swimming in the midst. A shout went up from the company, and in a chorus we gasped:

"Why did you think she could cook?"
"Why," explained Dick, "you just ought to have tasted the ducks she roasted for us. Hung 'em up by the necks, you know, and turned them round and round. George, they melted in your mouth! They were wonderful.
We drew lots, the fellows and I, to see who should bring her home with us. I can't understand how she made this mess."

"Dick," I laughingly interrupted,
"what else did she cook for you?"
"Well, if you had tasted those ducks you would have said that was enough."
"What did we do for dinner? We phoned for a taxi and beat it to the nearest good hotel for a square meal." Dick? Well, he hasn't complained about any of the awful things served up to us by ladies of various countries and principalities who have reigned in our kitchen since the departure of his rara avis.

I'm afraid you are heartily tired of the "eats" subject, but while on the warpath doesn't it make you tired the advice one gets from magazine and newspaper stories on what to eat and what not to eat?

SOME LAMP LORE.
Rub Off Top of Wick Daily With Soft Paper.

Despite the reign of the electrol-ler, the lamp still has many followers.
Many take to lamps because they must, some because the light it sheds is softer, more becoming and better for the eyes.

When a lamp fails to give a good light do not waste time reviling the manufacturer, but look to your own duties.

Perhaps the wick is crooked or too short or not in squarely. Rub off the top of the wick each day with soft paper and if it fails to draw pull it up on the catches or get a new one. Unless sure you can put in the wick correctly send the lamp to a store and have it done properly.

Perhaps a new wick is less necessary than removing the oil with which it is clogged. Boil the wick in vinegar and water and dry thoroughly.

Fill your lamps daily. Never light a lamp that is nearly empty, as it increases danger of explosion. Fill a lamp by daylight. If it must be done after dark keep away from a flame and wipe all oil from the outside.

Even with the best oil a poor light results if the burner is not clean. It should be washed once a month in a quart of cold water to which have been added a tablespoonful of washing soda and a little soap. Boil several hours, pour off the blackened water, cover with fresh boiling water, soap and soda, boil five minutes, rinse in clean hot water and rub dry with a clean soft cloth that is not linty.

Lamp chimneys may be rubbed off with soft paper daily and when smoked should be washed in hot ammonia water, rinsed in cold water and polished with a tea towel and soft paper.

WINTER BREAKFASTS.
What to Serve at the Morning Meal
These Cold Days.

Perhaps because of the energy of the cereal distributors the American breakfast table is discarding meats and hot breads and substituting fruits and grains.

- Here are menus for half a dozen breakfasts where heavy meats are omitted. These may not exactly suit any housekeeper, but will serve to remind her of certain foods and suggest ways of varying this somewhat monotonous meal:
- I. Grapefruit. Wheat Cereal With Dates. Salt Codfish, Creamed. Baked Potatoes. Boston Brown Bread. Coffee.
  - II. Hot Baked Apples. Corn Cereal. Broiled Bacon. Rye Muffins. Coffee.
  - III. Oatmeal With Prunes. Cottage Pie. Toast. Coffee.
  - IV. Bananas. Hominy or Corn Mush. Poached Eggs on Toast. Coffee.
  - V. Cracked Wheat or Graham Mush. Stewed Rhubarb. Broiled Finnan Haddock. Muffins. Coffee.
  - VI. Oranges. Creamed Chicken on Toast. Fried Hominy With Sirup. Coffee.

There is no more effective vermifuge on the market than Miller's Worm Powders. They will not only clear the stomach and bowels of worms, but will prove a very serviceable medicine for children in regulating the infantile system and unstimulating it. A healthy condition. There is nothing in their composition that will injure the most delicate stomach when directions are followed, and they can be given to children in full assurance that they will utterly destroy all worms.

THE ROSE COMB WHITE LEG-HORN.

Our Canadian cousins up there where the zero winds whistle through their whiskers sure show horse sense when they breed Rose Comb White Leghorns in quantities, for they are great winter layers, and that low rose comb can't freeze off like the tender points on the single comb, a condition that so often knocks the egg record.

But our friends of the snowdrift land are not the only fanciers wise to this bird that matures so early and lays so late, for it is claimed there are 5,000 breeders of this variety in the United States, and the number is increasing. But whence that rose comb?
That rose comb comes from the Hamburg as the result of a cross made in this country about fifty years ago, the Single Comb White Leghorn and White Hamburg being used, thus the Rose Comb White, which is half Italian and half Dutch.

At first the bird wasn't very popular, as it was small and had a big bunched comb that lopped over the eyes; but, coming from such remarkable laying ancestry on both sides, the new variety was bound to make good, and fanciers soon began to sit up and take notice that it was an egg phenomenon.

Its friends increased; they bred it by selection for size, shape and smaller, more regular comb, so that today it is a beautiful bon ton bird that lays lots of eggs—low cost eggs.

The larger the hen the larger the feed bill and the cost of the egg and the more room she occupies. For these reasons Plymouth Rocks and similar breeds are not the stock on the big egg plants, Leghorns being bred almost exclusively.

Of course the carcass is not so large, but it must be remembered that the Leghorn is an egg specialist.

She makes a good profit for her owner without her carcass being considered, and if bred to great size her laying ability is cut down.

Leghorns are not the butterfly birds they once were, the breeder by selection now trying to get his pullets to four and cockerels to five pounds at least, and for fine grained flesh these are not to be despised.
