MARK TWAIN'S DESCRIPTION OF HIS INVENTION:

HARTYORP, Monday Evening.

Mr Dear Shore I have invented and patented a new Serap Book not to make money out of it. but to conomize the profamity of this country. You knew that when the average man wants of put something in his scrap book he can time his paste-then he awers or if he finds it, it is dried so hard that it is only fit to cat—then he awers or if he finds it, it is dried so hard that it is notly fit to cat—then he awers of the uses muciage it mingles with thoink, and next sear he can't read his scrap—the result is larried and barried of profan-tiv. This can all he saved and devoted to other irritating things where it will do more real and latents good, simply by substituting my self-pasting Serap Book for the old fashlened energy.

If Mears Slote Woodman & Co. wish to publish this Scrap Book of mine. I shall be willing. You see by the above paragraph that it is a sound moral work, and this will commend it to edit or and elergymen, and in fact to all right freding people. If you want testimonials I can get them and of the best sort and from the best people. If of the most refined and cultivated count lattles in liaritory daughter of a chrywnan cold me berself with grateful team standing in here we that done she began using my busing blook sine has not swon a single oath.

Truly yours,

Truly yours, MARK TWAIN.
