

assess their full impact. Hence, there will be a continuing need at both the public and private sector levels to monitor developments in the EC, not only within the Europe 1992 program, but also in its external relations, notably the multilateral trade negotiations.