

INDEX TO FIRST LINES

	PAGE		PAGE
A King lived long ago	236	Give her but a least excuse to love me!	231
Ah, did you once see Shelley plain .	317	Grand rough old Martin Luther .	428
Ah, Love, but a day	597	Grow old along with me!	614
Ah, my Giacinto, he's no ruddy rogue	858	Gr-r-r—there go, my heart's abhor-
All I believed is true!	412	rence!	277
All June I bound the rose in sheaves	310
All service ranks the same with God	220	Had I but plenty of money, money
All's over, then: does truth sound		enough and to spare	286
bitter.	281	Had I God's leave, how I would
All that I know	301	alter things!	883
Among these latter busts we count		Hamelin Town's in Brunswick . .	430
by scores.	453	Heap cassia, sandal-buds and stripes	60
Another day that finds her living yet	711	"Heigho," yawned one day King
Answer you, Sirs? Do I under-		Francis	414
stand aright?	795	Here's the garden she walked
As I ride, as I ride	274	across	275
"As like as a Hand to another		Here's to Nelson's memory! . . .	275
Hand!"	601	Here was I with my arm and heart	610
Ay, do! push, friends, and then		Here where the end, had anything
you'll push down me!	352	an end:	975
Beautiful Evelyn Hope is dead! . .	282	Hist, but a word, fair and soft! .	318
Boot, saddle, to horse, and away! .	272	How very hard it is to be	522
But do not let us quarrel any more .	551	How well I know what I mean to do	302
But give them me, the mouth, the eyes, the brow!	635	I am a goddess of the ambrosial courts	536
Christ God who savest man, save		I am a painter who cannot paint .	230
most	409	I am just seventeen years and five Cleon the poet, (from the sprinkled		months old	828
isles,	573	I am poor brother Lippo, by your
Come close to me, dear friends;		leave!	545
still closer; thus!	18	I could have painted pictures like that youth's.	543
Day! Faster and more fast	217	I dream of a red-rose tree	314
Dear and great Angel, wouldst thou		I hear a voice, perchance I heard .	35
only leave	316	I know a Mount, the gracious Sun
Dear, had the world in its caprice .	312	perceives	578
Do you see this Ring?	665	I leaned on the turf	599
		I only knew onc poet in my life .	535
Escape me?	312	I said—Then, dearest, since 't is so	429
Eyes, calm beside thee, (Lady,		I say, if he be here—.	86 could'st thou know!)	17	I send my heart up to thee, all my heart	422
Fear death?—to feel the fog in my		I sprang to the stirrup, and Joris,
throat	634	and he	273
Fee, faw, fum! bubble and squeak!	451	I've a Friend, over the sea	417
Fortù, Fortù, my beloved one . . .	419	I will be quiet and talk with you .	598
		I wish that when you died last May	634
		I wonder do you feel to-day. . . .	308