fide of the river is nearly perpendicular, the west side more sloping. In former times a part of the rock at the Fall which is on the west side of the island, hung over in such a manner, that the water which fell perpendicularly from it, left a vacancy below, so that people could go under between the rock and the water; but the prominent part some years fince broke off and fell down; fo that there is now no possibility of going between the falling water and the rock, as the water now runs close to it all the way down. - The breadth of the Fall, as it runs into a semicircle, is reckon'd to be about 6 Arpents. The island is in the middle of the Fall, and from it to each fide is almost the same breadth: the breadth of the island at its lower end is two thirds of an Arpent, or thereabouts. --- Below the Fall in the holes of the rocks, are great plenty of Eels, which the Indians and French catch with their hands without other means; I sent down two Indian boys, who directly came up with about twenty fine ones. Every day, when the Sun shines, you see here from 10 o'clock in the morning to 2 in the afternoon, below the Fall, and under you, when you fland at the fide over the Fall, a glorious rainbow and fometimes two rainbows, one within the other.
