Some miscreant, taking advantage of the street railway strike, has been trying to hold-up a number of the local retail merchants. His game is to call on the merchants and represent himself as a collector for the street railway strikers' committee. He usually makes a modest demand for $5 a week or more, to be paid to him for the men, and accompanies the demand with a threat that unless the money is forthcoming the dealers will be boycotted by every union in the city. So far as the committee has been able to learn the fellow has not yet succeeded in bleeding anybody, though several merchants have comattempts have been made to hold them The committee wishes to warn the public against such imposters, and hereafter all authorized collectors will carry a letter from the committee, stamped with the seal of the associa-

consist of 20,000 men armed with Mauser rifles, in addition to 46 quick-firing guns, and 1,000 artillerymen, most of them drawn from the German and Dutch armies. With these troops, and help expected from the Orange Free State, Joubert expects to take the offensive immediately after the declara-tion of war, enter the Orange Free State and march on Kimberley, the British diamond mining center in West Griqualand, and which forms four of the 70 divisions of Cape Colony. Kimberley is about 100 miles northwest of Bloemfontein.
