Republican Leaders Arrested For Giving Aid and Comfort To Foe.

Fox of New Haven, Conn., today, before the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, continued his arguments in opposition to the Mason bill, which States of the Irish republic to the extent of sending consular and diplo-matic representatives. He declared that the reason Irish republican leaders had been imprisoned was that they had given aid and comfort to the enemy

Mr. Fox attacked the statement that upwards of 20.000,000 Americans of Irish blood were asking recognition of the republic, declaring that the 1910 census showed only 600,000 males in the United States who were born in Ireland.

He said that at least some Roman Catholics had an "utter contempt" for the Sinn Feiners, who were backing the republican government. If a vote were taken in Ireland with illiterates barred from the polls, he asserted the result would be overwhelmingly against the Sinn Fein government.

Walsh when he turned towards a group at the hearing and said that during the war "this man was thinking to help Germany." He was referring to another man in the room, but did not mention his name in his testimony. "Fox did not turn to me, nor did he look in my direction," said Mr. Walsh today. "I was sitting almost directly behind him. My record during the war was a public one, and the president, accepting my resignation after the armistice, recited the character and extent of the service rendered to the Government during the war."
