

Marked Strength Exhibited By Some of the Cobalt Issues

Ophir and Foster Make Good Advances—Other Stocks Are Firm —Better Market Expected.

While market strength has been exhibited by some of the Cobalt issues during the past few days, it is apparent, on comparison of to-day's prices with those of last Saturday that few material price changes have occurred during the week. The bullish feeling occasioned by reports of rich strikes on the several properties, has carried two of the listed stocks up to considerably above their former levels, but with these exceptions, and possibly a few minor circumstances, quotations stand to-day about on a par with last

Last Friday's quotations. This issue is very closely held and little of the stock appeared to be in the market, even at the high level reached.

Poste Coblenz has been in good demand since the opening of business on Tuesday last. Reports of a rich strike on the company's property in the Rhine district early in the week, and later despatches indicating that the find had been, if anything, underestimated. The last figure reached by the stock was 100, and the quotations were at 100, and the shares close only slightly lower. As was to be expected

In the higher priced issues some weakness developed in La Rose early in the week, brought about by profit taking, declining nearly forty points from last week's high. It recovered and sold back above the recent level, closing to-day at the high tendency. On the whole, a lower tendency has also been apparent in the other high priced securities, but no material decline occurred, and these issues close about unchanged from last week. for a better run of prices later in the season. A number of the local traders are out of the city at this holiday season, and the market remains at times in control of the market. It added to the general lack of outside
