

KITCHENER'S ARMY ABOUT TO TAKE THE FIELD

Mighty Effort Soon by the Allies—Facts That Point That Way—Germans in West in Funk and Have No Hope of Reaching Calais

(Toronto Star.) Kitchener's army is about to take the field. The address by the Secretary of War leaves little doubt on that point. Lord Kitchener plainly intimated that very large numbers of men would be needed from now on to make good the casualties at the front. And in effect he stated that the millions of men already recruited are fully equipped and able to equip men as fast as they enlist. That the faulty system that has delayed the general offensive effort of the allies on the western front has been reformed and that the period of blundering so often permitted by the easy-going good nature of the British people has been brought to a close. Hitherto recruits have been forthcoming in Britain as freely as they could be absorbed by the training department.

Mighty Effort Soon to Be Made by the Allies

The general military situation is still considered serious by K. of B. and he warns us that we are in for a long war.

TODAY'S RECRUITS

Corporal Hyatt Now in Charge at Mill Street Station

While on another page of today's Times will be found a list of names given by men who called at the recruiting offices of the city yesterday, volunteering for the 60th, only six were passed today by the examining medical officer.

Up to noon only seven others had presented themselves for examination, and these failed to pass satisfactorily all the tests. That would leave more than fourteen others still to be accounted for, but the presumption was that they would make their appearance later in the day. The list as given in another column shows the names of twenty-seven who offered themselves as volunteers. Some new names appear in today's lists.

The roll of honor gives the names of six recruits taken by Corp. F. Hyatt at the offices in Mill street today—Charles Duffy, Harold Chamberlain, John Duff, Harold Wilcox, of St. John, G. Farmer, of London, Eng., and E. W. Spence, of St. George, N. B. These will go forward tonight. Some of the others who presented themselves were: Chas. Allen, Liverpool, Eng.; James W. Boyd, John Booth, of St. John; John McDonald, of Havelock, and Arthur J. Daley, of Miramichi, N. B.

Serg. F. W. London, who has been attending to the recruiting work here for some time past, was relieved today by Corp. Hyatt and returned Sussex at noon.

REFUGEE FROM TURKISH HARBOR AT TONIGHT

"The Morals of Marcus" at Imperial Theatre tonight introduces still another refugee from the picture-loving port of St. John in Miss Marie Doro, who is rated one of the leading exponents of the dramatic art on the international stage today. Miss Doro will be supported by Eugene Ormande, Ida Darling, Julian LeFrange, Russell Bassett, Phyllis Carrington and other prominent players.

"The Morals of Marcus" is a novel by William J. Locke afterwards done into a play and now to be seen in pictures. The development of the plot unfolds one of the most delightful love stories the stage has produced in years. Comedy is predominant, but there are pathetic moments which counterbalance the production most charmingly. Miss Doro assumes the role of Carolina, a refugee from Turkish Harbors and the whole plot and story is unique and fascinating.

TO BUILD SUBMARINE FOR SPANISH NAVY

Contract Entered Into by Fore River Works

Quincy, Mass., July 14—A contract for a 700-ton submarine for the Spanish navy, with all the latest equipment, has been closed by the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation. Construction will start at once.

The Spanish submarine will have a speed of eighteen knots, will be equipped with twelve torpedoes and will respond to the M. type of submarines, now building for the United States Navy.

This is the first order in many years received by a United States shipbuilding company from the Spanish government. This action on the part of Spain is a strong indication that she intends to follow out the lines of the European powers. The new submarine is expected to cost somewhere within $1,000,000.

She is expected to have a radius of about seven hours. She is well equipped with one of the new "deck guns," which will be so mounted as to disappear quickly when the boat is diving or submerged. Her directable torpedo tubes can be placed at many angles with the center line without interfering with the course of the boat.

MET THE THREE DYKEMAN BOYS

Captain O. A. Flewelling of Oak Point has been met from his son, Ernest A. Flewelling of the Divisional Ammunition Column, an interesting description of life aboard the steamer Caledonia on her trip to England, as well as an intimate study of their camp life on the front. The boys are about seventy-five miles from the firing line, but could get there in about seven hours. He is well and wished to be remembered to his friends. He met several St. John boys at the front, including the three Dykeman brothers from Carleton.

Young Flewelling volunteered for home duty last fall, giving up his position with the St. John Railway Co., and in December he was ordered to the front. He had been corporal on Partridge Island but gave up the stripes in order to go to the front.

Von Hindenburg Counsel Peace, Was Ordered Out by Kaiser and Lost His Place

Paris, July 14—A neutral traveler, here from Germany, says the best informed persons in Germany believe that Von Hindenburg has told the Kaiser that the war has reached its climax for Germany, and as no greater advantage could be expected, it would be well to seek peace and prevent needless butchery. The Kaiser is said to have ordered Von Hindenburg to be silent and to leave the present peace negotiations. The American embassy in London has issued an order giving General Mecklenburg Von Hindenburg's place. TIMES MAN AT VALCARTIER

(Continued from page 1.) Of course he will not go to Berlin. Just a word about Col. Ryan, I have talked with the men of the 6th, and they describe him in six words—"He gives us a square deal." No more need be said. Where he goes, these men will follow. Col. Ryan was on the train from St. John on Saturday evening. He had been home on a sad mission, his mother's death just a few hours before he had expected to meet her at Quebec, having been so much more terrible a shock because so utterly unexpected. The rest of the family came over to St. John with Col. Ryan, and while he came to Valcartier he proceeded on the sad interrupted journey to California.

This letter is written in Lieut. Brown's tent. Lieut. Brown also came through from St. John Saturday night. Under his guidance there was no trouble in getting from Point Levis across to the Canadian Northern station and on to Valcartier. He placed his tent at my disposal, and here I slept last night, after dinner at the officers' mess—and slept as soundly as any man at Valcartier. I am not sure as to the significance of the fact that a sentry paced back and forth past the tent all night, and another is there now. A sergeant says it is one of their regular beats, and the sentry would be there anyhow. He may be right. At all events, I am not going to try to run away for a day or two, for the camp grips you, and if you are old you wish you were young again and able to get the game.

A battery of artillery has just passed, the officers on spirited mounts, and all
