

FLAG RAISING MARKS OFFICIAL HOTEL OPENING

It is not unlikely a short river trip may be taken before this week's festivities are over simply to exhibit the possibilities of the scenic stream as a rural hotel location.

BUSY PLACE TODAY.

Everything is hustle and bustle throughout the eight floors of the Admiral Beatty today. Perhaps the greatest activity is in the kitchen and banquet quarters, where Chief Calame and his white-capped staff are busy roasting, stewing, baking and freezing the delicious viands to be spread before the banqueters at the Shareholders' Party of 200 covers on this opening night.

The lounge and lobbies are alive with strangers and local people. It is heartening to city people interested in the development of tourist traffic enterprises to see cars heading strange number plates parked opposite the hotel entrance and to chat with these visitors in the hotel. Everybody seems to like it with the new phase of Saint John life as introduced by the Admiral Beatty.

This afternoon from 2 to 6 the general public is being invited to inspect the eight floors of the house, and it was expected a continuous procession of people would take advantage. Thousands have already inspected the hotel.

PRESIDENT PLEASED.

Hon. Frank A. Dudley, president of the United Hotels Company, Limited, told The Times-Star today that he is very much pleased with the spirit exhibited by Saint John people toward the Admiral Beatty as an added link with the larger cities and with allied American interests. He feels this bond of hotels will solidify more than ever the Canadian-American Entente.

MEANS MILLIONS.

A live campaign to advertise the remarkable physical attractions of New Brunswick would mean a tourist business increase of from $5,000,000 to $5,000,000 a year is what the president of the United Hotels said was most needed just now.
