ROMANCE IN GRAIN OF SALT
Boston, March 7.—There is a lot of romance wrapped up in a grain of salt. John Mills of New York, addressing the Eastern Association of Physics Teachers, told about it.

"Common salt," he said, "the sodium chloride of the chemists, is made up of two atoms, one of sodium and one of chlorine. The sodium atom has one planetary electron too many to suit it. Chlorine, on the other hand, has one electron too few for its comfort."

The two atoms meet, the physicist continued, and allow their affinity to assert itself. "So they join forces and become sodium chloride, and in their new arrangement each has its own electron arranged around it naturally, with the particular electron in question occupying a place of honor from which it could not well be spared."

To give an idea of the comparative size of electrons and atoms Mr. Mills pictured a cube of ordinary air three-eighths of an inch on each side as stretched out until one edge would reach from New York to Cleveland.

Then every foot along the way there would be a molecule, but no one could see it because there would be only a few tiny specks, each one of them only one one-hundredth thousandth of an inch across, and moving at a tremendous velocity.

FORECAST OF THE SPEECH FROM THRONE

No Pronouncement of Government's Policy re Grand Falls Development or Prohibition Expected.

(By Canadian Press.)
Fredericton, N. B., March 7.—The speech from the throne at the opening of the Provincial Legislature here tomorrow, it was forecast today, will not make any definite pronouncement in respect to the Government's policy as to the development of the Grand Falls.

The matter, as well as that of general hydro electric development, will occupy a position of importance in the speech, but the Government's policy will not be announced until later.

It was also said today there will be no reference to the speech to the Prohibition Act and its enforcement.

This, it was pointed out this morning, is accounted for by the fact that Premier Veniot, stated in his manifesto when he assumed office that a supreme effort would be made to enforce the Prohibition Act.
