LOCAL NEWS

MARRIAGES AND BIRTHS.
Eight marriages and twenty-four births—sixteen boys and eight girls—were reported to the registrar during the week.

DIED IN WYOMING.
Mrs. W. V. Bryson of this city today received word of the death of her sister, Mrs. Thomas Doody of Cheyenne, Wyoming. She leaves to mourn besides her husband, four sons and four daughters. Mrs. Doody was a daughter of the late Francis Boudreau of Bathurst.

PROBATE COURT.
In the probate court before Judge McInerney yesterday, in the matter of the estate of Mrs. Dora A. Ingram, widow, who died leaving four small children, William E. Wolfe and Hugh Ingram were appointed administrators. L. P. D. Tilley, K. C., proctor.

AN APPOINTMENT.
J. H. King, a returned soldier, has been appointed district representative of the provincial agricultural department for Albert, Westmorland and Kent counties, to succeed E. M. Taylor, who has been appointed specialist on soils and fertilizers for the province.

THIRTY-FOUR DEATHS.
Thirty-four deaths were reported to the board of health during the week as follows:—Pneumonia, eight; influenza, five; broncho pneumonia, six; scarlet fever, three; endocarditis, consumption, premature birth and senility, two each; mania, meningitis, peritonitis, cerebral hemorrhage, cardiac asthma, fracture of skull and cardiac angina, each one.

ASSIGNED PAY COMES EARLIER.
Checks for the assigned pay of members of the C. E. F. have been arriving in the city this week. As the checks usually do not arrive until about the end of the month, this evidently is a thoughtful act on the part of the authorities in Ottawa to make sure that the soldiers' families will have sufficient funds to celebrate the first peace Christmas in a fitting manner.

MRS. SARAH J. EMERY.
Friends will learn with sincere regret of the death of Mrs. Sarah J. Emery, widow of Wm. Emery, who passed away at an early hour today at her home, 66 Thorne avenue, after a short illness. She leaves three sons, Harold and Earle at home, and William of Winnipeg, also her mother, four brothers and four sisters, to mourn their sad loss.

NOVELTY SHOWER.
About thirty friends of Miss Helen P. Clarke assembled at her home on Thursday evening and tendered her a novelty shower in honor of an interesting event to take place in the near future. Miss Clark received a beautiful array of cut glass, silver, linen, etc. After a pleasant evening spent in dancing and games, refreshments were served and the party departed with best wishes for her future happiness.

LOYD GEORGE ROUNDLY SCORES AN ELEMENT IN THE LABOR PARTY
extremists, but by the great trades unions. Arthur Henderson, interviewed, said that nobody knew better than Mr. Lloyd George that the Labor party in conjunction with the trade union congress was the only party representing organized workers. There was no evidence in proof of Lloyd George's assertion that the Labor party were the "sheep" of the party. On the contrary, Mr. Henderson said, he could produce ample evidence that the Labor party sought as earnestly as he for the triumph of democratic principle.

Ramsay MacDonald, speaking at Leicester, said that if the canvass and other indications could be relied upon his victory was absolutely certain. A Bolshevik, John McLean, made his first appearance in Glasgow yesterday, and in an impassioned speech said he was the standard bearer of his class in the great fight against capitalism.

Ballooning for the election of Parliament is in progress throughout Great Britain today. The Daily Express estimates that his government will win seats, the Nationalists 210 and the Liberals 125, while the opposition parties including Labor will secure 272, giving the prime minister a majority of 163.

Women have been active in the electioneering. There is intense rivalry between Mrs. Lloyd George and Mrs. McKenna, wife of a former chancellor of the exchequer, who is staunch supporter of former Premier Asquith.

Premier Lloyd George has conducted a vigorous campaign in South Wales, violently attacking McKenna in the latter's own constituency and McKenna in reply criticising the prime minister.

Hacked by Soldiers.
At Hitchin Lord Robert Cecil was heckled by soldiers. He said the government did not hurry the election to escape the soldiers' vote.

The reform of the house of lords will be one of the tasks undertaken by the coalition ministry if returned to power in the election taking place in the United Kingdom today, said Chancellor Bonar Law yesterday in Glasgow. He said that they believed that a second chamber with adequate strength was necessary in any democratic country, but it was not intended that it should be a hereditary chamber.

The chancellor further said that the coalition government intended to give the new upper house the strength that could alone come from direct access to the people. He reiterated his previous announcements that the government would see that the empire's naval safety was not imperilled at the peace conference, and said that he was not afraid of Bolshevism in the United Kingdom.

Women in the Contest.
Miss Elizabeth Asquith admitted in some of her speeches that the electors sometimes made candid remarks about her father, but she added, "he doesn't mind."

Bonar Law's daughter at Glasgow, also took part in the campaign.

Miss Christabel Pankhurst, suffragette, promised that when the woman's regime prevailed in parliament every house, no matter how small, would be lighted, heated and served by electricity. The British parliament would be responsible for the electricity that turned the mangles, cooked the meals and warmed the house. Why should women drag coal scuttles about, she asked, stand over steaming wash tubs, spend hours over old-fashioned ranges which not only ate up coal, but cooked the cooks, when by legislation and electricity the burden of the world could be lifted.

THE MARITIME HOME FOR GIRLS

It Now Contains Forty-eight and Must be Enlarged This Year—Excellent Work Done

Rev. V. M. Parry, financial agent of the Maritime Home for Girls, in Truro, was in the city today. Up to last year this Home had accommodation for only twenty-three girls, but it was last year enlarged to care for forty-nine. As there are now forty-eight in the institution a further enlargement is necessary, and it is understood plans have already been prepared. The cottage plan is adopted. Every girl has her own room, and they are given excellent training, not only in school, but at house-work, gardening, care of poultry and the like, so that on release they are quite different girls from those that entered. The property is worth $40,000, and all paid for. Each of the three provinces gives a grant for the care of girls, and municipalities from which they are sent supplement this, and the major portion of the cost is thus provided for. Miss Strothard, the matron, is most efficient, and the girls are mothered and cared for in the most sympathetic manner, subject to such disciplinary regulations as are necessary in such an institution. The work is most valuable, and many girls who went there because of delinquency are now models of good conduct.

FORMER TIMES MAN SAW END OF WAR IN MONS

Lieutenant of Artillery Writes of Close of Conflict at Front Where British First Met the Huns

Among those who were early in Mons, when that historic town was liberated from the Germans, was Lieut. Frank X. Jennings, a former Times reporter. On the morning of Nov. 11, the day of the armistice, he passed through Mons and saw a scene that he will never forget. He finished at exactly the same point where the British soldiers first met the Germans in 1914. He writes to a friend—"I was told by the people in the house where I slept the evening of Nov. 11 that the first Boche cavalry horse fell immediately in front of their door, killed by a British bullet.

"Our last few days of fighting were more in the nature of triumphal entries. Joyous civilians thronged from their homes and threw flowers to the victorious Canadians and "Vive Angleterre," and "Vive les Canadiens," sounded from all sides. Little girls and women stood in the street with pitchers of beer which they gave the soldiers as they passed. Belgian and French flags blossomed forth from the windows sometimes before the enemy was out of the other end of the village.

He refers to the reports of harsh treatment accorded the British prisoners of war, and says: "We see them every day returning through our lines, some of them showing plainly the effects of their treatment. Many Belgian and French prisoners are also drifting back and pass us in large numbers."

MUST MAKE THE FLAT HABITABLE

Officials Act in Matter of a Brussels Street House

Eight persons in five rooms may not sound so very bad, and as a matter of fact five rooms may be very comfortable quarters for that many people, provided, of course, that the rooms are well lit and heated. But Rev. Mr. Scott, of the Children's Aid Society, in company with Dr. Brown, chief medical health officer for the district, and Inspector McConnell of the local health office, this morning visited a five-room flat which seemed to be the very reverse of comfortable. It was a basement in Brussels street.

To begin with, there was no lock on the door, the knob pulling out of the wood. This was bad enough, but some of the window sashes had been broken out entirely. The place was damp and dark, and it was wonder that everybody there was not sick with cold. After looking over the situation the health officials told the owner that she would have to fix up things a little better or the basement would be boarded up. She will get a few days in which to make the necessary repairs.

RELEASED FROM GERMAN PRISON

E. G. R. Clayton Had Been in Enemy Hands Since June, 1916

J. P. Clayton, superintendent of Fernhill, received a cable from the Canadian Red Cross this morning informing him that his son, Ernest Gerard Ruel Clayton, who has been a prisoner in Germany since June 2, 1916, had arrived in England.

Another son, Joshua S. Clayton, was reported killed in that battle, the third battle of Ypres, which wiped out or wounded nearly all the members of the old 8th C. M. R. from this province. Still another son, Roy E. P. Clayton, is driver for a general of division in France. The family and friends rejoice at the news of the safety of the long-time prisoner in Germany.
