

SIX

THE STAR, ST. JOHN, N. B. TUESDAY, JUNE 2, 1908

WHEN LADY BETTY HELD THE CANDLE.

By ORMOND GRAY.

Copyright, 1908, by Jessie Morgan.

"Jeffrey," said my uncle when he caught me sulking and demanded an explanation, "all women are good at heart, but all women are abominably uncertain. They will go their own way whether we like it or not, and therefore we must put up with their whimsies and make the best of it. If your cousin Betty is capricious, give her to understand that you would rather have her that way than not. Then she will no longer have any desire to keep your head whirling."

"This was one day after Lady Betty had trifled with my love and dignity, and I had gone to Sir Hugh Livingston, the dearest of relatives and the best of patrons to declare that I should at once sail away for Spain and offer my sword as a soldier of fortune. I would depart within a week and as for Lady Betty she might as well be as pleased or displeased as she pleased."

"I think myself that the filly has repented long enough," continued Sir Hugh as he laid a kindly hand on my shoulder, "and that the matter should be dropped over her head. But how do you, Jeffrey, now, do it indeed, let us plan."

"And plan we did. Four days after our planning, the Lady Betty set out for the country seat of the marchioness of Littleton, nine leagues distant, there to tarry for the space of two weeks. Naturally her maid accompanied her, and besides the coachman and footman there were two armed and mounted servants to prevent the knights of the road from coming too close."

"Four days and myself were to follow on horseback two days later, or so it was understood. Scarcely had we waved the coach out of sight when the good man pinched my ear in playful way and said:

"The than veritish thus far without hitch or snag. The adventures of the night will give thee a bride within a month, Jeffrey, the capricious filly is tamed."

"At a o'clock that afternoon, when the coach had reached Featherstone, hardly a mile from the journey, the capricious Lady Betty decided to remain there for the night. At sundown she decided to push on to the White Hart Inn, two leagues farther, saying it would be romantic to ride beneath the stars of the summer night."

"Her great coach had rolled out of the courtyard. The last lady had become a fairy dark, when an uproar suddenly occurred. That the coach had been caused by two pretended highwaymen hired for the occasion, and the two guards should have fired a shot or two at them and then fled, as per orders, but, alas, for our well-laid plans against the maid!"

"Our hired vandals lost their way and did not appear in time and the two that did come forward were genuine members of the profession. Our two thieving fellows were to abduct the Lady Betty and her jewel box and hang on to them until meeting me on Feasting side, and I was then to drive them away in short order, with pistol and rapier and rescue the famed filly for mine."

"In her gratitude and admiration how could she say no when I asked that the marriage day be named, and that there should be no more trifling?"

"Fate ordained that my horse should cast a shoe, and that I should be an hour late at the rescue, and even then it was to learn that the Lady Betty, suspecting my plans, and determined to keep them, had actually remained behind at Featherstone and sent my maid forward in the coach. Sir Hugh and I had planned according to military tactics, but a simple maid had brought our endeavors to naught. This whether had changed and the rain was pouring down, and yet I must ride back to Featherstone and secure cooperation of the maid's story before I could feel at ease. Back I rode to be told that when the coach left the inn Lady Betty had taken to horse to complete her journey by another road."

"If she had accomplished this without adventure, then I would have been a bit of a scoundrel indeed. Fate was waiting to play her a shabby trick, however."

"The highwayman who had stopped the coach on the east road had galloped away to the west by a crossroads, and as she reached this in her ride she fell into their hands. A hunt in the woods, in which they were making a temporary home, was close at hand, and thither they conducted the frightened and lamenting maiden, to shut her up in the back room while they sat down in the front one to eat, drink and make merry over their plunder."

"Plowing my way over the execrable roads amid the twinkling of a light in the forest, and I dismounted and approached on foot. Through the open windows, I heard the tink of men. Passing to the rear of the hut, I drew myself up to a sashless opening and softly called to know if any one was there."

"Thank heaven, 'tis thee, Jeffrey," came the voice of the Lady Betty in prompt response. "I am in the hands of highwaymen and almost dead with fright. Hast thou sword and pistol with thee, dear boy?"

"In truth I have, but as you have oft asserted that the former is but a toy, and the latter a danger, for a youth to experiment with, I know not how such arms can aid you in this emergency."

"Nay, nay, Jeffrey, I may have spoken slightly, but it was only the way of a willful maid. However, if thou hast taken it too much to heart, or if thou doubtest thy courage or skill—"

"Then I was beside her and my arm around her. It was well that I had not remained longer outside. Of a sudden the men in the front room rose up and flung open the door between us, one of them having a starting call in his hand, and at sight of them the girl moaned and covered her face with her hands."

"The ruffians stared for a moment and then drew pistols from their belts. The three of us pulled triggers together, but our powder was damp and there was no explosion. Then one sprang back and possessed himself of their swords, and next moment I was fighting the pair of them."

"I love to look back on that hour. The glance that my sweetheart gave me would have put heart into a coward. She stopped and lifted up the candle and looked into a corner and held it there for the night. At sundown she decided to push on to the White Hart Inn, two leagues farther, saying it would be romantic to ride beneath the stars of the summer night."

"Her great coach had rolled out of the courtyard. The last lady had become a fairy dark, when an uproar suddenly occurred. That the coach had been caused by two pretended highwaymen hired for the occasion, and the two guards should have fired a shot or two at them and then fled, as per orders, but, alas, for our well-laid plans against the maid!"

"Our hired vandals lost their way and did not appear in time and the two that did come forward were genuine members of the profession. Our two thieving fellows were to abduct the Lady Betty and her jewel box and hang on to them until meeting me on Feasting side, and I was then to drive them away in short order, with pistol and rapier and rescue the famed filly for mine."

"In her gratitude and admiration how could she say no when I asked that the marriage day be named, and that there should be no more trifling?"

"Fate ordained that my horse should cast a shoe, and that I should be an hour late at the rescue, and even then it was to learn that the Lady Betty, suspecting my plans, and determined to keep them, had actually remained behind at Featherstone and sent my maid forward in the coach. Sir Hugh and I had planned according to military tactics, but a simple maid had brought our endeavors to naught. This whether had changed and the rain was pouring down, and yet I must ride back to Featherstone and secure cooperation of the maid's story before I could feel at ease. Back I rode to be told that when the coach left the inn Lady Betty had taken to horse to complete her journey by another road."

"If she had accomplished this without adventure, then I would have been a bit of a scoundrel indeed. Fate was waiting to play her a shabby trick, however."

"The highwayman who had stopped the coach on the east road had galloped away to the west by a crossroads, and as she reached this in her ride she fell into their hands. A hunt in the woods, in which they were making a temporary home, was close at hand, and thither they conducted the frightened and lamenting maiden, to shut her up in the back room while they sat down in the front one to eat, drink and make merry over their plunder."

"Plowing my way over the execrable roads amid the twinkling of a light in the forest, and I dismounted and approached on foot. Through the open windows, I heard the tink of men. Passing to the rear of the hut, I drew myself up to a sashless opening and softly called to know if any one was there."

"Thank heaven, 'tis thee, Jeffrey," came the voice of the Lady Betty in prompt response. "I am in the hands of highwaymen and almost dead with fright. Hast thou sword and pistol with thee, dear boy?"

"In truth I have, but as you have oft asserted that the former is but a toy, and the latter a danger, for a youth to experiment with, I know not how such arms can aid you in this emergency."

"Nay, nay, Jeffrey, I may have spoken slightly, but it was only the way of a willful maid. However, if thou hast taken it too much to heart, or if thou doubtest thy courage or skill—"

"Then I was beside her and my arm around her. It was well that I had not remained longer outside. Of a sudden the men in the front room rose up and flung open the door between us, one of them having a starting call in his hand, and at sight of them the girl moaned and covered her face with her hands."

"The ruffians stared for a moment and then drew pistols from their belts. The three of us pulled triggers together, but our powder was damp and there was no explosion. Then one sprang back and possessed himself of their swords, and next moment I was fighting the pair of them."

"I love to look back on that hour. The glance that my sweetheart gave me would have put heart into a coward. She stopped and lifted up the candle and looked into a corner and held it there for the night. At sundown she decided to push on to the White Hart Inn, two leagues farther, saying it would be romantic to ride beneath the stars of the summer night."

"Her great coach had rolled out of the courtyard. The last lady had become a fairy dark, when an uproar suddenly occurred. That the coach had been caused by two pretended highwaymen hired for the occasion, and the two guards should have fired a shot or two at them and then fled, as per orders, but, alas, for our well-laid plans against the maid!"

"Our hired vandals lost their way and did not appear in time and the two that did come forward were genuine members of the profession. Our two thieving fellows were to abduct the Lady Betty and her jewel box and hang on to them until meeting me on Feasting side, and I was then to drive them away in short order, with pistol and rapier and rescue the famed filly for mine."

GOVERNMENTS LEAD IN NOMINATIONS ONTARIO AND QUEBEC

MONTREAL, June 1.—Nominations took place today throughout the province and resulted in the election of five government candidates by acclamation and contests in the remaining twenty-nine constituencies either between straight Liberals and Conservatives or between Liberals and the National party led by Henri Bourassa. The constituencies in which the elections were held by acclamation were Huntingdon, Sherbrooke, Richmond, St. Sauveur and Gaspé.

At the last general election, 1904, the Conservatives allowed the government to carry fifty seats by default as against five this year. The Conservatives in 1904 elected six out of the twenty-four candidates they placed in the field, and they claim that at the worst they will do as well proportionately next Monday as they did in 1904. The claim is made of course that they will defeat the Gouin government, but non-partisan observers consider the government safe but that the parties will be more evenly divided.

The ruffians stared for a moment and then drew pistols from their belts. The three of us pulled triggers together, but our powder was damp and there was no explosion. Then one sprang back and possessed himself of their swords, and next moment I was fighting the pair of them."

"I love to look back on that hour. The glance that my sweetheart gave me would have put heart into a coward. She stopped and lifted up the candle and looked into a corner and held it there for the night. At sundown she decided to push on to the White Hart Inn, two leagues farther, saying it would be romantic to ride beneath the stars of the summer night."

"Her great coach had rolled out of the courtyard. The last lady had become a fairy dark, when an uproar suddenly occurred. That the coach had been caused by two pretended highwaymen hired for the occasion, and the two guards should have fired a shot or two at them and then fled, as per orders, but, alas, for our well-laid plans against the maid!"

"Our hired vandals lost their way and did not appear in time and the two that did come forward were genuine members of the profession. Our two thieving fellows were to abduct the Lady Betty and her jewel box and hang on to them until meeting me on Feasting side, and I was then to drive them away in short order, with pistol and rapier and rescue the famed filly for mine."

"In her gratitude and admiration how could she say no when I asked that the marriage day be named, and that there should be no more trifling?"

"Fate ordained that my horse should cast a shoe, and that I should be an hour late at the rescue, and even then it was to learn that the Lady Betty, suspecting my plans, and determined to keep them, had actually remained behind at Featherstone and sent my maid forward in the coach. Sir Hugh and I had planned according to military tactics, but a simple maid had brought our endeavors to naught. This whether had changed and the rain was pouring down, and yet I must ride back to Featherstone and secure cooperation of the maid's story before I could feel at ease. Back I rode to be told that when the coach left the inn Lady Betty had taken to horse to complete her journey by another road."

"If she had accomplished this without adventure, then I would have been a bit of a scoundrel indeed. Fate was waiting to play her a shabby trick, however."

"The highwayman who had stopped the coach on the east road had galloped away to the west by a crossroads, and as she reached this in her ride she fell into their hands. A hunt in the woods, in which they were making a temporary home, was close at hand, and thither they conducted the frightened and lamenting maiden, to shut her up in the back room while they sat down in the front one to eat, drink and make merry over their plunder."

"Plowing my way over the execrable roads amid the twinkling of a light in the forest, and I dismounted and approached on foot. Through the open windows, I heard the tink of men. Passing to the rear of the hut, I drew myself up to a sashless opening and softly called to know if any one was there."

"Thank heaven, 'tis thee, Jeffrey," came the voice of the Lady Betty in prompt response. "I am in the hands of highwaymen and almost dead with fright. Hast thou sword and pistol with thee, dear boy?"

"In truth I have, but as you have oft asserted that the former is but a toy, and the latter a danger, for a youth to experiment with, I know not how such arms can aid you in this emergency."

"Nay, nay, Jeffrey, I may have spoken slightly, but it was only the way of a willful maid. However, if thou hast taken it too much to heart, or if thou doubtest thy courage or skill—"

"Then I was beside her and my arm around her. It was well that I had not remained longer outside. Of a sudden the men in the front room rose up and flung open the door between us, one of them having a starting call in his hand, and at sight of them the girl moaned and covered her face with her hands."

"The ruffians stared for a moment and then drew pistols from their belts. The three of us pulled triggers together, but our powder was damp and there was no explosion. Then one sprang back and possessed himself of their swords, and next moment I was fighting the pair of them."

"I love to look back on that hour. The glance that my sweetheart gave me would have put heart into a coward. She stopped and lifted up the candle and looked into a corner and held it there for the night. At sundown she decided to push on to the White Hart Inn, two leagues farther, saying it would be romantic to ride beneath the stars of the summer night."

"Her great coach had rolled out of the courtyard. The last lady had become a fairy dark, when an uproar suddenly occurred. That the coach had been caused by two pretended highwaymen hired for the occasion, and the two guards should have fired a shot or two at them and then fled, as per orders, but, alas, for our well-laid plans against the maid!"

up a gallant fight all along the line. In the legislature recently dissolved there were only twenty-six Liberals in the House of ninety-eight. The Liberal leaders count confidently on a very material increase of strength in the new House. There are 104 members to be elected.

In several constituencies there are three-cornered contests. Organized Labor has many representatives, and Quebec, Ontario constituencies there are Socialist candidates.

Following are the elections by acclamation: Adlington, W. J. Paul, Conservative; Durham East, J. J. Preston, Conservative; Lanark South, Col. Macdonald, Conservative; Muskoka, A. A. Mahaffy, Conservative; Simcoe South, Alex. Ferguson, Conservative; Victoria East, J. H. Carnegie, Conservative.

In Bonaventure County

DALHOUSIE, N. B., June 1.—John Hall Kelly, Liberal, and Dr. William Verge, Conservative, were the candidates nominated today to contest Bonaventure county for the Quebec legislature. Mr. Verge belongs to Quebec city, but is a native of Bonaventure, and is a brother of the late J. Albert Verge of the late N. B. Verge of Halifax. His mother was a daughter of the late Dr. Verge of the late N. B. Verge of Halifax. He was employed by the New Brunswick government at the Acadia speaker in both languages.

Very large meetings will be held in this county from now till election day. The Liberals will win by a large majority. Dr. Lemieux, the Liberal candidate in Gaspé, after addressing his first meeting last week at Newport, was escorted to the next parish by two hundred men. Gaspé will go Liberal by a very large majority.

der of business was suspended. A. H. McGoldrick then moved a resolution of regret on the death of the late Capt. E. E. Van Wart, a harbor master for five years past.

Ald. Ekin seconded the resolution. The committee was asked to report on the resignation of Mr. J. Robertson. The committee then adjourned.

der of business was suspended. A. H. McGoldrick then moved a resolution of regret on the death of the late Capt. E. E. Van Wart, a harbor master for five years past.

Ald. Ekin seconded the resolution. The committee was asked to report on the resignation of Mr. J. Robertson. The committee then adjourned.

der of business was suspended. A. H. McGoldrick then moved a resolution of regret on the death of the late Capt. E. E. Van Wart, a harbor master for five years past.

Ald. Ekin seconded the resolution. The committee was asked to report on the resignation of Mr. J. Robertson. The committee then adjourned.

der of business was suspended. A. H. McGoldrick then moved a resolution of regret on the death of the late Capt. E. E. Van Wart, a harbor master for five years past.

Ald. Ekin seconded the resolution. The committee was asked to report on the resignation of Mr. J. Robertson. The committee then adjourned.

der of business was suspended. A. H. McGoldrick then moved a resolution of regret on the death of the late Capt. E. E. Van Wart, a harbor master for five years past.

Ald. Ekin seconded the resolution. The committee was asked to report on the resignation of Mr. J. Robertson. The committee then adjourned.

der of business was suspended. A. H. McGoldrick then moved a resolution of regret on the death of the late Capt. E. E. Van Wart, a harbor master for five years past.

Ald. Ekin seconded the resolution. The committee was asked to report on the resignation of Mr. J. Robertson. The committee then adjourned.

der of business was suspended. A. H. McGoldrick then moved a resolution of regret on the death of the late Capt. E. E. Van Wart, a harbor master for five years past.

SPORTING MATTERS

MANY ENTRIES FOR INTERSCHOLASTIC SPORTS ON VICTORIA GROUNDS HERE, MYLES UNABLE TO GRANT HALF-HOLIDAY

There is a big field of entries for the interscholastic sports to be held tomorrow afternoon on the Victoria grounds. Rothsey will be represented by a fine team. Field Captain Ted is expected to win the jump and in the runs both Cudlip and Tait should do well. For the local High School Willis and Finley are strong in the runs, and Jennings and Machum are good long distance runners. McDonald is entered in a large number of the events, and it would not be surprising if he landed more than one first place. Through some misunderstanding Moncton entered more than two competitors in the different events. They will likely come to some agreement on the grounds tomorrow with the other teams whereby the best men will be allowed to compete.

Rothsey College has offered a cup for competition. The school winning the sports for three years, not necessarily in succession, will retain full possession of it.

The sports will start at 2:30 o'clock sharp. There will be no delay, so that the Moncton and Fredericton boys can catch their trains. A small admission fee of fifteen cents will be charged.

Principal W. J. S. Myles of the High school, when seen by a Sun reporter last evening, said that no half-holiday could be given and if the track team stayed away from school it would be without the consent of the authorities. Mr. Myles said that he had not the power to grant a holiday. Superintendent Bridges and Chairman Emerson should be consulted about the matter.

Rothsey College objected to holding the sports on Saturday and Wednesday was agreeable to the other schools, so the High school consented.

A. H. A. L. Fairweather has received the following list of entries: 100 yards—Cudlip and Tait, Rothsey; F. Smith and Finley, St. John; Barrs, Kenzie, Milton, Price, Sears and McKee, Fredericton; McKay, MacGibbon, Fredericton.

BASEBALL ST. JOHN LEAGUE GAMES. The game to have been held on the Athletic grounds last evening between the Marathons and Portlands was postponed on account of the weather. The game scheduled for this evening is between the Exmouths and the Clippers and should prove most interesting.

National League Games. At Chicago—Pittsburg, 8; Chicago, 6. At Cincinnati—Detroit, 1; Cincinnati, 3. At St. Louis, 2; Second game—St. Louis, 1; Cincinnati, 0.

At Brooklyn—Philadelphia, 2; Brooklyn, 1. At Boston—Boston, 4; New York, 0. National League Standings.

Chicago, 23; Pittsburg, 14; Cincinnati, 18; St. Louis, 15; New York, 15; Boston, 18; Philadelphia, 18; Brooklyn, 18. Won. Lost. P.C.

Chicago, 23; Pittsburg, 14; Cincinnati, 18; St. Louis, 15; New York, 15; Boston, 18; Philadelphia, 18; Brooklyn, 18. Won. Lost. P.C.

Chicago, 23; Pittsburg, 14; Cincinnati, 18; St. Louis, 15; New York, 15; Boston, 18; Philadelphia, 18; Brooklyn, 18. Won. Lost. P.C.

Chicago, 23; Pittsburg, 14; Cincinnati, 18; St. Louis, 15; New York, 15; Boston, 18; Philadelphia, 18; Brooklyn, 18. Won. Lost. P.C.

Chicago, 23; Pittsburg, 14; Cincinnati, 18; St. Louis, 15; New York, 15; Boston, 18; Philadelphia, 18; Brooklyn, 18. Won. Lost. P.C.

Chicago, 23; Pittsburg, 14; Cincinnati, 18; St. Louis, 15; New York, 15; Boston, 18; Philadelphia, 18; Brooklyn, 18. Won. Lost. P.C.

Chicago, 23; Pittsburg, 14; Cincinnati, 18; St. Louis, 15; New York, 15; Boston, 18; Philadelphia, 18; Brooklyn, 18. Won. Lost. P.C.

Chicago, 23; Pittsburg, 14; Cincinnati, 18; St. Louis, 15; New York, 15; Boston, 18; Philadelphia, 18; Brooklyn, 18. Won. Lost. P.C.

220 yards dash—O'Brien, Kenzie, Byles, Price, Milton, McKee, and Sears, Moncton; Cudlip and Tait, Rothsey; W. Willis and F. Finley, St. John; Macdonald, MacGibbon, McKay, Fredericton.

400 yards dash—Cudlip and Tait, Rothsey; Ryan, Amherst, Kenzie, Milton, McKee, Sears, Taylor, Moncton; W. Willis and F. Smith, St. John; Dickson and MacGibbon, Fredericton; High Jump—Dickson and MacGibbon, Fredericton; Long Jump—Ryan, Kenzie, MacGibbon, Moncton; F. Smith and P. Finley, St. John; Stairs and Kurling, Rothsey.

Broad jump—R. Smith and W. Willis, St. John; Smallwood, McKee, Sears, Milton, Cummings and Ward, Moncton; Ted and Fawcett, Rothsey; Macdonald, MacGibbon, or McKay, Fredericton.

12-pound hammer throw—Ward, McKee and Cummings, Moncton; Fawcett and Ted, Rothsey; Dickson and McKay, Fredericton; F. Smith and H. Lynch, St. John.

120 yard hurdles—Smallwood, Leen, Trives, Lockhart, Moncton; Stairs and Kurling, Rothsey; R. Smith and H. Lynch, St. John; Macdonald, MacGibbon, or McKay, Fredericton.

12-pound shot put—McKee, McDonald, Fleming, Ward and Melanson, Moncton; Fawcett and Ritchie, Rothsey; W. Willis and F. Smith, St. John; McKay and Dickson, Fredericton.

Pole vault—Leen, Lockhart, Smallwood, Sears and Trives, Moncton; Kurling and Gilbert, Rothsey; R. Smith and D. Leffert, St. John; Macdonald and MacGibbon, Fredericton.

One mile run—Armstrong, Riples, O'Brien, Fleming, Bickham, Weldon and Dunn, Moncton; Ritchie and Alward, Rothsey; A. Machum and E. Jennings, St. John; Dickson, McKay, or Cass, Fredericton.

It is expected a large number of visitors will be present from Rothsey, St. John, Fredericton to witness the sports.

National League Games. At Chicago—Pittsburg, 8; Chicago, 6. At Cincinnati—Detroit, 1; Cincinnati, 3. At St. Louis, 2; Second game—St. Louis, 1; Cincinnati, 0.

At Brooklyn—Philadelphia, 2; Brooklyn, 1. At Boston—Boston, 4; New York, 0. National League Standings.

Chicago, 23; Pittsburg, 14; Cincinnati, 18; St. Louis, 15; New York, 15; Boston, 18; Philadelphia, 18; Brooklyn, 18. Won. Lost. P.C.

Chicago, 23; Pittsburg, 14; Cincinnati, 18; St. Louis, 15; New York, 15; Boston, 18; Philadelphia, 18; Brooklyn, 18. Won. Lost. P.C.

Chicago, 23; Pittsburg, 14; Cincinnati, 18; St. Louis, 15; New York, 15; Boston, 18; Philadelphia, 18; Brooklyn, 18. Won. Lost. P.C.

Chicago, 23; Pittsburg, 14; Cincinnati, 18; St. Louis, 15; New York, 15; Boston, 18; Philadelphia, 18; Brooklyn, 18. Won. Lost. P.C.

Chicago, 23; Pittsburg, 14; Cincinnati, 18; St. Louis, 15; New York, 15; Boston, 18; Philadelphia, 18; Brooklyn, 18. Won. Lost. P.C.

Chicago, 23; Pittsburg, 14; Cincinnati, 18; St. Louis, 15; New York, 15; Boston, 18; Philadelphia, 18; Brooklyn, 18. Won. Lost. P.C.

BUSINESS CARDS

Clifton House

ST. JOHN, N. B.

W. ALLAN BLACK, Prop.

STILL IN BUSINESS.

We deliver dry, heavy Soft Wood and kindling, cut in stove lengths, at $1.00 per load. McNAMARA BROS., Chesley St. Phone 733.

CLOVER FARM DAIRY

Corner Queen & Carmarthen Sts.

Milk Cream, Buttermilk

and Hensley Eggs.

H. M. FLOYD

Call our Telephone 1606.

M. T. KANE,

Dealer in Granite

Opposite Cedar

West St. John.

Telephone Works West 1773.

Eyes Tested Free!

Difficult Repairing Solved.

O. STEWART PATTERSON

65 Brussels Street

THE BOSTON CARRIAGE CO.

Old Factory of Price and Shaw, In-downtown.

New and second Carriages and Sleighs at moderate rates.

Experienced workmen.

Carriages and Sleighs for repairs called for and stored, and delivered free of charge.

TO LET..

One flat in new six ten-ment house, 15 St. James St. 1 room, modern improvements, electric light,

q.c. Rent $20.00. Ready