For Health And Economy Eat More Bread

TEN cents will feed an ordinary family a day on first class bread. This does not mean ordinary bread. For there is an important difference between ordinary bread and first class bread.

It isn't a difference of looks or methods of making or baking. It is a difference of nutrition, food value, healthfulness. And this food value depends on the flour used. For there is a wide difference between flours.

grade wheat. Now the wheat that goes into OGILVIE'S ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR is of the very highest grade. It contains the highest possible percentage of nutritive value. The makers of "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" maintain expensive laboratories and baking departments where skilled men scientifically analyse each day's milling. None but the very best Red Fyfe wheat—rich in nutrition and healthfulness—can pass.

For this reason bread made from ROYAL HOUSEHOLD FLOUR contains the maximum of food value and furnishes the

Ogilvie's Royal Household Flour

If all flour were the best flour, then all bread, properly made, would be good bread. But all flour is not first class because all wheat is not first class. Wheat, you know, varies in quality almost as much as apples or potatoes; there are as many different grades of wheat as there are grades of butter—or wool.

And every difference in grade represents an actual difference in nourishing value, food elements, wholesomeness. Flour made from a low grade of wheat is by no means so healthful as flour made from high maximum of energy and strength. And for the same reason "ROYAL HOUSEHOLD" makes the finest pies, cakes, biscuits, muffins, rolls, and pastry of all kinds. It is the one flour that a housewife should use in order to have her household baking strictly first class.

MUCH DEPLETED BY SUICIDE

New York, April 30.—The inner circle of Christian Scientists of which Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, the excommunicated leader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, was the centre, has been greatly depleted by death in the last few months.

The recent suicide of Miss Marion Stephens, who, according to her friends, was firm in the belief that she was a victim of the so-called "death thought" exerted by some enemy, has set Christian Scientists talking about nearly a dozen members of the inner circle who have died since last summer, when the machinery of the Mother Church in Boston was set in motion to break the growing influence of Mrs. Stetson here.

The roll of death in the ranks of Mrs. Stetson's former students includes three suicides, and in each instance, it is said, the victims of self-destruction have been obsessed with the belief that some powerful mental influence urged them to end their lives. The first of the inner circle to die by his own act was Henry Pennington Toler, who committed suicide during the winter by plunging into the East River, after having escaped from the asylum on Ward's Island.

Next came the death of Mrs. Lotta Phillips, who, according to the tabulation of the anti-Stetson Scientists, ended her life in an asylum not far from New York about a month ago. She was at one time close to Mrs. Stetson, but is said to have broken away a short time before her death. She used to live in West Ninety-sixth street, not far from Mrs. Stetson's home.

The third suicide was that of Miss Stephens, recorded yesterday.

THIS GIRL SANG HERSELF TO FREEDOM.

Fresno, Calif., April 29.— Ethel Boyakin, aged 16 years, detained in the county jail for alleged incorrigibility, sang herself to freedom. McCormick stated in court that he believed that the girl would win fame as a prima donna if her voice were trained. The court released her.

ASK MARINERS TO AID IN OBSERVATIONS

United States Government Invites Wireless Operators and Navigators to Aid in Studying Comet's Effect.

New York, N. Y., April 27.—Preparations are being made by the United States hydrographic office and all its branches for a series of observations by mariners of phenomena attendant upon the visitation of Halley's comet. A special bulletin has been issued calling on correspondents of the office, wherever they may be to make careful notes of unusual meteorological conditions, the bulletin says:

It is requested that all ship masters who view the comet will inform the United States hydrographic office of the brightness of the object as compared with bright stars in the heavens, the angular length of the tail, comparing the length with the angular distance between bright stars near it, its form and color. To make these observations it is suggested that ship masters use their binoculars, spy-glasses, or the low power eyepiece of their sextants.

Mariners also are especially requested to make careful observations for variations of the needle, which, it is suggested may be affected by the comet. A close watch, the bulletin says, should also be kept for unusual deflections, "noting their exact time, amount, whether periodical, etc."

It is the wireless telegraph, however, which the Hydrographic Office believes may be most affected by the approach and recession of the comet, through electro-magnetic waves being set up by electrical discharges or meteoric particles, in which case, it is said, disturbances would be observed in the receiving apparatus of wireless installations.

"The maximum effect," says the bulletin, "will be observed between the 16th and 20th of May, particularly on May 18. It is requested that wireless operators pay particular attention to static effects during this period, and to note anything unusual. The operator hearing unusual noises in the telephone should note the time and see whether there were any meteorites observed at that time; also note the ship's head and direction of the antennae at the same time. The occurrence of meteorites should be logged by the watch officer, with details of time, size, direction, and duration."

Scattered about the country are many amateur wireless plants, besides those of regularly organized companies doing a commercial business. It is requested that all such operators work in conjunction with the Hydrographic Office, keeping such records as have been suggested to operators on ships.

MONCTON MAN IS INJURED IN SHOPS

Moncton, N. B., April 29.— While working in the I. C. R. turning shop this morning, Bartley McGowan was so badly injured that it will be necessary to amputate the left hand. His hand caught in a lathing machine.
